M'CARL RULING BANS USING OF FURLOUGH CASH

Saving Is Not Available for Retention of Employes.

5-DAY WEEK BACKED BY PERSONNEL GROUP

Issue Left Open in Economy Bill Opinions Given by Comptroller.

By ROBERT C. ALBRIGHT.

Every cent saved from the furlough plan will be held in the Treasury, precluding the use of any part for retention of Federal workers, Comptroller General J. R. McCarl ruled yesterday in one of six simultaneous opinions on the national economy act.

At the same time the council of personnel administration, meeting at the Commerce Department, virtually agreed on the five-day week principle in Government. It mapped a policy on extended furloughs that may forestall wholesale discharges.

The Comptroller's ruling left open the issue of five-day week versus piled-up leave. The council of personnel administration, completing a rough draft of recommendations, decided the short week can not be everywhere applied but favored adoption wherever feasible.

Comptroller's Ruling.

Carrying out the provisions of the economy bill, the Comptroller ruled workers must be furloughed without compensation for one calendar month or for periods aggregating that length of time.

"This means there shall be retained in the Treasury such portions of all appropriations for personal services as will equal the saving thus provided for," he said. "To insure such savings is so required by the enactment."

The opinion was believed to blast hopes for a broad interpretation of the "impounding clause" which might divert part of the savings to the payment of salaries cut short in current appropriations. The original draft of the furlough plan provided such a diversion.

The comptroller's ruling called for semimonthly deduction of 1¼ days' salary from each Federal worker's pay envelope. This is the equivalent of an 8 1-3 per cent pay slash. It will be deducted from each Federal employe earning annually more than $1,000 regardless of whether he has or has not been absent during the period. A proportionate deduction will be made if the pay period is longer or shorter.

A broad field of specific questions at issue, particularly as they affect Government Printing Office employes, were cleared up through the rulings. More are to follow.

Economy Emphasized.

The note of "economy" ran monotonously through the opinions.

"The plain purpose of the enactment is to effect a saving or economy to the Government during the fiscal year 1933, and it must be construed and applied to effectuate that purpose," was the way the comptroller expressed it.

Questions of wide interest definitely ahswered in yesterday's set of opinions were:

1. So-called "superannuated" employes will be allowed to continue in service until they have served the fifteen years necessary to retirement eligibility.

2. Suspension of rights to annual leave with pay during this fiscal year does not affect sick, quarantine or military leave.

3. Employes of the Government Printing Office and others who have accumulated paid leave over the pe-

$500,000 Fire Perils Marietta Business Area

Marietta, Ohio, July 8 (A.P.).—Two buildings were destroyed tonight by fire which for a time threatened Marietta's business section. Total damage was estimated by fire department officials at $500,000. Seven firemen were injured slightly.

Firemen from Parkersburg and Williamstown, W. Va., aided in fighting the blaze, which started in the wholesale department of the Union Hardware Co. Damage to the Union building was placed at $200,000. The flames then engulfed the Huff-Chevrolet salesrooms, causing a loss of $75,000.

Federal Court Upholds Grain Futures Decree

Senate Democrats, In Relief Deadlock, Caucus Again Today

Fail to Leap Solidly Behind Speaker Garner at Party Session; Committee Asks More Time to Effect Compromise on Huge Aid Bill.

By LAWRENCE SULLIVAN.

A caucus of Senate Democrats endeavored valiantly yesterday to step out from under Speaker John N. Garner without giving the impression they were deserting their party's vice presidential candidate on a cardinal point of campaign policy.

The task was too complex to be accomplished in one parliamentary day and so went over to a second party caucus scheduled for today—at which the senators will decide whether to pass the $2,100,000,000 Wagner-Garner relief bill in its present form and send it to a certain presidential veto, or reject Mr. Garner's personal plan for small loans and ask for a new conference with the House.

Either route would pave the way to an immediate beginning on a relief bill acceptable to all parties. The Democratic leaders are seeking the method which will avoid, if possible, any political embarrassment to the Speaker. While they do not minimize the delicacy of such legislative contortions some still were hopeful last night that circumstances would not compel them to put their senatorial heads into the noose with Mr. Garner's.

After failing to leap solidly to the defense of Mr. Garner in their morning deliberations, the Senate caucus appointed a subcommittee of three to discuss matters with the Speaker. Senators Robinson, Wagner and Bulkley waited on Mr. Garner immediately. During a heated two-hour exchange the senators urged him to accept a compromise which might be approved by President Hoover. Mr. Garner's answer was not made public, but his firm refusal was indicated by the fact that the senatorial subcommittee asked for more time to negotiate with the Speaker.

So sharp was the division of opin-

GARNER PLEDGES AID TO TREASURY PROBE

Backs McFadden Resolution for Sweeping Inquiry in House Verbal Tilt.

(Associated Press.)

A sweeping investigation of the Treasury and Federal Reserve System impended last night after a House floor exchange during which Speaker Garner pledged his support for the inquiry.

"The rules committee meets at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning," Garner said yesterday in the midst of debate. "Speaking as I may for the majority, I will request them to bring out the resolution of the gentleman from Pennsylvania, Mr. McFadden, put it on passage and make this investigation."

Representative Michener (Republican), Michigan, was acting as Republican floor leader in the absence of Representative Snell. Mr. Garner asked him if he would help to pass the resolution for the inquiry.

"Yes," replied Mr. Michener, "I think I will."

Mr. Garner later told newspapermen that if an inquiry is ordered the resolution will be drafted to include the Treasury, Comptroller of the Currency and Federal Reserve Board.

The discussion was started by Mr. McFadden (Republican), who in a speech urging action on his resolution of inquiry, reminded Mr. Garner that the latter had said he favored an investigation.

The Speaker was sitting on the Democratic side, listening to the de-

Commons Passes High Tariff on Irish Goods

London, July 8 (A.P.).—The British government today was in effect given powers to levy tariff duties up to 100 per cent on Irish Free State imports in retaliation for default in land annuities due the Bank of England.

The House of Commons passed a measure conveying this power, 222 to 30, on third and final reading, after last week forecasting the procedure in resolution. It was sent to the Lords.

WORLD FLIERS SAFE IN RUSSIAN CRACKUP

Globe Flight Ends in Marsh; Control Trouble Blamed as Salvage Is Planned.

Moscow, July 8 (A.P.).—The globe-circling adventure of James Mattern and Bennett Griffin, which started in New York with a blaze of speed, has come to an abrupt end in western Russia, with only one-third of the flight behind them.

The American pair cracked up their racy monoplane just over the Polish-Russian border, 600 miles east of Berlin, yesterday morning, but word of the mishap was received today.

Neither was seriously injured in the forced landing near Borisov, Russia, 50 miles from Minsk.

Their Century of Progress was believed to have developed control trouble. The pilots probably mistook the lights of Borisov for Moscow, and circled for an emergency landing.

The end came in a peat bog, the most likely place they could find to set the ship down, and she cracked up in the soft surface.

The plane was too badly damaged to proceed. The men spent last night in a hotel at Minsk.

They returned to Borisov today to find out if the ship could be repaired and flown out. If this can not be done, they will salvage as much as possible.

The fliers' luggage was left at Minsk, so they will return there before coming to Moscow. But their

Border Town Flooded After Record Rainfall

Nogales, Ariz., July 8 (A.P.).—Flood waters caused by a virtual cloudburst late today inundated business houses in the main business section of Nogales to a depth of a foot, and continued to rise. Dozens of citizens were recruited to barricade the entrances to various establishments with sacks of sand.

The waters also swirled into Nogales, Sonora, across the line in Mexico. Officers feared a repetition of the disastrous flood of 1930.

BORAH BALKS SENATE VOTE ON BEER PLAN

Bingham Sees "Rescue" of Democrats in Idahoan's Move.

BALLOT, HOWEVER, STILL IS PROBABLE

Rider to Home Loan Bank Bill, Withdrawn, May Be Offered Anew.

By EDWARD T. FOLLIARD.

In the words of Senator Hiram Bingham (Republican), of Connecticut, Senator William E. Borah (Republican), of Idaho, yesterday "went to the aid of the Democratic party."

By introducing the Glass currency expansion bill as a substitute amendment to the home loan bank bill, Senator Borah, an ardent dry, who has repudiated the Republican prohibition plank, blocked a vote on Senator Bingham's amendment legalizing beer.

Senator Bingham, who is trying to show that the Democrats were not sincere when they adopted a repeal and beer plank in Chicago, charged that Senator Borah, through this parliamentary coup, went to their rescue and spared the "timid souls" the embarrassment of sidestepping a pledge contained in their platform.

Vote Still Probable.

Late yesterday, however, it appeared that the Democrats will have to vote on beer after all. Senator Bingham withdrew his beer amendment to the home loan bill, and announced that he would introduce it again as soon as a vote had been taken on the currency expansion amendment submitted by Mr. Borah.

The parliamentary aspect of the beer war was as follows: In submitting the currency expansion amendment, Mr. Borah offered it as a substitute for the Bingham beer amendment. Thus had a vote been taken immediately on the Borah amendment the Bingham amendment would have died.

Although the Democrats had protested that the Bingham beer proposal had no place in the home-loan bank bill, they offered no objection to the Borah currency amendment. In fact, they welcomed the Borah move, and were congratulating themselves that a beer vote had been avoided.

As the dinner hour approached, Senator Bingham placed his dilemma

Ketch Lost in Race Is Found by Cutter

Vessel Missing on Way to Bermuda Located Off Massachusetts.

New York, July 8 (A.P.).—Coast Guard headquarters announced the receipt of advices tonight that the ketch Curley, missing in an ocean yacht race from Long Island to Bermuda, had been found by the cutter Marion Davis.

"Curlew found by Marion off Davis South Shoal," said the terse message made public here.

The position given is North Nantucket Lightship. The Radio Marine Corporation said its advices referred to the position as near Vineyard Haven, Mass. The first announcement erroneously gave a Davis South Shoal off the North Carolina coast.

The Curlew, commanded by Nat Blum, of New York, and manned by a crew of amateur sailors, left Montauk Point with 26 other racing craft a week ago last Saturday. All the other competing craft have long since made Hamilton, Bermuda, or been accounted for. Naval tugs, Coast Guard boats and even the giant airship Akron were enlisted in a feverish hunt for the ketch. Earlier in the day arrangements were in progress for a special airplane search.

600 OF B. E. F. FLOCK TO GET RETURN FUNDS

LEADERS TRY IN VAIN TO PREVENT EXODUS

200, Already Lent Fare, on Way Home; Radicals' Parade Fails.

The long trail back home beckons to 600 veterans of the bonus expeditionary forces who applied for transportation and subsistence under the bill signed yesterday by President Hoover.

Hardly had the Chief Executive affixed his signature to the measure, appropriating $100,000 to send the veterans back home, than the offices of the Veterans' Administration were besieged by hordes of former soldiers who had been awaiting the signature of the bill.

Nearly 200 applications were approved and the veterans, seeing the futility of their occupation of the Capital, left on their way homeward to their families, with promises that the Department of Labor and the Veterans' Administration will do their best to find jobs for them.

Bureau to Work Overtime.

Faced with the first break of any magnitude in their ranks, the leaders of the army sought desperately to solidify their crumbling lines. Their greatest obstacle is the bill which permits the men to borrow their railroad fare to their homes, and gives them 75 cents a day subsistence while en route.

Anticipating that more than 1,000 veterans will apply each day until midnight Thursday, Brig. Gen. Frank T. Hines, Veterans' Administrator, has ordered the personnel of the Veterans' Bureau to work each day from 8 in the morning until midnight to handle applications.

All the veteran has to do is establish his identity through discharge papers or otherwise, and his railroad ticket and maintenance funds are turned over to him at Union Station. Those who have trucks and wish to go home in them are permitted to draw subsistence. A system of checking whether they leave has been devised by the Veterans' Administration.

Court Grants Writ Of Error to Curtis

Norfolk Man, Convicted in Lindbergh Case, Wins Appeal Plea.

Trenton, N. J., July 8 (A.P.).—John Hughes Curtis, convicted of obstructing the search for the kidnapers of the Lindbergh baby, was awarded a writ of error by the Supreme Court today, returnable at Trenton July 28.

Ryman Herr, of counsel for the Norfolk boat builder, obtained the writ from the court clerk's office. Curtis is scheduled to be sentenced by Judge Adam O Robbins, at the Flemington courthouse Monday.

The writ of error, issued as a matter of course, has the effect of an appeal. Lloyd Fisher, also of counsel for Curtis, said shortly after the boat builder's conviction that there were more than 100 grounds upon which the jury's verdict could be appealed.

ALLIES SLASH GERMAN REPARATIONS DEBT TO $750,000,000 IN BONDS

U.S. Ready to Hear Pleas On Cuts

TEXT OF PLAN IS AWAITED

Congress Scores Prospect of Cancellation

(Associated Press.)

The United States stands ready to hear appeals from European powers for a reduction of the $11,000,000,000 they owe this country on loans during and immediately after the World War.

Since Europe has finally agreed at Lausanne to cut Germany's reparation down to $750,000,000, the State Department said yesterday the United States is willing to consider individual proposals for a revision of debts from the fifteen Nations which owe this country.

No promises to revise or cancel debts have been made by the United States. But this Government has repeatedly stated in recent months that it would grant a rehearing to European debtors individually after they had agreed among themselves to settle reparations.

The United States has insisted it had no interest in reparations, as it refused to take any from Germany.

Full Text Awaited.

Until the Lausanne conference works out its agreement in detail and the full text is available to the State Department, Secretary Stimson and his assistants will not be able to arrange plans for hearing appeals of the debtors.

Any change in the amount of war debt payments would have to be approved by Congress which is on record against further reduction or cancellation. Both the House and Senate took this position in approving the Hoover one-year moratorium on intergovernmental debts.

Meanwhile, on Capitol Hill, Representative Rainey, the Democratic leader, told the House the Lausanne agreement "comes with crushing effect upon this country."

"Last June when President Hoover agreed to a year's moratorium, he cancelled for one year a $10,000,000,000 indebtedness," Rainey said.

Burden on Taxpayers.

"When the President did that he cancelled the $10,000,000,000 they owe us. Our taxpayers are going to be compelled to pay this $10,000,000,000 through the years.

"It already is admitted that the tax

Bandits Terrorize Town And Escape With $1,000

Childersburg, Ala., July 8 (A.P.).—Six bandits terrorized this town, abducted a night marshal and robbed a church and four stores of more than $1,000 early today. Marshal J. R. Stevens was tied hand and foot, carried a mile from town and shoved from an automobile.

The church strong box was robbed of a small amount of money and $500 was taken from a safe in one store. Cash registers in all the places were rifled.

25 Nations Now Favor Hoover Idea

Geneva, July 8 (A.P.).—Twenty-five nations represented at the world disarmament conference today expressed approval in principle of President Hoover's proposal to reduce the world's arms by one-third.

Sir John Simon, head of the British delegation and chairman of the council, circulated among the several delegations the draft of his declaration which will bring the first phase of the conference to a close. It probably will be presented early next week.

Meanwhile, the American representatives were trying to get him to embody in this declaration the principle of a one-third reduction as the basis for a disarmament treaty. For this purpose Norman H. Davis, one of the American contingent, visited Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald at Lausanne. Later he expressed satisfaction with Mr. MacDonald's indorsement of the American view.

The biggest task which now remains appears to be satisfying the German demand for recognition of her right to arm on a basis of equality with the other nations.

CURRENCY INFLATION IS URGED BY BORAH

Pleads for Billion Expansion Measure in Place of Beer Amendment.

(Associated Press).

In an appeal for the return of increased and stabilized commodity prices, Senator Borah (Republican), Idaho, yesterday offered in the Senate the Glass billion dollar currency expansion bill as a substitute for the Bingham amendment to legalize beer.

"Any measure to stop deflation must be of greater concern than either beer or red liquor," shouted the Idaho Republican in the midst of debate over prohibition repeal and modification proposals.

Declaring 9,000,000 people were out of employment and farmers were unable to sell their products, the Idahoan said there was "no escape from chaos unless the Government stays the fall of commodity prices."

"If we are going to hold our gold and not let it go to other nations to build up their trade," he said, "we certainly ought to use it as a basis for expanding our currency—not only into the millions, but into the billions."

Borah also urged the calling of an international monetary conference

Midair Crash Kills Army Flier and Hurts Another

Perris, Calif., July 8 (A.P.).—An Army Air Service lieutenant, H. C. Minter, 34, of Bakersfield, Calif., was killed and Lieut. John R. Merritt, 27, Ennis, Tex., reserve officer, was injured today in a midair collision of two airplanes in tactical maneuvers.

Minter apparently was killed outright. Merritt jumped, but experienced trouble in ripping his parachute open. He landed heavily, suffering facial injuries and body bruises

Accord Hailed As Move for Peace

NO MENTION OF WAR GUILT

Amount Is Equal To One Cent On Dollar

Lausanne, Switzerland, July 8 (A.P.).—Germany's postwar reparations bill, fixed after the war at nearly $65,000,000,000, was cut to about $750,000,000 today in the greatest single financial deal in history. This amounts to about one cent on the dollar.

Doggedly persevering against what seemed insurmountable difficulties, the European powers, urged constantly by Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald of Great Britain, finally cut through the persistent deadlock between Germany and France and paved the way for war debt negotiations with the United States.

Germany agreed to put up approximately $750,000,000 in bonds in lieu of further reparations payments. She dropped her insistence of deleting the war guilt clause of the Versailles treaty, and France accepted the compromise.

A new effort for peace in relations among nations is commenced, the document went on, on the basis of reciprocal confidence.

Statement From Washington.

Shortly after the agreement was announced there came a statement from Washington that the United States was ready to consider any proposals the European debtors may care to make for "reconsideration of war debts settlements."

The announcement created a profound impression on the heads of the delegations, when it was taken to them by the Associated Press, and there were expressions of joy.

Louis Germain-Martin, of the French delegation, said, "We are naturally happy to hear that; it bears out the policy France has followed."

Dino Grandi, the Italian foreign minister, hailed it as "good news." Speaking for central Europe Stephan Osusky, of Czechoslovakia, declared it "the best news since the opening of the conference."

So when the final session of this conference is held, probably tomorrow, a resolution will be offered asking the United States to attend a world economic conference.

Universal Accord Is Aim.

This conference, in the view held here, would be expected to weave the Lausanne convention into a universal accord, under the resolution, which was believed sure of adoption.

Today's agreement, which will be initialed by Germany and the creditor nations tomorrow, indicated the German bonds would be a fund to be placed in a common cash box.

Powers other than the six represented here—Great Britain, France, Italy, Japan, Belgium and Germany—will not sign the agreement.

It was explained this will not be done until after debt settlements with the United States, if ever. The former allies expect to use part of the funds to pay their American debts, if Washington insists.

$1,000,000,000 on Account.

(The books at Washington in June, 1931, showed the United States had received something over $1,000,000,000 on account of debts totaling more than $11,000,000,000.)

The agreement contained a pream-

Life-Long Chum of Reynolds Held for Grilling in Death

Winston-Salem, N. C., July 8 (A.P.).—A. B. Walker, life-long chum of Smith Reynolds, was taken into custody by police here tonight as a material witness to events surrounding the death of the heir to the R. J. Reynolds tobacco millions.

Although he was being kept under surveillance, the 19-year-old boy who told the first story of the tragic shooting was not placed in jail, and officers indicated he might be allowed to sleep in a guarded hotel room instead of at police station.

Apparently on the verge of a breakdown, Libby Holman Reynolds was quoted as telling a coroner's jury in a secret session tonight that she had no recollection of her husband's death, except for a brief "flash" in which he called her name, followed by a pistol shot.

An official connected with the closely guarded inquiry at the magnificent Reynolds estate gave a synopsis of the testimony of Mrs. Reynolds, former blues singer on Broadway, but declines to permit the use of his name.

"She said her mind was an absolute blank from the time she went to bed Monday night," he said, "until sometime Wednesday afternoon, except for a brief 'flash' when she saw Smith Reynolds with a pistol, heard him call her by name, 'Libby,' and then heard a shot."

Reynolds was found dying on a sun porch of the palatial Reynolds home, Reynolda, about 1 a. m. Wednesday. He died in a hospital four hours later.

Mrs. Reynolds was said to have testified that she had not been drinking, had taken no medicine, and had undergone no accidents in the period from Monday night to Wednesday afternoon, but she was described as unable to describe her failure to remember occurrences of the period.

After attending her husband's funeral in a state of near-collapse, the young widow was reported to have approached a breakdown. She gave her testimony while lying in bed, with eyes half closed.

Official announcement was made that witnesses tomorrow will include members of the birthday party who are said to have left the home about midnight, or about one hour before the tragedy occurred.

Body of Missing Woman Is Found in Star Tannery

Special to The Washington Post.

Winchester, Va., July 8.—A mountainside grave hardly 500 yards from the home where she was last seen alive on last December 29, today yielded the body of Mrs. Frances Nichols Orndorff, 20-year-old Star Tannery housewife, for whose murder her husband, Kermit Orndorff, is now awaiting hearing by the Circuit Court grand jury here.

Orndorff, who was recently arrested but released by magistrate's court, and Wayne (Pete) McIlwee were captured by officers late today in the mountains around Star Tannery after several hours' search which followed the finding of the body. Orndorff had sought asylum at the home of his grandmother, and McIlwee was at a friend's home.

Both men were brought to the local jail. Orndorff refused to answer any and all questions regarding how his wife met her death. Officers intimated that both men would be held without bail for the grand jury in circuit court.

When the grave was cleaned out, officers reported, a large bundle of Mrs. Orndorff's bloody clothes was found in the bottom, which they said indicated that she had met death from a severe beating or stabbing.

Hundreds of curious persons made their way into the mountainous region late today and the thickets surrounding the grave were soon trampled clear.

Buzzards flying low over the Star Tannery neighborhood and hovering close to a thicket near the Orndorff home, attracted the attention of Norman Clark, 35, who moved into the house on March 1, where Mrs. Orndorff was last seen alive. He scoured through the thicket and found a grave from which an arm protruded. With a pick and shovel, Clark and neighbors removed the dirt covering the decomposed body of Mrs. Orndorff. Clark immediately notified Sheriff Luther Pannett.

Sheriff Pannett and Commonwealth Attorney Burr P. Harrison went to the grave. Workmen exhumed the body and it was brought here by a local undertaking firm. Physicians of Winchester, it was reported late

MAJOR CRIMES LAID TO 3 DE LUXE THUGS

Holden and Keating Quizzed on Lindbergh Case and Several Murders.

Kansas City, July 8 (A.P.).—Three high-living, knicker-clad golfers arrested on a public links here were identified today as notorious criminals sought in connection with half a dozen major crimes in the Midwest, including bank robberies and the smuggling of firearms into Leavenworth Federal Prison.

Two of the trio—Thomas Holden, 36, and Francis L. Keating, 33—were returned late today to the Leavenworth Penitentiary, from which they escaped with forged passes February 28, 1930, to complete 25-year sentences for the $135,000 Evergreen Park, Ill., mail train robbery in 1926.

Their companion, John Brown, alias John Brennan, former convict, was held for authorities at Fort Scott, Kans., to face charges of participating in the $32,000 robbery of the Citizens National Bank there June 17. Bank employes identified his picture and a $500 bond taken in the holdup was found in his possession.

Holden and Keating, Chicago gangsters, were questioned about the Lindbergh kidnaping, the sensational Leavenworth Federal prison break of last December, various bank robberies and a murder or two.

Federal agents, whose two-year search for the escaped convicts ended on the golf links late yesterday, said the questioning about the Lindbergh kidnaping was routine, but that the men had been suspected of aiding in the smuggling of arms into Leavenworth Prison last year.

CURRENCY EXPANSION IS URGED BY BORAH

immediately without waiting until "after the elections."

"The situation is so serious," he said, "that any step that can possibly be taken should be taken now."

Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the Democratic leader, expressed the hope that the Borah motion to substitute the currency bill proposed by Senator Glass (Democrat), Virginia, for beer amendment would prevail.

"It contemplates a sound arrangement," Robinson said, "by which the currency can be expanded about $955,000,000."

Borah said it had been estimated the deflation had cost the United States from $150,000,000,000 to $200,000,000,000 compared with the $35,000,000,000 cost of the World War.

The Glass measure, he added, was "conservative" and by no means could it be assailed "as inflation in the objectionable sense in which that word is used."

"Without an increased price level and means of stabilizing it," he asserted, "it simply means more taxes, thereby destroying the energy and initiative of the country; and more bonds, thereby destroying the Nation's credit."

"Some people say," he added, "that the depression must run its course. In my opinion its end will not come until taken in hand by the Government which controls the money supply.

"I am not arguing for paper money or fiat money or attacking the gold standard, but I am of the opinion that the gold standard is sufficient if utilized to the end to which it should be utilized."

The present "disorderly situation," Borah said, was due to the fact "that those in a position to direct our course of affairs are frightened."

"Conservatism has come to be a cover for timidity," he said. "We have the power in our gold supply to do vastly more than we have been willing to do.

"Both parties declared in their platforms in favor of an honest dollar. The world is crying for an honest dollar, a dollar which can be purchased by the same amount of commodities as a year ago, a dollar that is stable."

Declaring the total indebtedness of the United States was about $207,000,000,000, but that this had been increased by the growing value of the dollar to about $400,000,000,000, the Idahoan said:

"There is no way the American people can escape, except through bankruptcy or repudiation, without an increase in the prices of commodities."

He said the world today was on a "paper basis" because the "vast supply of gold is sterilized and hidden away in the vaults of the world." He pointed out that 27 nations have gone off the gold standard and only France and the United States of the major powers remain on it.

By parliamentary maneuvering, the Glass bill was given a preferred position on the Senate calendar, but, after several hours of debate, a vote went over until today.

Glass declared his bill was a "safe and sound way of expanding the currency to meet the exigencies at this time."

"It is a temporary measure," he added. "I can't see how it can do a particle of harm. It would at least release 7,600 national banks from the fear that is holding them and get them to resume the banking business. There is not a banker who will not be astonished at the statement of Senator Reed that there is such material profit in the circulation privilege."

'Twas a picture of former Gov. Frank C. Allen, one of the stalwarts of Massachusetts, home of the Pilgrim Fathers.

FORMER GOV. ALLEN, it seems, was a very human man. Even if he was governor of a grand and glorious State he had habits like other men, and he leaned toward his habits. So, sitting for his portrait, though the artist really painted him standing, the governor did what all good men and true have always done—he put his hands in his pockets.

So the artist, a realist, painted the governor that way—with his hands in his pockets.

Came then the day for the unveiling ceremony. A goodly crowd was there, including members of the Back Bay sector, graced by the presence of the present governor and his staff, with a Kentucky colonel or two as invited guests, and the artist in person, the city council drawn up in the rear.

* * * *

A BAND played a patriotic air, and all hands present and accounted for had faith in Massachusetts, save one—a miserable commoner who had come unbidden to the ceremony. He was standing, unnoticed, near the speaker's stand.

Gov. Joseph B. Ely cleared his throat, on the verge of making the presentation speech. Suddenly, the chairman of the Fine Arts Commission nudged the governor, called his attention to the painting, and pointed to the unconventional pose.

"What's the matter with it?" the governor asked, somewhat bewildered.

"He has his hands in his pockets," the commissioner explained.

"What else would he have in his pockets?" asked the miscreant commoner.

But just the same the council will hold a special meeting and order another portrait for the State House.

BORAH BALKS BEER BALLOT IN SENATE

"Rescue" of Democrats Is Seen by Bingham in Move of Idahoan.

before that wily parliamentarian, Senator George Moses (Republican), of New Hampshire. The latter advised him that if he withdrew his amendment and forced Mr. Borah to introduce the currency expansion bill, not as a substitute, but as a fresh amendment, then it would be possible to submit the beer amendment later on.

This Senator Bingham did.

Earlier in the day, the Senate took a step in the direction of a vote on a repeal resolution. The motion of Senator Warren Barbour (Republican), of New Jersey, to discharge the judiciary committee from further consideration of his repeal resolution was placed on the calendar. Thus it may be acted on any time before adjournment.

G. O. P. Petition to Garner.

On the House side of the Capitol, 77 wet Republicans submitted a petition to Speaker Garner asking for an opportunity to vote on a beer bill. Their strategy is the same as that of Senator Bingham—to show that many Democrats are opposed to legalizing beer, despite the Chicago plank calling for "immediate" modification of the Volstead act to permit the manufacture and sale of that beverage.

Speaker Garner is no more enthusiastic about a beer vote than Senator Joe T. Robinson, of Arkansas, the Democratic leader in the Senate.

In yesterday's debate, Senator Robinson charged that the wets had taken up time that might better have been employed in considering the country's economic plight.

"I realize," he said, "that when a senator takes the floor nobody but Almighty God can interrupt him and that the Lord never seems to take any notice of him."

Robinson's Attack.

Referring to the Bingham beer amendment, Robinson said:

"It is an amendment which can not be agreed to in view of the situation which prevails here, an amendment that is intended to embarrass members of this body by making it seem that they are unwilling to carry out the mandate of their party platform."

The Democratic leader said that the real question is, What constitutes an intoxicating beverage?

"If the senator (Bingham) expects me to take his word for what constitutes intoxicating," said Robinson, "he is mistaken."

In the course of the day, Senator Bingham modified his amendment to call for beer of 3.45 per cent alcohol by volume instead of 4 per cent. The Volstead act permits an alcoholic content of one-half of 1 per cent.

The news that Senator Borah was going to introduce the currency expansion bill as a substitute for the Bingham amendment was first announced by Leader Robinson, who said that if it were not for this substitution, he would move that the Bingham amendment be referred to a committee.

Borah's Argument.

Senator Borah argued, that currency expansion was more important than either "beer or red liquor."

Senator Bingham, however, was convinced that Borah had executed a parliamentary maneuver to save the Democrats from a vote on beer.

"I want to congratulate the senator for drawing a red herring across the trail," he said.

"The word 'immediate' in the Democratic platform," Mr. Bingham continued, "doesn't mean now; it means some time in the future.

"If they think the American people are going to be fooled by this they are mistaken. They have cooked up a clever scheme, but it fools nobody. It won't fool anybody in November."

Senator Carter Glass (Democrat), of Virginia, who frankly admits that he opposes beer, accused Senator Bingham of conducting his campaign for reelection on the floor of the Senate.

Mrs. Margaret Hawkins Dies.

Pelham Manor, N. Y., July 8 (U.P.).—Mrs. Margaret Hawkins, wife of W. W. Hawkins, vice chairman of the Scripps-Howard newspapers, died suddenly late today while under an anaesthetic, following an operation. Mrs. Hawkins was the daughter of the late A. M. Wright, for many years marshal of the Supreme Court of the United States.

PARADE CONCLUDES FIREMEN'S SESSION

Maryland Group Elects Officers, Awards Prizes and Picks Westminster.

Special to The Washington Post.

Frostburg, Md., July 8.—A parade nearly a mile long was the closing feature of the Maryland State Firemen's convention today.

The prize for the best-appearing band was awarded the Boys' Band of Oakland, with the Westminster City Band receiving honorable mention. The Meyersdale (Pa.) American Legion Drum Corps was given the award for the best-appearing drum corps, while first honors for the best-appearing ladies' auxiliary went to Herald Harbor and second to Prince Georges County. Annapolis firemen took the first prize for the best float.

Westminster won as the place for the 1933 convention, receiving 224½ votes, to 220½ for Frederick.

Jesse A. Fisher, Annapolis, was elected president of the association for the ensuing year.

Ship Debts Respite Is Asked of Hoover

Believed to Favor Action as Munson Also Goes to White House.

(Associated Press.)

Chairman T. V. O'Connor of the Shipping Board told newspapermen at the White House yesterday he had sought the backing of President Hoover for a moratorium on the repayment of loans to shipping lines from the board's $250,000,000 revolving fund.

Although O'Connor declined to give the President's reaction, it was believed that Mr. Hoover had offered no objections since the board chairman went to the Justice Department to attempt to secure from Attorney General Mitchell a ruling on the proposal. Immediately afterward, Frank Munson, president of the Munson Line, conferred with the Chief Executive.

Munson declined to discuss the conference but said he approved O'Connor's moratorium proposal. It was understood unofficially that the loans to shipping interests range upward of $150,000,000.

Yesterday in Congress

SENATE.

Met at 11 a. m. and recessed at 5:05 p. m. until 11 a. m. Saturday.

Considered Barbour resolutions for repeal of eighteenth amendment and placed it on calendar.

Placed Norris resolution asking detailed report from Reconstruction Finance Corporation on the calendar.

Senator Borah (Republican), of Idaho, offered the Glass banking bill as a substitute amendment to the Bingham beer amendment to the home loan bank bill.

Senator Bingham (Republican), of Connecticut, charged Senator Borah was going to the aid of the Democrats and withdrew his beer amendment, but Senator Borah immediately reoffered the Glass bill amendment.

Democrats held conference to decide course on relief bill and appointed subcommittee to meet with Speaker Garner.

Chairman Hatfield (Republican), of West Virginia, reported he could not support Davis-Kelly coal bill.

HOUSE.

Met at noon and adjourned at 5:20 p. m. until noon Monday.

Representative LaGuardia (Republican), of New York, presented petition signed by 77 Republicans asking for immediate roll call on legalizing and taxing beer.

Heard many political speeches in the course of the day which proceeded under the technical description of considering the President's message.

TODAY IN CONGRESS

SENATE.

Will resume consideration of home loan bill pending consideration of unemployment relief bill.

Democratic senators will caucus at 10:30 a. m. on relief bill.

Senator Lewis (Democrat), of Illinois, will address the Senate on the Geneva conference and international matters.

Not in session. Meets Monday.

NAME 'WILL ROGERS' IN RACE CONTESTED

Defeated Oklahoma Candidate Claims School Teacher Used Nickname.

Oklahoma City, July 8 (A.P.).—Use of the name Will Rogers by a country school teacher who led the Democratic race for representative-at-large in Tuesday's Oklahoma primary is challenged by a defeated opponent as a "misrepresentation."

E. B. Howard, of Tulsa, former representative who ran third behind Rogers and Mrs. Mabel Bassett, notified the State election board today he would protest the filing.

Howard asserted the attorney general had held a candidate could not properly file under a nickname. Expressing the belief voters had confused the Moore, Okla., teacher with the noted Claremore comedian, he said he would investigate registration of the former.

"If we find he was registered as William C., Willie C., or W. C., then 'Will Rogers' is a mythical person and I don't believe the vote should count," Howard said.

"My name's been Will for years,' said Rogers, no relation to the famous wise cracker. "I was named Willie, but that's a girl's name and I decided to use Will."

"William C. Rogers" was the signature he affixed to school contracts, said H. P. Dressen, Moore school board clerk.

Should Rogers be ruled out of the race, Howard and Mrs. Bassett, now State commissioner of charities and corrections, would contest for the Democratic nomination in the runoff primary July 26.

Malcolm Rosser, jr., member of the University of Oklahoma board of regents, announced a meeting tomorrow to organize a Will Rogers for Congress club. He said:

"Any man who is willing to bet there are 50,000 people in Oklahoma he can fool is smart enough to go to Congress."

Third Party Base Is Hope of Group

Political League Likely to Indorse Thomas for Presidency.

Cleveland, July 8 (A.P.).—The League for Independent Political Action will convene tomorrow to adopt a platform and policies which it hopes will eventually prove to be the birth of a formidable "third party" of liberal and independent voters.

The platform, according to Emanuel Davidove, of Cleveland, who will be chairman, will call for Federal unemployment relief, public ownership of utilities, recognition of Soviet Russia, entrance into the World Court, cancellation of war debts in return for European cooperation in disarmament, and world economic conferences to eliminate tariff barriers.

Norman E. Thomas, Socialist candidate for President, is expected to be indorsed, but the league will stand on its own platform. Prohibition will be disposed of in the proposed platform with a brief recommendation that a constitutional convention be called.

time of departure for the capital was uncertain, since they could not be reached by phone at Borisov.

Mattern and Griffin were obviously disappointed at their failure to beat the around-the-world record of eight days, 15 hours and 51 minutes, set by Wiley Post and Harold Gatty last year.

The fliers would have covered 5,000 miles of the 15,000 around the globe if they had reached the Soviet capital, but they fell more than 400 miles short of the one-third mark.

They left New York Tuesday at 5:01 a. m. (E. S. T.), and after a stop at Harbor Grace flew to Berlin in the elapsed time of about 31½ hours. This was nearly three hours ahead of the Post and Gatty time to Berlin.

The Mattern-Griffin team nevertheless established three records for other fliers to shoot at. They were the first to reach Berlin nonstop from America; they crossed the ocean in less than 11 hours; and they established a flight record from New York to Berlin.

Berlin, July 8 (A.P.).—In the streets and in the cafes great relief was expressed today that the American round-the-world fliers, though though they came to grief in Russia, escaped with their lives.

"Their flight is still a great achievement," said one newspaper, and another: "Those courageous Americans will surely try again. Accidents happen to all pioneers."

Student Riot Brings Martial Law.

Peiping, China, July 8 (A.P.).—Martial law was declared today in Paotingfu, 80 miles southwest of here, as a result of a clash between students and police during which six students and four police were killed. The riot was the climax of two weeks of disorder which began when a group of 60 students seized their school and ousted a new director.

Convicts Testify For Prison Bosses

2 Are Defense Witnesses for Guards in Hearing on Murder Charge.

Jacksonville, Fla., July 8 (A.P.).—Convicts came to the defense of two prison camp bosses at a habeas corpus hearing today by which they sought release on bond pending trial on charges of murdering Arthur Maillefert, a youthful prisoner from New Jersey, in a "sweat box."

Testimony the prisoners gave in behalf of Capt. George Courson and Guard Solomon Higginbotham contradicted that given yesterday by several convicts regarding the circumstances under which Maillefert was strangled in the box with a chain locked around his neck and his feet in stocks.

Everett Dawson, a convicted forger, told of a futile attempt he and Maillefert had made to escape from the camp. He said that when the New Jersey youth died in the sweat box there was plenty of slack in the chain to prevent strangulation.

OLD-FASHIONED VOTE DRIVE IS G.O.P. PLAN

Hoover-Curtis Campaign to Feature Personal Contact With People.

New York, July 8 (A.P.).—The Hoover-Curtis campaign will be the "old-fashioned kind," but efforts will be made to keep it from being an expensive one.

Everett Sanders, new Republican national chairman, spent today conferring with Eastern party leaders over plans for the four-month vote drive.

"We expect to put on an old-fashioned speaking campaign," he said, as newspapermen gathered around him at the end of his first round of conferences.

"We do not expect radio to replace the contact which speakers get with their audiences by appearing before them in person."

"Will the campaign expenditures be as great as in 1928?" he was asked.

"I don't expect them to be," he replied, but he added it was too early to set any definite figure.

Among the questions the tall, stocky campaign director waved aside, as he sat in his hotel suite smoking a large black cigar, were what part Calvin Coolidge will play in the campaign; what the Republican reaction is to the decision that the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform will support Roosevelt; and what issues will be stressed by the Republicans.

Meantime, plans were being made for a conference Sunday between Roosevelt and the kingpins of Democracy at the governor's Hyde Park home, where the strategy to be followed during the next four months will be mulled over.

In Albany it was disclosed that Roosevelt's personal campaign will mark time until he can dispose of the case against Mayor Walker, whose administration has been the object of a legislative investigation.

If Walker's reply to charges that he used his public office for private gain is received before the governor starts on his sailing trip next week, he will study them while cruising along the New England coast. If the answer is completed during the week the governor will have it sent to his floating headquarters.

Dismissal Is Probable In Schall Election Row

(Associated Press.)

Chairman Shortridge of the Senate election committee yesterday told newspapermen after an informal gathering of the group, he felt it was "disposed to dismiss" the election contest brought by Elnar Holdale against Senator Schall (Republican), Minnesota.

Shortridge said the committee had not acted on the contest, however, because there were too few members present. It was referred to a subcommittee consisting of Hasting (Republican), Delaware, chairman, Hebert (Republican), Rhode Island and King (Democrat), Utah.

Gasoline Taxes Fixed At $2,000,000 Daily

Motorists of the United States are now paying gasoline taxes at the rate of approximately $2,000,000 a day, according to the District division of the American Automobile Association.

The statement is based on a report from National A. A. A. headquarters to the effect that total gasoline tax collections, Federal, State and local, will exceed $725,000,000 in the next twelve months.

FRENCH TO ATTEMPT TO RAISE SUBMARINE

Italian Salvage Ship Rushing to Spot Where Craft Sank With 66.

Cherbourg, France, July 8 (A.P.).—Strong current and a rising tide halted efforts to salvage the sunken French submarine Promethee today and small harbor craft, unequipped for their heavy task, sought shelter in the harbor.

Early tomorrow they will load chains and cables and heavy lines and steam out again to the spot, 7 miles off Cape Levi, where the Promethee lies in 40 fathoms.

It is hoped that some time in the forenoon the Italian salvage ship, Artiglio II, and her sister ship, the Rosto, will be there to help. The naval authorities asked for their assistance today and the Artiglio II started immediately from Brest. The Rosto headed for Cherbourg from Havre, where she was refueling.

A scout ship, moving back and forth in the area where the submersible was known to have sunk, spotted the hull this morning and dropped a buoy there. A few minutes later the Promethee's small telephone buoy was discovered, and for a time it was hoped it might still be possible to talk with some of the more than 60 men who went down with the ship.

This hope proved groundless, for there was no sound from the other end of the telephone wire. There were bubbles on the surface, but that did not indicate that there was still life in the submarine.

A board of inquiry already has started an investigation. Its members and Lieut. du Mesnil visited the spot where the ship went down today.

Capt. Hope Leads Air Race Around Britain

London, July 8 (A.P.).—Flying at an average speed of 123.75 miles an hour, Capt. W. L. Hope completed the first day's lap of the King's Cup air race around Great Britain today, leading 42 competitors.

Two women are entered, Winifred Spooner, a former winner, and Winifred Brown. Today's lap was 740 miles.

SPENDING FURLOUGH SAVINGS BANNED IN RULING BY M'CARL

riod of the last year forfeit it all under the Comptroller's ruling.

4. Provisions of the bill suspending leave with pay will not apply to rural mail carriers.

5. House and Senate employes who must work with committees this summer must take the 8½ per cent salary cut provided in the bill.

6. The question whether employes who have paid leave from 1932 may claim it during some later fiscal year was left open by the Comptroller.

"As the question does not involve a payment under any existing appropriation, it is not properly before me for decision at this time," Mr. McCarl said.

"It is understood that there is now being kept a record of the leave accrued or earned, and such record need not be destroyed or discontinued."

Final Action Due Today.

Thomas E. Campbell, president of the Civil Service Commission and spokesman for the Council of Personnel Administration, announced tentative decision on the administration's furlough policy following a meeting of the full council late yesterday.

Today the council will take final action on the tentative draft, which will be submitted to the President early next week.

Mr. Campbell said the council agreed to the wisdom of the five-day week principle, and advocates its usage in business everywhere. The question of how broadly it may be applied in the Federal service is one of the things that is holding up recommendations.

He said the council urges application of the "administration furlough" in addition to the "Congressional furlough" of one calendar month, holding only in this manner can widespread dismissals be averted. In his own branch, the Civil Service Commission, a payless furlough of 42 days over and above the "Congressional" one-month furlough, will be necessary, he said.

Follow Budget Cuts.

These will be invoked in a large scale only in the State, Justice, Commerce, Labor and Interior Departments, as it was in these five that the Senate 10 per cent cuts under House appropriations were applied, he said. He thinks there are adequate appropriations for salaries in the other departments.

A resolution by the District Federation of Federal Employes Unions, opposing adherence to the five-day week and urging distribution of the pay cut in accordance with yesterday's decision of the comptroller, was read to the council, as indicative of the sentiment of Federal workers. Last night Federal Employes Union No. 2 adopted a similar resolution.

In ruling on some phases of the economy act yesterday, Comptroller General McCarl made known that additional opinions will be forthcoming. Early among these will be a promulgation of accounting procedure to be followed, as a necessary supplement to Government salary tables.

Under yesterday's pay ruling, when an employe is absent for one working day in a semimonthly period, deduction will be at the rate of 1¼ days' pay for each working day absent. This is because the furlough actually will constitute only 24 working days, although the pay cut is based on a calendar month.

Holds Saving Vital.

Any additional absences, except on authorized sick or military leave, will be regarded as absence without pay and charged for in accordance with existing regulations.

"Where large pay rolls are involved it is appreciated that this may operate to delay payments because of the time actually required to prepare the roll for certification and delivery to the disbursing officer, unless there be cooperation by all concerned and coordination of the work of the administrative activities involved," the comptroller concluded.

"But one of the prime purposes of the law is to retain this saving in the Treasury for other essential uses and there may not properly be made advances to officers and employes on the theory that recovery can be accomplished before the close of the fiscal year."

SENATE DEMOCRATS, IN GARNER IMPASSE, CAUCUS AGAIN TODAY

lon in the Democratic caucus on the question of supporting Mr. Garner when the conference report is presented in the Senate today that it was doubtful last night whether the measure would be approved or rejected. A number of Democratic senators took the position that the party's Vice Presidential candidate should be supported to the bitter end in whatever he might launch as campaign policy. Another group contended, on the other hand, that the Senate should not abandon its own clear duty and legislate in the manner of the House merely to sustain a partisan political maneuver.

Veto Message Ready.

The situation was further complicated for the Democratic leaders in the Senate when word reached the Capitol late in the afternoon that President Hoover already had completed a veto message on the relief bill as it now stands.

With this assurance that the problem would be back in Congress about 15 minutes after passage of the Wagner-Garner bill, some senators urged modification of the measure in the Senate as a timesaver.

Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, the Democratic leader, made a vigorous plea on the floor yesterday for prompt and decisive action on the urgent legislation still awaiting attention in Congress, and a prompt adjournment. In this he is supported by an overwhelming majority on both sides of the chamber. His direct warning that the Senate already has lost the esteem of the country for wasting time and prolonging uncertainty was interpreted by many as a suggestion that the shortest possible course would be adopted in enacting a relief bill. This would mean the rejection of the Garner plan today.

Denounces Filibustering.

"We have already been in session far beyond the time anticipated," Senator Robinson said in a vigorous and convincing appeal for early adjournment. "I am convinced, and every senator will acknowledge, that the best thing for all would be for this body to pass the home loan bill, the relief bill, the Army appropriation bill and adjourn."

In denouncing filibustering and the introduction of nonessential measures Senator Robinson said the country was "worn out" with speeches.

"When a senator once takes the floor," he said, "nobody but Almighty God can interrupt him—and the Lord never seems to take any notice of him."

Black Amuses House.

While his colleagues in the Senate were striving to avoid distressing political complications in the relief deadlock, Speaker Garner found additional vociferous support in the House. Representative Loring Black, of Brooklyn, the wit of the Tammany delegation, took the floor to defend the Speaker's action and denounce President Hoover for his public statement setting forth his objections to the Garner plan.

Mr. Black spoke at length, in puns and epigrams, and was quite amusing. The House, having nothing else to do, enjoyed the show immensely.

Adjournment in the House was taken until Monday, but the Senate will convene at 11 o'clock this morning in an effort to dispose of both the home loan bill and the relief measure today.

Cantonese Plane Bombs Destroyer, Killing 20

Hongkong, China, July 8 (A.P.).—The destroyer Feiying was sunk by a Cantonese airplane which bombed Nolhow Wednesday, it was learned here today, and 20 men were killed in the bomb attack. The report said the aviator who succeeded in bombing the ship received a reward of £20,000 (about $70,000) for crippling a major vessel.

It was reported a peace agreement had been reached between the Cantonese government and the rebels, but this was not confirmed.

CHURCH COURT FINDS RECTOR IS IMMORAL

Stiffkey Cleric May Appeal as Sentence by Bishop Is Awaited.

London, July 8 (A.P.).—An Episcopalian church court today decided that the Rev. H. F. Davidson had been guilty of immorality while posing as a reformer among unfortunate girls.

Chancellor F. K. North, of Norwich Diocese, who presided at the trial of the gray-haired, elderly rector of Stiffkey, said sentence would be pronounced later by the Bishop of Norwich. The minister may appeal.

The Rev. Mr. Davidson heard the verdict with his son and daughter, and was immediately surrounded by a sympathetic group. One girl rushed up and kissed him.

Then he left the courtroom on the run.

Chancellor North declared the defense of the preacher was a "tissue of absurdities" and the rector was a discredited witness upon whom no reliance could be placed.

The court was referring to the minister's defense statement that he was a friend of fallen women; that he had been framed, and that he had come to London from his country parish and had helped hundreds of unfortunate girls.

The prosecution evidence was upheld in part when the court found the rector had molested young waitresses to the point of persecution.

He was also found guilty of immoral conduct with Barbara Harris, the pretty little blonde, who came off with honors in her intense sparring with defense attorneys at the trial.

The court said Mr. Davidson was guilty of kissing and cuddling with Barbara Harris in a Chinese restaurant, while the girl "frankly admitted bestowal of her favors on a number of men of all sorts," the verdict went on.

Another charge marked "Guilty" was of immoral conduct with one Rose Ellis, a pretty girl the rector picked up and hired as a secretary in notorious Leicester Square.

"Army" Straggles Over West Virginia

1,641 Californians Fail to Make Headquarters in Clarksburg.

Special to The Washington Post.

Clarksburg, W. Va., July 8.—California's army of 1,641 Washington bonus marchers who camped at Athens, Ohio, Wednesday night and which started moving on Clarksburg yesterday, apparently has "deployed in line of skirmish." Reports filtering into Clarksburg today say they are scattered on a wide front in West Virginia from Wheeling to Charleston.

Capt. G. R. Carlsson, of Los Angeles, who came to Clarksburg yesterday and conferred with local veterans regarding a general headquarters camp here for 1,641 veterans, could not be found today. He headed toward Parkersburg yesterday afternoon and found his marchers scattered in every direction.

Several stragglers passed through Clarksburg late last night and today, but no attempt was made to establish a general headquarters camp here as announced yesterday.

Candidate Refuses to Urge Inquiry.

Kansas City July 8 (A.P.).—Charles M. Howell said today a proposal that he join his rival candidates for the Democratic nomination as senator in requesting a congressional investigation of campaign expenditures in Missouri "is of no interest to me."

Funeral from the above residence on Saturday, July 9, at 9:30 a. m., thence to St. Peter's Church at 10 a. m., where high mass will be celebrated for the repose of her soul. Relatives and friends invited.

A precious one from us has gone.
A voice we loved is stilled.
A place is vacant in our home
Which never can be filled.

BONUS ARMY BEGINS RETREAT FROM CAPITAL

Several hundred members of the Bonus Expeditionary Forces took advantage of the $100,000 appropriation made to provide railroad transportation back to their homes. The amounts advanced are charged against their unpaid bonus. This is a scene at the Union Station last night at the special ticket window established to aid the veterans in securing the proper train connections.

PERU REBELS FLYING RED FLAG SEIZE CITY

Many Casualties Result as Town Falls; Nation in State of Siege.

Lima, Peru, July 8 (A.P.).—Civilian rebels bearing red flags held the important commercial city of Trujillo today and the entire country was operating uner a state of siege.

The rebels, described by the government as Communists, but from other sources called members of the Aprista opposition, seized Trujillo from a small garrison of troops and police after a long battle yesterday, in which many were killed or wounded.

Similar civilian groups fought skirmishes with police at Puerto Chicama and Paijan, and several persons were killed in these encounters.

Immediately a cruiser full of soldiers was dispatched toward Trujillo, and the garrison at Lambayeque, reinforced with a flying squadron, was also cooperating to dislodge the revolutionists.

The government said the rebels had been stopped at the city limits, and that the rest of the country was entirely quiet. It was said that the army and navy were completely loyal, and this fact indicated the movement would soon be crushed.

Trujillo is a town of 30,000 persons and is one of the most important commercial centers in the country.

Baptist Assembly Opens in Maryland

500 Delegates Expected at Meeting to Last Until July 17.

Special to The Washington Post.

Frederick, Md., July 8.—About 100 delegates enrolled for the sixteenth annual Baptist summer assembly, embracing Maryland, the District of Columbia, Virginia and West Virginia, which convened this afternoon at Braddock Heights to continue until July 17. Others will arrive tomorrow, Sunday and Monday until about 500 are registered.

The assembly is 1 of about 25 holding similar conferences in different sections of the South and West. It embraces Maryland, the District of Columbia, Virginia and West Virginia, having about 50,000 members and Sunday schools with about 60,000 pupils. The Rev. W. C. Royal, pastor of the First Baptist Church of this city, is the first and only president.

Enrollment of delegates began this afternoon and was followed by a service under the direction of the Rev. Glenn B. Faucett. At 8 o'clock the convention of the Maryland Baptist Young People, Reade W. Corr, of Baltimore, president, was opened with an address by Mr. Corr, after which the Rev. James A. Ivey, pastor of the West Asheville Baptist Church, Asheville, N. C., made an address, taking for his theme "Life a Thrilling Romance." An informal reception was held.

BONUS MARCHERS RUSH BUREAU TO GET U. S. RETURN FUNDS

Marks last night when Harold B. Foulkrod, legislative representative of the army, was prevented from addressing the veterans by one of the camp officers. The officer said he had been instructed by Commander-in-chief Walter W. Waters not to allow any speeches without permission from national headquarters.

Military police gathered about Foulkrod to stop his address. Several hundred veterans demanded that Foulkrod be permitted to speak. To avoid disorder, Foulkrod stepped from the platform. He later conferred with Waters and was informed that no such order was issued by him.

Both Waters and Foulkrod will speak at Camp Marks at 10 o'clock this morning to urge a "united front" against evacuation of the veterans. The differences between them have been healed, Foulkrod said, and his recent attack on Waters' "dictatorship," was based on erroneous reports which had reached him.

Rations Dwindling.

The legislative agent charged last night that he had learned from confidential sources that some of the men were being "greased" in order to break up the army. This money, he said, had been given to those who have been causing dissension in the ranks. A veterans' organization, he said, had paid out $500 in an attempt to get rid of Waters.

Gen. Hines yesterday announced that "in order that none of the veterans should be excluded from going home because of the expiration of the time limit which is midnight next Thursday, the veterans should apply as promptly as possible."

In order to make application the veterans have been requested to appear at room 132 of the Veterans Administration Building and present their credentials. For the convenience of the veterans, the offices will be kept open tomorrow. The money advanced will be a loan, without interest, and if unrepaid will be deducted from the value of their bonus certificates.

Sparse rations and an ever dwindling food supply is the reason for many of the men going home. Commander in Chief Waters said last night, "Prospects of food are brighter for tomorrow, with food expected from New York."

Radical Parade Falls.

The scheduled parade of the radical wing of the army, directed principally by avowed Reds, was a failure yesterday when Capitol authorities refused permission for them to parade through the grounds and other veterans threatened to mob them if they tried to stage the demonstration.

More than 2,000 veterans had lined Pennsylvania avenue, armed with brickbats and cobblestones, threatening to break up the parade of the Communists because "it would harm their cause for the bonus."

John Pace, of Cleveland, the organizer of the radical wing, had predicted 2,000 would parade. When the time came for the march a few more than 100 were present.

After viewing the situation, Pace decided not to hold the parade.

Loyal to Waters.

A delegation of Oregon veterans appeared at the headquarters of the army yesterday and affirmed their loyalty to Waters and repudiated the action of others of the unit in calling for his dismissal. They expressed their confidence in his leadership and separated from the unit which had denied his leadership.

The anti-Waters faction, whom the commander in chief led across the continent, yesterday expelled him from the regiment for "attempting to dictate a Fascist form of government in the army, and charging we were affiliated with the Communist party." Their action is not recognized by national headquarters.

Waters and Doak E. Carter, chief of staff of the army, yesterday visited Vice President Curtis. They declined to comment on the interview except to say they had been "courteously and attentively heard." They went there with the intention of discussing provision of food and shelter for the veterans.

bate. For the first time this session he interrupted another member.

"I still have the same opinion I expressed at that time," Mr. Garner said. "The reasons I have not pressed on the rules committee the investigation demanded by the gentleman from Pennsylvania are two.

"For the last six months the country has been very much disturbed in economic matters. I did not want to investigate the Treasury Department with a view to having the people of the country lose confidence in it.

"The only thing they seem to have left is confidence in the Government of the United States in its fiscal matters. To make an investigation at this time and discover such things as the gentleman from Pennsylvania and I believe would be discovered in that department would certainly unsettle that confidence and would not be beneficial to the American people.

"Secondly, I thought if we undertook to do it at this time with an election immediately in front of us, it would be charged during the campaign that we attempted to use the investigation for partisan purposes. These are the two reasons why I did not ask for it to be done."

Indulge in Exchange.

"The Speaker has said that he does not want this investigation for the simple reason that he believes, in substance, that it would develop corruption and fraud in the Treasury Department," Mr. Michener interrupted.

"In other words, this man in this high position tells the country that in his judgment there is fraud and corruption in the Treasury Department and he says that if the country were to learn that at this time it might have a bad effect upon the country."

"I did not say 'fraud and corruption,'" Mr. Garner retorted.

Only a handful of members were present during the discussion which came a few minutes before adjournment.

Mr. Garner told Mr. Michener: "I said I was afraid that a revelation of the condition existing in the Treasury, and I used the word 'condition,' would have a bad effect upon the country."

The Speaker added that if the Republicans were ready for the investigation he thought the House would pass the resolution today or Monday.

"I am speaking in my individual capacity," Mr. Michener said. "And only spoke after the gentlemen's statement. Personally I should prefer an investigation to a statement by one who is in responsible position, that corruption does exist."

Favors Committee Inquiry.

Representative Chindblom (Republican), Illinois, another administration stalwart, said before approving an investigation the rules committee should make some inquiry of its own.

"I am satisfied," Mr. Chindblom said, "that if the rules committee will do that there will not be found to be any good reason for making the investigation upon the basis of the results."

Mr. Michener said the committee would not think of reporting out a rule unless the Speaker or some one else came before the committee and made charges.

Mr. Garner told newspapermen later he would not appear personally.

"The assistant Republican leader said he would support the inquiry," Mr. Garner said. "I accepted the challenge. There is nothing to do but go ahead and make the investigation."

There are eight Democrats and four Republicans on the rules committee.

CHILE GIVES OFFICE TO IBANEZ FACTION

Former President, Out of Exile, Recognized; New Outbreaks Flare.

Santiago, Chile, July 8 (A.P.).—Former President Carlos Ibanez, who returned from a long exile this week, was represented today in the reorganized government of the Socialist provisional president, Carlos Davila.

Hardly had Ibanez returned than two members of Davila's junta resigned. Communist outbreaks were reported at Concepcion, and several naval units held a protest demonstration.

It had been expected Ibanez would take a place in a reorganized government, but President Davila reorganized his cabinet without him. He gave Ibanez representation, however, by naming Col. Pedro Legos minister of war. Ibanez had recommended Legos for the important post of minister of defense. As minister of war Legos will replace Gen. Arturo Puga, who was active in setting up the Davila government. Instead of a defense minister, there were portfolios for both the army and navy.

The new members of the cabinet:

Pedro Lagos, war; Francisco Nieto, navy; Eseo Penavillalon, lands, and Juan Rosetti, justice.

The rest of the cabinet, which remained unchanged:

Juan Antonio Rios, interior; Senator Enrique Zanartu, finance; Luis Barriga, foreign affairs; Arturo Rivero, agriculture; Victor Navarrete, development; Carlos Soto Rengifo, education; Dr. Francisco Landa, health, and Augusto Pinto, labor.

Expropriation Held Illegal.

Mexico City, July 8 (U.P.).—The famous Hidalgo expropriation law was declared unconstitutional by District Judge Florencio Araizu, of Pachuca, yesterday in granting the French-owned Cruz Azul Cement Co. an injunction against application of the law. The company was expropriated by the state government several months ago and was the first large concern affected by the new measure.

Midshipmen at San Juan.

San Juan, Puerto Rico, July 8 (A.P.).—The battleship Wyoming, which brought President Hoover to Puerto Rico a year ago, dropped anchor today at Ponce, bringing 800 midshipmen on annual summer cruise. Beginning tomorrow the midshipmen will be given shore leave to visit San Juan.

FOREIGN NEWS IN BRIEF

Simla, India, July 8 (A.P.).—Important decisions toward a purely Indian army were announced by the government of India tonight. Commissions signed by Lord Willingdon, Viceroy of India, on behalf of King George, similar to those granted officers of the corresponding forces in Canada, will be conferred on cadets graduating from the military academy—the Indian Sandhurst—which will be opened during the current year at Dehradun, and on entrants to the Indian air force.

Saskatoon, Saskatchewan, July 8 (A.P.).—Bill Miller, wanted by police since 1928, and object of one of the most intense manhunts in the history of Saskatchewan for the murder of Corpl. Ralls, at Foam Lake, last Tuesday, committed suicide today as police and citizens' posses closed in on him a few miles east of Kelvington.

Darnstadt, Germany, July 8 (A.P.). Voting for a state president by the Hessian Diet today resulted in a tie. Bernhard Adeung, Socialist incumbent, and Ferdinand Werner, National-Socialist candidate, each got 35 of the 70 votes. An absolute majority is required and the Nazis demanded another ballot.

Berlin, July 8 (A.P.).—Debate in the Prussian Diet became so uproarious today that the speaker was obliged to suspend the session temporarily. He acted after a disturbance created by a National-Socialist demand that all members of that party now in prison for political offenses be released. Later in the day the session was resumed and the amnesty bill was voted down by 244 to 157.

Lisbon, Portugal, July 8 (A.P.).—A slight earthquake was felt for a few seconds at 7:45 o'clock this evening. It caused no damage.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

RECESSIONAL FOR AMERICANS.

("Have the great drive of progress, the onrushing tide of unequaled progress, the ever-increasing resources been broken by the call for sacrifice, suffering and want, lest we forget?"—Commander Evangeline Booth.)

GOD of our fathers, known of old—
Lord of our progress and our fate—
Beneath whose awful hand we hold
Dominion over treasures great—
Lord God of Hosts, be with us yet,
Lest we forget—lest we forget!

The clatter of the ticker dies—
The gamblers and the fools depart—
Still stands Thine ancient sacrifice,
An honest and a contrite heart—
Lord God of Hosts, be with us yet,
Lest we forget—lest we forget!

Our vaunted riches melt away—
Our people know the test by fire—
Lo, all our pomp of yesterday
Is one with Nineveh and Tyre—
Lord God of Hosts, be with us yet,
Lest we forget—lest we forget!

If, craving only ease and gold—
Bemoaning wealth and comforts lost,
We madly fight to clutch and hold
Such earthly gains at any cost—
Lord God of Hosts, be with us yet,
Lest we forget—lest we forget!

If, softened by great ease, we loose
Wild tongues that have not Thee in awe,
Forgetting sturdy forbears whose Ideals held closely to Thy law—
Lord God of Hosts, be with us yet,
Lest we forget—lest we forget!

If warped by avarice and gain,
Our minds but dwell on comforts gone—
And we still struggle to obtain
The earthly things men thrive upon,
Lord God of Hosts, be with us yet,
Lest we forget—lest we forget!

For heathen heart that puts its trust
In roll of dice and poker hand,
Finds all its treasure in the dust.
And builds upon the shifting sand—
For frantic tears o'er shrunken hoard,
Thy mercy on Thy people, Lord!

ANNOYING THE FORGOTTEN MAN.

IT probably was a major political mistake for Gov. Roosevelt to fly to Chicago to accept the nomination by airplane. The forgotten man was plainly annoyed. If Mr. Roosevelt wanted to win his vote he should have made the journey by hitch-hiking.

THE PROBLEM.

Herb or Frank, Herb or Frank—
Which one soon will draw a blank?

COMPLICATIONS AVOIDED.

MR. ROOSEVELT certainly would have looked pretty foolish if he hadn't disposed of the formality requiring that he be notified of his nomination several weeks after the convention. Not only that, but it would have been a terrible slap at radio reception.

PILGRIM'S PROGRESS.

Pussy-cat, pussy-cat,
Where have you been?
I've been over to London
To look at a Queen.

Pussy-cat, pussy-cat,
Had you your fling?
I rode in a carriage,
I bowed to a King.

Pussy-cat, pussy-cat,
What did you see?
I looked at the Prince
And the Prince looked at me.
—Jon Vivian.

NOT FORGETTING THE BIG STICK.

With a Roosevelt leading their ticket, all the Democrats need now to restore a lost era in American politics is a war with Spain, an Army meat scandal and frequent bulletins on the African lion hunt situation.

HOOVER AID SCORES 'PORK' FOR JOBLESS

H. J. Allen Tells Economists Problem One for Industry and Workers.

Charlottesville, Va., July 8 (A.P.).—Henry J. Allen, former Kansas Governor and senator, told the Institute of Public Affairs tonight unemployment can never be handled as a Federal problem but must be relieved through coordination of industry and workers.

Allen, who is President Hoover's publicity director in his campaign for reelection, spoke at the close of the busiest day of the sixth annual session.

In discussing unemployment insurance, Allen was severe in his criticism of "pork bills" before Congress for unemployment relief. He said he believed in party advocacy of individual responsibility in emergencies.

Samuel O. Dunn, editor of the Railway Age, also addressing the institute tonight, said if the railroads "do not come back, and aid in economic recovery, it will be because the American people do not show enough intelligence to give them a fair chance."

Transportation Also Topic.

Mr. Dunn was on the institute program tonight with Alfred Reeves, vice president of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, whose subject was "Importance of Highway Transportation to the Economic Recovery." These two addresses dealing with modern transportation, and the problems of both steam and motor hauling, followed a day of round table discussions on the country church and the rural ministry, county government, Latin-American affairs, antitrust laws and world economics.

Dr. John Donaldson, cofounder of the Academy of Political Science, today inaugurated a two-day discussion of the gold standard before the institute with the assertion that if the standard is maintained, it will be only through closer international coordination.

Dr. Donaldson said the best agency at hand for this is the Bank of International Settlements.

"If its resources and functions were enlarged it might ultimately give us, if not world currency, at least a fairly good coordination of international currencies," he said. "To the extent that currency and price systems are determinants, it is only thus that we can insure the largest and smoothest flow of international trade."

Dr. Ernest Minor Patterson, president of the American Academy of Political Science, presided at the round table on world economics in which the gold standard is being discussed.

Antitrust Law Debate.

Debate on antitrust laws continued before the round tables with Dr. Myron W. Watkins New York University, asserting that the reorganization of industry is the only way out of the economic "morass." Dr. Watkins, formerly director of the antitrust investigation by the national industrial conference board, was followed on the program by Charles F. Abbott, New York, who said business leaders, through cooperative effort, could restore a measurable prosperity, if given a chance.

In the same discussion Prof. James A. McLaughlin, of Harvard Law School, added there has been "no substantial evidence to indicate that enforcement of the antitrust laws was in any substantial way responsible for the depression." He blamed credit inflation for present economic conditions.

Another speaker, John W. Allen, representing the Radio Manufacturers Association, recommended amendment of the laws to permit trade associations to advise on conditions and trends in industry.

The antitrust discussions came at the end of a busy day among the roundtables.

Herbert W. Jervey, New York attorney, and Edward Tomlinson, lecturer, whose addresses were postponed last night, spoke this afternoon. Mr. Jervey discussed reparations and war debts. He said the task before America today is to "effect a settlement which will yield the most without depriving the good will of debtors, which is essential to us."

Mr. Tomlinson discussed aviation in South America, asserting that flying would play a major part in great business competition, which he predicted for the Continent.

County Government Discussed.

Reforms were urged before the round table on county government. Howard P. Jones, public relations secretary of the National Municipal League of New York, was the principal speaker. He said the county manager movement "has yet to be tested by broad application. Hugh Reid, of Arlington County, discussed the plan as it now is being operated in his county. Mr. Jones said the plan inaugurated in Arlington "paved the way for a more conclusive demonstration than has yet been available."

Solemn Requiem Mass Announced

Will Be Sung Monday at Immaculate Conception for Mrs. Curley.

A solemn requiem mass for the repose of the soul of Mrs. Maria Ward Curley, the mother of Archbishop Michael J. Curley, will be sung Monday at 12:15, in the Church of the Immaculate Conception. Mrs. Curley died Wednesday at her home in Athlone, Ireland. She was 91 years old. Archbishop Curley was at her bedside when she died.

The Rev. Francis J. Hurney, pastor of the church, will be celebrant of the mass. The Rev. F. X. Cavanagh will be deacon and the Rev. S. A. Czys will be subdeacon.

The mass will be sung by the Immaculate Conception senior choir, and the boys sanctuary choir. Miss Florence Yocum and Miss Kathryn Bowers will be soloists.

A search by officials in Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia and Pennsylvania had failed to locate Mrs. Orndorff and minute search of a manganese mine shaft and dragging of several streams also were fruitless.

Orndorff was arrested on the murder warrant May 28, after neighbors told of domestic strife in his household.

RECIPES IN DEMAND FOR WARM MONTHS

Fine Menus Are Presented by Readers of Saturday Food Page.

More and more the demand comes to the Food Editor of The Washington Post for recipes dealing with warm weather problems of the homemaker.

This need is being answered very well by the splendid array of recipes sent in by readers of the food page who are eager to pass along their knowledge in this regard to other women. The advent of the electric and gas ice-making refrigerators has been a great aid in summer menus. For salads and desserts of all kinds can be made with the assistance of their cooling chambers and, best of all, food may be kept in them without fear of spoiling under high summer temperatures.

The prize winners of books and honorable mentions this week were as follows:

POACHED EGG ON TOAST.
(Awarded Book Prize.)

Sanico Pound Cake.
Hunt's Canned Apricots.
Chestnut Farms Whipping Cream, or, if you prefer, whip Borden's Evaporated Milk according to directions on can.

Slice cake. In the center of each slice put one tablespoonful of whipped cream, forming the white of egg. On this place one-half canned apricot, inverted to form yolk of egg.

MRS. H. C. LEONARD.
426 Allison street northwest.

PIMENTO SANDWICHES.
(Honorable Mention.)

Chop fine two large cans of pimentoes, add 1½ cups of grated Kraft's cheese, 1 cup of Hellman's mayonnaise, salt and red pepper to taste. Spread on Jumbo bread and use lettuce leaf.

Entire ingredients can be purchased at Sanitary Grocery Co.

MRS. J. C. DAVENPORT.
5400 Thirty-second street northwest.

SCOTCH SCONES.
(Honorable Mention.)

2 cups Washington flour
4 tablespoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
3 tablespoons sugar
¼ cup shortening
½ cup milk
2 eggs.
Strawberry jam

Mix and sift flour, baking powder and salt. Blend in sugar and butter. Beat milk and eggs together and add to mixture. Roll half of dough to form a square. Spread with strawberry jam and cover. Cut into four triangles and bake until brown.

MISS ALICE KERFOOT.
Riverdale, Md.

BANANA PUDDING.
(Honorable Mention.)

6 eggs
3 boxes of vanilla wafers. (5-cent boxes)
12 bananas
1 pint milk
1 tablespoon butter (Sanitary)
1 tablespoon cornstarch
1 teaspoon lemon extract.

Separate eggs, beat yolks, add sugar, milk and cornstarch, cook in double-boiler. When done add butter and lemon extract. Mix well. Now line baking dish with vanilla wafers, fill dish with alternating layers of bananas and vanilla wafers with bananas on top, pour over this the custard sauce. Cover with meringue made of the six egg whites beaten stiff and dry together with six tablespoons of xxxx sugar and pinch of salt. Place in hot oven to brown. Serve cold. All ingredients from Sanitary.

MRS. CAMPBELL HOWARD.
1419 East Capitol street.

FRUIT MERINGUE CAKE.
(Honorable Mention.)

2 cups Self-Rising Washington Flour
½ cup Land o' Lakes butter
1 cup sugar
3 egg yolks beaten with 1 tablespoon cold water.
¾ cup milk
1 teaspoon vanilla
½ cup sugar (extra)
3 egg white stiffly beaten
1 quart fresh fruit, berries, sweet cherries, apricots, plums, peaches
½ cup sugar

Sift, measure, then sift flour again. Cream butter and sugar light, add beaten yolks, then flour alternately with the milk. Add vanilla. Bake in two layer pans in moderate oven 25 minutes. Cool and heap over with meringue made.

MARIE EULALIE MORAN.
2416 Pennsylvania avenue northwest.

COLD PLATE LUNCHEON.
(Honorable Mention).

In warm weather there is nothing nicer or more acceptable than a "cold plate luncheon." Arrange the food as attractively as possible on the plates, keeping each kind separate with dividing lines of watercress, parsley, strips of pimento, &c. The following menu is seasonable and offers possibilities for variation. Use this for your next bridge party:

Lobster Salad
With Tomato Aspic Cubes
Potato Chips
Sweet Pickle and Cheese Roll
Hot Rolls or Biscuit
Sponge Cake, With Fruit and Whipped Cream or Custard Sauce
Hot or Iced Tea, Cocoa or Coffee

Lobster Salad For Eight.

Use fresh cooked (New Center Market) or canned lobster (Sanitary). If fresh, allow two medium-sized lobsters, which will make about 3½ cups cooked meat. If canned, use one-pound can. Chill the lobster, cut in small pieces and mix with two cups diced celery, one teaspoonful capers, salt and pepper and enough thin mayonnaise to cover and let stand 30 minutes on ice to blend flavors.

MRS. LILLIAN RUDE.
Tilghman, Md.

DAISY SALAD.

6 hard-boiled eggs (District Grocery Stores). Remove shells and slice whites, lengthwise, in five or six parts; remove centers (yolks). Add quarter pound grated American cheese to yolks. Devil centers with a little mustard, salt, mayonnaise. Place a lettuce leaf on a salad plate, arrange the slices of whites in a circle like the petals of a daisy. Place a ball of the deviled yolks in the center.

Slice a green pepper in thin long strips placed in position for the stems. A dab of mayonnaise on the side. A couple of olives for buds can also be used. This makes a very pretty, yet appetizing salad for the more formal.

MISS V. M. HUDSON.
461 N street northwest.

UNCLE SAM AND THE HOMEMAKER

By PATTIE ELLICOTT

Here we are right in the midst of the season of the year when fruits in every meal is a wonderful slogan for the homemaker. It is easy to put it into practice, too, for orchards and vines are generous and fruits are so plainly health promoting.

The versatility of fruits is remarkable. Grown-ups and children relish them. They can be called whole-family foods without any fear of contradiction.

Of course fruits can be used also in making chilled thirst-quenching beverages.

In search of some new recipes for cooling summer beverages my hunt led me to the Bureau of Home Economics of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, where home experts devise recipes which are later tried out in the laboratories and kitchens of the bureau before they are released for public use. Here is the information I garnered there on summer beverages just as it came from the busy typewriter of one of the bureau's experts:

Cooling Summer Beverages.

Soaring temperatures suggest chilled thirst-quenching beverages. Clinking ice and fragrant fruity drinks in tall glasses. There's a wide range, however, between satisfying a hot, thirsty child running in from play, or a busy mother in the middle of ironing, and the fancy mixtures that are served to company on porches in our best tinted glasses in the more leisurely afternoon. A homemaker who is a good planner can be ready on short notice for either type of cooling beverage. Most of the ingredients can be kept in the ice box.

Lemons—always store three or four in the refrigerator, replenishing them as used. With few exceptions, most cooling drinks, even when chiefly of some other fruit flavor, need a little lemon juice.

Oranges, of course, and fresh limes, if you can get them, are standbys.

Save juices from any freshly cooked or canned fruits. Use them separately or in blends, with a dash of acid. Cherry and currant drinks are sufficiently acid without lemon. Depend on the seasonable fresh fruit juices as far as you can for thirst quenchers for the children, combined at times with juices from canned fruits or with bottled grape juice. In regard to the last, however, do not use it for party punches that depend on clear, light color for their attraction. Grape juice dominates any punch to which it is added, and is most delicious when served alone or with ginger ale or some other charged water.

Sirup for Sweetening.

Keep in the refrigerator some sirup for sweetening summer beverages. Boil together for five minutes one cup of sugar and one cup of water, and cool. Sirup is better distributed in a cold drink than granulated sugar, and it gives more body to a fruit juice or iced tea. Honey is a good sweetener and gives distinctive flavor. Also you can use for both sweetening and fruit flavor, some of those soft jellies that didn't quite jell.

Reserve iced coffee and iced tea for adults. Iced tea is relatively little trouble to prepare after the tea is made. For punches and party beverages it is usually recommended that hot freshly made tea be poured directly on ice in the glass or punch bowl. But the thirsty, busy homemaker who wants something cool in the midst of her morning work can not usually take time to heat water, make tea, and cool it again. Besides, she regards such a method as wasteful of ice, especially in the warmest weather when she wants iced tea most often. If hot tea is promptly strained from the leaves after 3 to 5 minutes infusion, it can be chilled and kept in the refrigerator several hours, to be served when wanted with a slice of lemon or a teaspoonful of lemon juice and sweetening. Never carry cold tea over to the next day.

Combinations for Parties.

Some good combinations for festive occasions are suggested by the Bureau of Home Economics of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. How about orange juice, crushed pineapple and strawberries, with a little lemon? Or, for a beautiful red color—cherry, currant, raspberry, strawberry, or blends of these juices? Or raspberry, strawberry, lemon and orange. Red and amber colored drinks are particularly enticing. Tea is an addition to most punches. Fruit in punches should be cut in small pieces. For party punches, ice cubes are sometimes colored and sometimes have decorative cherries or mint leaves frozen inside them.

Among the other timely tested recipes I gathered up at the Bureau of Home Economics that day were the following:

Raspberry Flummery.

2 cups raspberry juice from canned or cooked fresh raspberries
½ cup sugar (if juice is unsweetened)
3 tablespoons cornstarch
¼ teaspoon salt
1 or 2 tablespoons lemon juice

Heat the raspberry juice in a double boiler, add the sugar, cornstarch and salt, which have been thoroughly mixed, stir until the mixture thickens, cover and cook for at least 20 minutes. Remove from the stove, add the lemon juice, beat well, pour into a serving dish and chill. Serve with cream, whipped or plain, or top milk.

If you are using the juice from canned raspberries, you may have considerable pulp left after draining the berries. Instead of pressing out the last drop of juice from the seeds, the whole drained berries may be used on vanilla ice cream, or made into a very good jam or soft spread by cooking them a few minutes with a little sugar. Canned raspberries are usually sweetened, so you would need only a fourth to a half as much sugar as you have berries.

Blueberry Muffins.

1 egg
¾ cup milk
2 cups sifted flour.
4 teaspoons baking powder
¼ cup sugar
½ teaspoon salt
4 tablespoons melted butter or other fat
1 cup blueberries or huckleberries, washed and drained

Beat the egg slightly, add the milk, and then add this mixture to the sifted dry ingredients, reserving about 2 tablespoon of flour for coating the berries. Add the berries after they have been floured, and the melted fat. Stir lightly until mixed, but do not beat. Pour the batter into well-greased muffin tins and bake for about 30 minutes in a moderately hot oven (375 degrees F.). Serve hot.

Quick Blueberry Pudding.

1 quart blueberries
1 cup sugar
½ cup water
½ teaspoon salt
2 cups soft bread crumbs
2 tablespoons melted butter
1 tablespoon lemon juice, if desired

Pick over the berries, wash, drain, mix with the sugar, water and salt, and boil for 5 minutes. Combine the bread crumbs and butter, add to the hot fruit, stir until well mixed, and keep warm for about 30 minutes, but do not let the pudding cook. Add the lemon juice and serve the pudding while still warm with plain or whipped cream.

Baked Blueberry Pudding.

¼ cup butter or other fat
½ cup sugar
1 egg
1½ cups sifted soft-wheat flour
2 cups blueberries, washed and drained
2 teaspoons baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
½ cup milk
½ teaspoon vanilla

Cream the fat, add the sugar and the well-beaten egg. Take out about 2 tablespoons of the flour and mix with the berries. Sift together the remaining flour and the baking powder and salt and add alternately with the milk to the fat and egg mixture. Fold in the flour-coated berries and add the vanilla. Bake in a greased baking dish for about one hour in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.). Serve hot with lemon sauce or hard sauce or whipped cream.

Egg and Vegetable Jelly Salad.

A decorative and delicious dish for a spring luncheon is made by the recipe below, supplied by the Bureau of Home Economics, U. S. Department of Agriculture. With eggs at their present low prices it is inexpensive, too. Accompany with buttered rolls and possibly potato chips and tea or coffee, following with a frozen dessert, layer cake or pie.

3 tablespoons gelatin
½ cup cold water
1 quart boiling water
3 teaspoons salt
¼ cup lemon juice
2 cups shredded cabbage
2 tablespoons grated and prepared horseradish
5 hard-cooked eggs
3 small, ripe, skinned tomatoes, sliced thin

Soften the gelatin in the cold water, add the boiling water and salt. Stir until the gelatin has dissolved. After this has cooled, add the lemon juice. When the mixture is partly set, remove about ½ cup, and to the remainder add the cabbage and horseradish. Cut the eggs into thin slices, taking care not to disturb the yolk from the white. Dampen a mold or straight-sided bowl with cold water and then decorate the inside and bottom with alternate slices of the egg and tomato, which have previously been dipped in the plain gelatin, removed from the mixture for that purpose. Keep the dish and ingredients as cold as possible while working. As soon as the inner surface of the dish has been covered, cut the remaining egg and tomatoes in small pieces. Add this to the cabbage mixture and stir until well blended. Fill the center of the mold with this mixture and put into a cold place until set. Turn out on crisp lettuce leaves and serve with salad dressing.

Stewed Cucumbers and Tomatoes.

1 pint pared and diced cucumbers
1 quart tomatoes, either fresh or canned
2 teaspoons salt
Pepper
½ small onion, sliced
2 tablespoons fat
2 tablespoons flour

If you use fresh tomatoes, skin and cut them into small pieces. Cook the tomatoes and cucumbers together for 15 minutes, or until the cucumbers are tender. Add the salt and pepper. Blend the flour and butter or other fat, mix with a little of the hot tomato juice, then pour this thickening into the mixture and cook until thickened. Serve at once.

SALAD RECIPE WINS $5 AWARD OF POST

Miss Evangeline McQuin Supplies Excellent Dish for Summer Meals.

Summer always brings a demand for salads, and in many cases the salad is the basis of the hot weather dinner or supper. A new salad, a meal in itself, is a welcome addition to any menu list.

This week's Post $5 recipe award was won by such a creation. It was submitted by Miss Evangeline McQuin, of 1448 Girard street northwest. It is called "Perfect Lady Salad."

To be eligible in the weekly recipe contests of The Post contestants must submit formulas using products of any of the advertisers on the Saturday Food Page.

The recipe follows:

Make each salad on a dinner plate. For the head take ½ deviled egg (cut lengthwise), with yolk side down. With red coloring paint nose and mouth, using 2 whole cloves for eyes and grated carrot for hair. For the body use one slice of tomato, with two or three slices of stuffed olives for buttons, and two short stalks of celery, wrapped with thin slices of ham, for arms and sleeves. For the skirt use a leaf of lettuce (rounded side up), with potato salad underneath. Two small sweet pickles for feet complete the salad. Serve with saltines. All the ingredients can be purchased at the Sanitary Grocery or the District Grocery Stores.

Telephone Will Link Latin-America and U. S.

Telephone service between the United States and Honduras, Nicaragua, Costa Rica, Colombia, Venezuela, the Bahama Islands and the Canal Zone will soon be inaugurated, the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. announced yesterday.

This new service will augment the communication which is now possible between more than 40 countries on six continents. The Canal Zone will be the second outlying possession to be connected with the United States, radio telephone to Hawaii being established in December of last year.

Unitarian League Begins Annual Lecture Series

The Unitarian Laymen's League today begins its twelfth annual series of lectures and conferences on rock-bound Star Island, ten miles ont at sea from Portsmouth, N. H. The series will continue through July 16 and is one of several educational and church strengthening projects carried on by the league.

One of the largest delegations is from Washington and is composed as follows: Miss Ruth Adams, Mrs. D. P. Edgerton, Mrs. Emma Lachowicz, Mrs. John Vorkoeper, and Mrs. L. M. Willige.

Optometry Examinations Held.

District of Columbia Board of Optometry will hold examinations again today for the purpose of examining applicants for licenses as practicing optometrists here. Officers in charge are: M. A. Leese, president, and M. L. Dicus, secretary. The tests were held on Thursday and yesterday also.

Morgan's Ankle Injury Is Sprain.

New York, July 8 (A.P.).—The ankle injury suffered last week by J. P. Morgan at his Long Island estate was only a sprain, it was learned today, and the financier is proceeding with plans to sail for his annual European trip late next week.

Market Meanderings

By MILDRED REED BUNDY

Marketers Are Found Cheerful Despite Early Hours That Bring Them In; Rappahannock Tomatoes Here at $1.50 a Bushel; Eggs Up in Price.

Sometimes—admittedly not often—the Meanderer begins her weekly tour of the food market places quite early in the day, but never has she been abroad so early that foods and marketers were not in their usual places, well ordered and looking as if buying and selling had been going on for hours. This means that the marketer's day begins in the small hours—hours of the night to most of us—in order that Washington's food may be offered at the expected time. Five or 6 o'clock in the afternoon finds these people closing their day—a day from twelve to eighteen hours long.

"What time do you come down to the market in the morning?" the Meanderer asked one of the busiest women in the retail section of one of the large open markets.

"About 5 o'clock," the woman answered, "but we aren't very early getting here. We (the woman and her husband) live 22 miles out, you see, and can't make it much earlier."

Four o'clock in the morning is the rising hour for this pair, who are in their places in Washington by 5 o'clock. The Meanderer wondered how they manage the affability which they display to customers twelve or fourteen hours later. They deal in poultry and eggs. Prices on these commodities are very low, as every one knows. This week saw a slight increase in egg prices. From as little as 50 cents for three dozen, the price the marketers ask has risen to 20 cents a dozen.

The Meanderer bought her tenth dozen of these highly recommended eggs. The customer is asked to return any eggs not satisfactory. Not one of the Meanderer's ten dozen has been anything but first class.

The crispness of the pink gingham dress the woman poultry dealer wore to market on that early trip into the city may have been impaired by the time the hot afternoon came on, but the cheerfulness for late-coming customers is equal to that for the early shoppers, even with only eggs at 20 cents the dozen, which is only 50 a crate!

One-thirty o'clock in the morning is not an unusual time for a certain busy man in a Southwest wholesale market to arrive at his place of business. This same man is usually the last to leave his office, as the Meanderer has heard him bidding his employes good-night at 5 o'clock in the afternoon. At times the rush of his business is so great that breakfast is sacrificed, then lunch and breakfast are eaten together. Zest and enjoyment of his work seem marked in this food seller, however. Complaints over long, hard-working hours are not characteristic with him, nor with many of his coworkers along the market row.

"Tomatoes are the best food story I have to give you," the marketer just mentioned told the Meanderer. "The famous Rappahannock tomatoes are here. Tomato lovers in these parts will like to know that."

These tomatoes from nearby Virginia sell for but $1.50 a bushel this year. In other years they brought as much as $4 a bushel, the dealer said.

Peaches should be plentiful and lower in price within a short time, the Meanderer learned in the wholesale market. The marketer who spends all of his day and part of his night—as described above—in distributing fresh vegetables and fruits to Washington grocers, is making a trip to the fruit and vegetable sections of the Carolinas and Georgia this week. The peach and cantaloupe crops are his particular concern on this trip. Volume and price of these foods on the local market will depend in some part on this marketer's judgment as he inspects the peaches and melons. He expects to have encouraging news for housewives on his return. The average retail price of peaches seemed to be 10 cents a pound this week.

With peach preserving time so near, it might be well for housewife to plan for providing ready-cooked foods from the shops for her family while she fills the peach jars. A certain delicatessen stand the Meanderer visits will not only give many ideas for avoiding cooking during the hot weather, but will also give appetizing suggestions for the meal from the can, jar or bag. Several salads from crisp-new vegetables are always ready at this market stand in a downtown market. Or for the home-prepared salad, a variety of dressings seen in this interesting shop will give distinction to the summer meal. Russian dressing, Thousand Island dressing, French dressing, tartar sauce and the marketer's own brand of mayonnaise, carefully concocted under his supervision are suggested for the quick meal shelf. Home-made garlic dill pickles cost only 20 cents for three pickles. Crisply browned cakes of haddock flakes in cans sell for 50 cents. The haddock cakes are canned in sauce and need only heating as a preparation.

Lima beans descended into the available list of foods for the average family, when their price sank to 30 cents a quart for shelled beans this week. Sugar corn at 40 cents a dozen ears supported the beans in the price descent, just as lima beans go with corn in a savory succotash.

Hanging flower pots, made of metal but closely resembling pottery, are attractive porch suggestions in one downtown market. The pots are in several sizes, from 6 inches to 12 inches in diameter, and sell for from 50 cents to $1.

"Remember, the older the leg of lamb the redder it will be," a wise meat marketer told the Meanderer, in a discussion of summer cold cuts. This marketer recommends choice lamb, roasted, chilled and sliced. Since lamb is almost an invariable choice at the White House, on good authority, such a meat selection should be satisfactory to most Washington summer appetites. "Watch the bones of the leg of lamb you buy," the meat dealer said. "Young lamb is inclined to show much gristle in the parts where older lamb will show fully developed bone.

Molds on cheese, so much more marked in summer heat, are avoided by one marketer who chooses packaged cheese wrapped in cellophane. Small, distinctl, fresh packages of soft cheese of the plain cream, pimiento, and relish types, sell for 15 cents each in this marketer's stand.

OUR DAILY FOOD

By COLONEL GOODBODY

A GERMAN DINNER.

GEORGE RECTOR, the famous restaurateur, suggests this real German menu:

Sauerbraten, which is a German pot roast; gingersnap gravy, potato pancakes, red cabbage, rye bread and butter, coffee cake and coffee.

To prepare sauerbraten, you begin with 3 or 4 pounds of pot roast of beef. Cover with vinegar and water, half and half. Add a few bay leaves, some whole cloves, black peppers and a peeled onion. Then forget the pot roast for a while. Mr. Rector says he usually lets the meat stand in the vinegar for two or three days, turning it occasionally so that it will marinate, or pickle, evenly.

When you are ready to cook the meat, take it out of the liquid and brown it in hot fat in a heavy kettle. Add a cup of the pickling liquid or water, cover the kettle and simmer the meat for about two hours, or until it is tender. Serve on a hot platter with gingersnap gravy.

The gravy is made with the liquid the meat was cooked in. Thicken it with a little flour which has been mixed to a paste with cold water. Stir this into the hot liquid and add three tor four gingersnaps broken into small pieces. Cook the gravy until it thickens and serve with the roast. It's delicious.

I asked Mr. Rector one day if he thouht Berlin had had much influence on our American cookery. He thought not. He said that, after all, Frankfort-on-the-Main had had a greater influence on our national diet than Berlin had. For Frankfort's the home of the hot dog!

The Frankfort frankfurter always arrives in pairs, like two dogs in one collar. It's a beautiful ornament of the sausage maker's architecture. Those frankfurters are certainly marvelous on their native heath. Don't think I exaggerate the importance of the docile frankfurter in Germany. Or in America, for that matter. If you figure in the baseball, football and fight carnivals, where millions of them are sold, I'll wager that we Americans eat more "doggies" than turkey—which is supposed to be our national dish.

POLICEMAN CLEARED IN SHOOTING AT TAXI

Heavy Traffic Fines Meted in Court at Marlboro; Contract Awarded.

Holding that a Maryland State policeman had been justified in shooting at a fleeing taxicab and wounding a man, Judge J. Chew Sheriff yesterday convicted the driver of the cab on charges of driving while drunk and reckless driving in Marlboro Police Court.

Albert C. Day, the driver, who lives at 905 Raleigh street southeast, was fined $125 for driving while drunk and $10 for reckless driving. He appealed the sentence and was released in bond of $1,000. A charge that he assaulted the policeman, J. R. Miller, by backing into his motorcycle, was dismissed.

Miller said that after he had arrested Day on the Livingston road on June 14, the prisoner attempted to get away in the taxi full of men and he fired once at the auto, wounding James H. Berry, of Oxon Hill, in the shoulder. Walter Burton, of 1218 E street northeast, owner of the cab and a passenger in it, was fined $10 yesterday for allowing his car to be driven recklessly.

Harrison Carroll, of Philadelphia, yesterday received the maximum fine of $100 for reckless driving after it was testified that he had been responsible for an accident in which several persons were hurt on the Crain highway some weeks ago.

James H. Proctor, of Meadows, who was arrested by State Policeman B. H. Cecil after a chase in which the officer fired four shots, was fined $110 for driving while drunk and reckless driving. He was also fined $10 for having improper markers and $1 for having no registration card. Stanton Miles, of Washington, was fined $100 for driving while drunk and $20 for reckless driving. He was arrested after his car is said to have hit two other autos near Clinton.

The contract for paving the center of Rhode Island avenue through Mt. Rainier and Brentwood has been let to the Corson & Gruman Co. of Washington, at a cost of $14,344. This company will also pave a half-mile stretch of the Riggs Mill road, between the northwest branch and the University of Maryland, at a cost of $2,700. The Corson & Gruman bid was the lowest submitted for each of the contracts.

Funeral services will be held today at St. Mary's Church in Marlboro for Mrs. Laura E. Talbott, mother of the warden of the Prince Georges county jail, who died at her home in Marlboro Wednesday at the age of 71. She is survived by eight children: Thomas I. Talbott, the warden; John A., Vincent, William H., Isadore, George, Charles and Mrs. Helen Cross.

Brentwood has a balance of about $3 in the general fund, and a deficit of $14 in the road fund, but there is a balance of $404 in the fire department account, the town treasurer has reported to the town council. Only a balance from the previous year prevented a more pronounced gap between receipts and expenditures.

Hung Jury in Auto Suit for $50,000

Mrs. Ruth Acker, of Fairfax, Asks Sum in Injury by New Yorker's Car.

A jury in the United States court in Alexandria, Judge Luther B. Way presiding, after deliberating 1½ hours yesterday, announced its inability to reach a decision in the $50,000 damage suit of Mrs. Ruth Acker, of Fairfax County, against Robert C. Winmill, of New York. Mrs. Acker sued for injuries alleged to have been suffered when her automobile was struck by a car said to have been driven by Henry Stevens, chauffeur for Mr. Winmill. The accident occurred December 26 last near Annandale, Fairfax County.

In the car with Mrs. Acker at the time of the accident was Miss Mabel Magee, of Washington, who also is suing Mr. Winmill for $25,000 for alleged injuries. Her case has not yet been heard, and it is understood it will not be tried until after Mrs. Acker's case is disposed of, probably not until the December term of court.

Attorney Gardner L. Boothe represented Mr. Winmill, and Attorney Charles Henry Smith appeared for Mrs. Acker.

Motorist Gets Hearing On Manslaughter Count

A preliminary hearing was held on the manslaughter charge against James C. Mulligan, a New York attorney, yesterday before Judge Paul E. Brown, of the Fairfax County, Va., trial Justice Court. Mulligan was the driver of the automobile which hit and killed Charles Lindbergh Schaffer, 4 years old, of Bull Run Postoffice, about two weeks ago on the Lee highway near his home.

Mulligan was found guilty of reckless driving by Judge Brown, who imposed a $25 fine and costs. An appeal was noted from the court's decision to the County Circuit Court, which meets in September.

Public Hearing Is Set On Boxing in Arlington

Flooded with appeals from citizens of Arlington County that they be given an opportunity to be heard before action was taken on the proposed ordinance permitting the holding of amateur boxing bouts, Chairman Harry A. Fellows announced at the county board's special session last night that a public hearing will be held at 8 p. m. Thursday.

With two bidders who had previously received the contract for the collection of refuse having failed to give the required bond of $20,000, the county board awarded the contract to Roger Daniels, providing he post the bond. The accepted bid was $23,136.

"Journeys With Jesus," Will Be Sermon Topic

Services at Albright Memorial Evangelical Church will begin at 10:15 a. m. tomorrow. The Rev. George E. Schnabel, pastor, will preach on "Little Journeys With Jesus." This will be the first of a series of sermons that will have their setting along the ways made famous by Jesus.

On Friday evening the Queen Esther Class and the Brotherhood of Albright Church will conduct a carnival on the church lawn.

Preliminary Action on Withdrawal Petition to Be Sought Sept. 6.

Preliminary hearing of the petition of withdrawal of the East Falls Church section from the corporate limits of the town of Falls Church yesterday was set by Judge Walter T. McCarthy in the Circuit Court of Arlington County for September 6. It is expected that it will go to trial at the October term of court.

The petition, signed by more than 90 of the 120 qualified voters of East Falls Church, was filed in the clerk's office Thursday and officially presented to the court yesterday.

Signers of the petition ask that they they be permitted to withdraw from th coer ETAOINN ETAOINNNN from the corporation in order that they may be relieved of the added taxation for which they claim they do not receive the benefits they would derive by being under the governing body of Arlington County.

Man, 62, Is Victim Of Razor Accident

Glen Echo Resident Cuts Himself Seriously While Shaving.

Fred J. Bolduc, 62 years old, of Glen Echo, Md., is in a serious condition at Georgetown Hospital as the result of a wound in the neck inflicted yesterday while he was shaving in the bathroom of his home. Hospital officials said they believed he would recover.

Bolduc, watchman at the railroad bridge over the Potomac River, was found on the floor of the bathroom by his wife, who called Montgomery County police and the Bethesda Rescue Squad. He was taken to the hospital by the rescue squad.

The man had been in a highly nervous condition for two weeks, his wife told police. He is a retired soldier and served in the World War.

Arlington Session Upholds Byrd Act

Tax Savings Pointed Out by Backers of Bill at Conference.

Unanimous indorsement was given to a resolution offered by Frank G. Campbell that it will be to the best interests of Arlington County to remain under the provisions of the Byrd road act at a meeting held at the courthouse last nigh: by those advocating the act.

It was pointed out in the resolution that the county stands to save substantial sums in taxes under provisions of the bill.

Hugh Reid, chairman of the meeting and heading the organization fighting for the county to remain within the provisions of the act, announced that meetings will be held until the election, August 9.

U. S. Retires Man 65 Years on Job

C. B. Davis, Chief Messenger of War Department, Began Under Johnson.

A service with the Government that began during the administration of President Andrew Johnson, nearly 65 years ago, was ended with retirement under provisions of the economy act of Charles B. Davis, 74, chief messenger of the War Department.

Davis was retired July 1. He began as a messenger at 9 and his service has been unbroken since. Davis was well known and respected about the department and his retirement caused universal regret.

Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley wrote a letter to Davis, expressing the regret of the department at losing "one of its outstanding personalities." Hurley remarked upon the "unique contacts with a distinguished line of American commanders" that has befallen Davis and concluded with a glowing commendation of the elderly messenger's "probity, ability and devotion to duty."

War Department officials expressed belief that Davis' record was without parallel in the Government service. He lives at 3728 Benton street northwest.

Twenty-two other civilian employes have been retired under the economy act in this department. In the case of one, however, George W. Koonce, law clerk in the office of the chief of engineers, an extension of 30 days has been granted by President Hoover. Koonce has served for 46 years.

Bethesda Man Freed on Bond.

James E. Spiller, of Bethesda, Md., who was arrested Monday by Federal agents in a raid in which a quantity of alleged liquor was seized, has been released on bond of $1,000 by United States Commissioner J. Frank Supplee, of Baltimore. He will be given a hearing before the commissioner Wednesday.

Church Rooms Renovated By Women of Mt. Pleasant

Anticipating the opening of the new church year in September, members of the women's organizations of the Mount Pleasant Congregational Church combined their summer activities this week by undertaking the joint supervision and expense of completely renovating and redecorating all rooms on the second floor of the church building, including the church school auditorium and all other rooms used by the school and the Washington Life Adjustment Center.

Committees of the Business and Professional Women's League of Service, of which Miss Jessie LaSalle, assistant superintendent of schools, is president, and the Women's Guild, headed by Mrs. George R. Manafield, are supervising the improvements. The work, which began this week, will require a month for completion.

Both of these organizations have begun plans for more extensive activities during the next church year, beginning in September. The program being set up for the Guild provides for biweekly meetings, when the organization will hear addresses by prominent speakers on subjects of current interest. There will also be meetings during alternate weeks when the members will make garments and surgical dressings for the Red Cross and other relief agencies, schools and hospitals. The opening fall meeting of the Guild has been set for September 21.

Communion at Petworth Church

Rev. Mr. Wood in Evening Preaches on Miracles of Christ.

The communion service, postponed from last Sunday, will be held at 11 a. m. today at the Petworth Methodist Episcopal Church, with the minister, the Rev. Robert Louis Wood, in charge. There will be no sermon.

The one-hour service will begin at 7:30 p. m. and conclude promptly at 8:30. The young people of the church will have charge of the first half hour, with Miss Marjorie Sehorn leading, and delivering an address. They will also conduct a song service, directed by Charles Buchanan. Ray Robinson, barytone, will be the guest soloist, and will sing two numbers. At 8 o'clock the minister will take charge of the service, and will conclude with a twenty-minute sermon on "Christ and Peter Walking on the Water." This is third in a series Mr. Wood is preaching on the "Miracles of Christ."

These services, which are now in the third year, have proved successful from the beginning. They are held in the cool basement room of the church and are packed full of interesting and stimulating activities, so that not a moment is tiresome. Large congregations have been the rule.

Dr. Taylor Gives Sermon Subjects

Pastor to Preach Twice at Central Presbyterian Tomorrow.

At the Central Presbyterian Church, the pastor, Dr. James H. Taylor, will preach tomorrow morning on "A World Saviour," and in the evening on the "Prophet Nahum."

Christian Science Churches

"Sacrament" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all the Churches of Christ, Scientist, tomorrow. The Golden Text is from I Corinthians xi:28: "Let a man examine himself, and so let him eat of that bread and drink of that cup." Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "He that hath my commandments and keepeth them, he it is that loveth me; and he that loveth me shall be loved of my Father, and I will love him, and will manifest myself to him." (John xiv:21.)

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science Textbook, "Science and Health with Key to Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "To keep the commandments of our Master and follow his example is our proper debt to him and the only worthy evidence of our gratitude for all that he has done."

CATHEDRAL VISITED BY 144,441 PEOPLE

Number Announced for Six Months 1932; Two Canons Preach Tomorrow.

Canon John W. Gummere will preach at the celebration of the Holy Communion in the great choir and sanctuary of Washington Cathedral at 11 o'clock tomorrow. The preacher at the people's evensong service at 4 o'clock will be Canon Raymond L. Wolven. This service will be broadcast over Station WMAL, of the Columbia Broadcasting System. Music for both the 11 a. m. and 4 p. m. services will be furnished by the cathedral choir, under the direction of Edgar Priest.

Other services at the cathedral tomorrow include the celebration of the Holy Communion at 7:30 a. m. and the reading of morning prayer and litany at 10 o'clock, both in the Bethlehem Chapel.

As an accommodation to summer visitors to Washington, there will be group pilgrimages under the direction of Canon Gummere at 12:30 and 5:15 p. m., immediately following the services in the great choir. All who are interested in being escorted through the Cathedral and to points of religious interest and devotion within the grounds are requested to meet in the Chapel of St. John in the south choir aisle at the appointed time.

Figures compiled at the office of the National Cathedral Association show that 144,441 pilgrims and worshipers visited the Cathedral during the first six months of this year and that they represented all States in the Union and many foreign countries.

The special preacher at the Cathedral services in the great choir during the last three Sundays in July will be the Right Rev. H. Almon Abbott, Bishop of Lexington, Ky., who delivered several sermons at the open-air services at the Peace Cross on Mount St. Alban last summer.

'Half Dead,' Theme Of Shelton Sermon

"Ghosts" Evening Topic at Mount Vernon Place M. E. Church.

Mount Vernon Place Methodist Episcopal Church, South, has arranged a good program of music for the morning service tomorrow. The Euphonic Quartet will sing "The Wondrous Cross" and "The Beautiful Land." The pastor, Dr. W. A. Shelton, will preach on the subject "Half Dead," and in the evening on "Ghosts." Large congregations are attending these services during the hot weather. The Sunday evening services are particularly attractive during the summertime.

The Church School meets at 9:30 Sunday morning; the A. B. Pugh Bible Class, in the Sunday School auditorium, has for its teacher Barber C. Palmer; the Young People's department, in room 10, Evert Bennett, leader; at the evening service of the Young People's department at 7 o'clock, William Jackson will have charge, his topic being "Who Is Selfish?" The evangelistic prayer meeting will be at 7 o'clock.

The pastor's Bible class will not meet again until after the vacation period. The regular prayer meeting service will be held Thursday evening at 8 o'clock. The pastor's visiting committee will follow the prayer meeting service.

TO MAKE AMERICA PAY?

The agreement between Germany and her creditors is hailed as a new departure toward European good will and restoration of prosperity. Experience warns Americans to restrain their enthusiasm over this agreement until they can ascertain whether or not the United States will be asked to finance the arrangement.

The participation by American international bankers in the negotiations which are expected to result in a German bond flotation of $750,000,000 raises the suspicion that the operation is to be contingent upon the willingness of the United States to shift to its own taxpayers the concessions which the allies make to Germany. These bankers have never ceased their efforts to cancel the debts owed by European governments. If the debts can be canceled the bankers can then make huge profits in floating new loans—if there should be in this country a new crop of suckers anxious to take the bait of European bonds.

The report is already current that State Department spokesmen have stated that the United States will now "gladly receive any proposals which European debtors may care to make for reconsideration of war debt settlements." This report is either erroneous or the spokesmen in question are inviting a rebuke from the President and Congress. The President refused to permit the United States to be represented at the Lausanne conference, and made it clear that this Government was not concerned with any adjustment of reparations. All debtors of the United States have made separate agreements, not based upon what Germany might pay, but upon their own capacity to pay. France, for example, is unquestionably able to pay its debt to the United States, whether Germany pays reparations or not.

The European governments are preparing for a world economic conference, in which the United States will participate, but with the condition that reparations and war debts shall not be considered. No doubt the Lausanne negotiators hope that the United States will now take over the burden from which Germany is relieved, and this hope is ardently shared by American bankers interested in making fresh loans to the very governments that are maneuvering to evade their debts to the United States.

No one here or abroad has ever shown a method whereby the United States can cancel the debts owed by Europe except by shifting them to the shoulders of American taxpayers. These taxpayers will not stand for that imposition, and Congress and the President have unmistakably registered opposition to cancellation.

If the European nations have now reached a bona fide agreement to adjust their differences, without a concealed "joker" which would merely make the United States finance their settlement, then there is hope of better times in Europe. Renewed friendship among the nations on that side should bring about early betterment of economic conditions, and increased commerce would induce the nations to maintain peace, besides enabling them to pay their debts without hardship. Naturally, Americans would rejoice to see this outcome. But if the Lausanne agreement is merely another attempt to wriggle out of the war debts by saddling them upon American taxpayers the negotiators have wasted their time.

—The taxpayers of the United States are paying staggering sums as a result of Europe's crazy war. They are heavy losers as investors in doubtful or worthless European bonds. The incalculable losses accompanying the depression are a part of what America is paying to Europe or on account of Europe. That Americans, in their present mood and desperate plight, will consent to take over additional burdens in behalf of Europe, primarily to assist Wall Street to sell more European bonds, is a proposition that may find credence at Lausane, but no political party or governmental authority in the United States dares to sponsor it.

GARNER STANDS ALONE.

Speaker Garner's scheme to create a Government bank to lend money to every individual who needs it and doesn't know where to get it has been torpedoed by members of his own party. Democrats of the Senate will not support this scheme. Mr. Garner now stands alone in the fight, surrounded only by the misguided Democratic members of the House, who were persuaded for political reasons to support their vice presidential candidate.

Garner's proposed Government bank is dead. The only question remaining for consideration is how it shall be buried, and how the Speaker can be saved from mortification. The Democrats of the Senate are determined not to attempt to place this measure on the statute books as a Democratic remedy for the depression. They fear the rebuke of the veto and the excoriation that the veto message would contain. But, of course, they have no desire to humiliate the man whom their party has chosen as its vice presidential candidate. Hence, negotiations of a face-saving nature are going on.

Two possible courses are open to the Senate in dealing with the conference report, which was accepted by the House. The Senate Democrats may decide to vote for acceptance of the report so that after the prompt veto they can begin consideration of a new bill minus the Garner banking system. This would avoid the necessity of clashing with the Speaker in an open fight, and might hasten the session toward adjournment. Or the Senate might send the measure back to conference by united action of both Republicans and Democrats, and force the Speaker to yield or take upon his shoulders full responsibility for denying relief to the millions in distress.

Whatever action is taken, Speaker Garner must yield, as he did on his pork-barrel measure. Responsible Democrats will not undertake to defend the position he has taken. Republicans are tempted to rejoice in the Speaker's obstinacy, because he helps to split his party and invites disaster.

It remains to be seen whether the more level-headed Democrats of the Senate can save the day by bludgeoning the Speaker into submission. If Vice Presidential Candidate Garner refuses to surrender he will make his party ridiculous and alienate the support of millions of staunch Democrats. If he does yield, the current episode in which he is playing so distinguished a part will be used by Republicans as a solemn warning against the ticket on which he is running. Speaker Garner is the most formidable obstacle to Democratic success in November that has appeared in the campaign.

FLOUTING THEIR PLATFORM.

Hopelessly deadlocked in a controversy over the elimination of 2,000 officers from the Army, conferees of the Senate and House have apparently abandoned hope of early action on the War Department appropriation bill. Under the inspiration of its Democratic leadership the House slashed appropriations so as to eliminate about 16 per cent of the officers in active service. By an overwhelming vote the Senate repudiated this pacifist gesture. Neither house will budge from its position.

Since that action was taken the Democratic national convention met at Chicago and adopted a platform demanding an Army and Navy adequate for national defense. A change in the attitude of the Democratic House was expected because of that emphatic declaration. The United States Army is already reduced to a skeleton. Its effectiveness for national defense depends almost entirely upon the maintenance of a corps of officers large enough to train an army for war in case of need. But the Democratic House shows no more respect for the policy of the Democratic party than the party did for the actions of the House.

Questions of economy were eliminated from the controversy by the Senate. As passed by that body the War Department appropriation bill called for expenditure of $3,000,000 less than did the House bill. Yet the House conferees insist upon amputating the Army. Their attitude can not be justified on the ground of economy. They are now squarely opposed to adequate national defense.

Thus another plank in the Democratic platform is torn to shreds by the Democratic leaders of the House. They are giving another demonstration of the wide divergence between Democratic promise and practice. Even the candidate for Vice President can not be trusted to carry out the policy enunciated by the convention which nominated him. By this deadlock the Democratic leaders of the House are proclaiming to all the country that the platform of their party is a sham and a fraud when it favors adequate national defense.

INFLATION A LA BORAH.

Senator Borah's statement on the financial situation is worthy of a cracker-barrel philosopher. He seems to think that restoration of prosperity is a mere question of printing more money. Consequently, he predicts dire happenings unless Congress orders more paper dollars printed.

Apparently the senator is not aware of the fact that the currency in circulation increased $144,000,000 last week because of the bank failures in Chicago. Every new chapter of deflation increases the amount of currency in the hands of the people—or rather in safety deposit boxes and old socks. The volume of currency in use today—$5,650,000,000—is far larger than it was at the height of the boom period. Yet business continues in a slump. Nearly every one, except Senator Borah, has learned that commodity prices are not fixed by the amount of currency outstanding.

The reason why commodity prices fail to respond to an increasing volume of currency is because about 90 per cent of all business today is done on credit. It is not a lack of currency that keeps commerce stagnant; and indications are that it is not a lack of credit. An enormous volume of credit has been made available through the Federal Reserve banking system, but industry and business have not confidence enough to use it. Lack of confidence, and not lack of money, is the present handicap.

The first result of the Idaho senator's inflation scheme would be further to weaken confidence and thus to bring about increased contraction of economic activity. The second result would be hoarding of gold. Senator Borah complains that gold in this country is "hidden, hoarded, cornered, refusing to help in this great national crisis." Apparently he is anticipating the results of his own inflation measures. Thus far the people have been content to hoard paper currency, but if Congress should approve a scheme for debasement of the currency the people would demand gold for hoarding, and the backbone of the American monetary system would be broken. The very objective at which Senator Borah aims would then be impossible of achievement. It is pathetic that some members of Congress persist in trying to revise the national system of finance on the basis of muddled economics that have no application to existing conditions.

VETERANS USE JUDGMENT.

Decision of the association of Disabled American Veterans, in national convention at San Diego the other day, to concentrate attention in the future to the relief of those today suffering as a result of their participation in the World War is a most encouraging sign of the saneness and sense of this particular group of ex-service men. For more than a dozen years the D. A. V. has been most helpful to Congress and the Veterans' Administration in the attempt to solve the broad problem of the war's disabled, and Congress indicated its appreciation of this assistance by granting a national charter to this organization, the first ever granted to any association of the disabled of any war.

As appropriations for the relief of the disabled mounted by the millions annually, passed the half billion mark, and finally reached the record of a billion dollars a year, citizens generally became so apprehensive that some months ago there was a definite revulsion of feeling against the World War men that was so threatening that it appeared as if even the most deserving might lose some of the benefits to which they are entitled.

Speaking generally, America has no complaint against compensating—so far as compensation is possible—those who are disabled because of their participation in the war. However, when Congress began to veer away from this class, adopted a pension plan for those whose ailments could not even be approximately connected with the war, went into the hospital building business to provide facilities for nonservice-connected cases, and then launched a drive to pension widows and orphans of all veterans, regardless of the cause of death, citizens generally felt the time had arrived to call a halt. An analysis of the appropriations for veterans' relief during the last year showed that approximately one out of every other dollar went to those who were not disabled in the war.

The Disabled Veterans' Association has done something which will serve as a real defense of the rights and privileges of those genuinely disabled by the war. If the American Legion will take the same position there will be little danger of a public reaction in which war-disabled men would be treated unjustly.

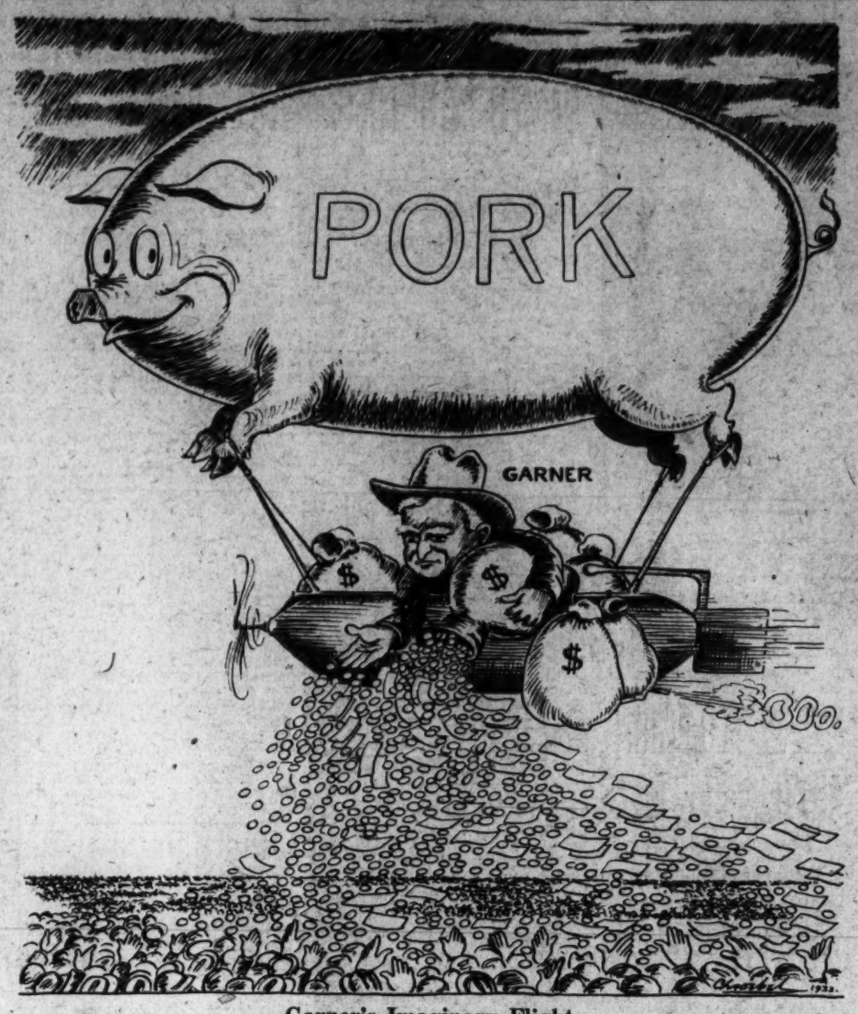
BENEFITS FROM THE NAVY.

The United States Navy requires no war to demonstrate its usefulness. It more than justifies its existence by its contributions to industry. Aside from its primary work of protecting American interests abroad in time of peace, it has stimulated the development of the merchant marine and has given invaluable aid to numerous industries. It is a vast laboratory engaged in advanced research and scientific achievement. Its specifications for new equipment have encouraged American industry to produce the finest products in the world.

Navy specifications at times demand such high quality as to appear impossible of fulfillment. In such cases the department offers the manufacturer the fullest cooperation in research and application of facilities to bring about the production of high-grade materials. When the Navy sought to build steel vessels in 1881 American manufacturers could not produce the quality of steel required, and no firm would accept the contract. Great pressure was brought to bear on the Navy Department to have the requirements modified. These efforts were resisted, and eventually the right steel was produced.

Aviation progress has been to a very great extent dependent upon Navy experiments. Naval requirements have constantly elevated air standards. The air-cooled engine used by Lindbergh, Chamberlin and Byrd to fly across the Atlantic was evolved from an engine developed by the Navy. Without the cooperation of the Army and Navy the cost of such a development would have been almost prohibitive.

In the early days of radio the instruments employed were expensive, and they functioned only under laboratory conditions. As the Navy required equipment which would operate under difficult conditions often found at sea, it cooperated with manufacturers to produce the inexpensive, efficient instruments of today. The Navy was a pioneer in the use of gas and electric welders. It developed sounding systems of a modern type, besides mechanical condensers, boilers, refrigerating plants, the American Diesel engine, and many other improvements which have benefited the whole American public.



Garner's Imaginary Flight.

POST HASTE.

"Loans for everybody" is lonesome, longing for its companionate five-year plan.

Gov. Roosevelt declines to translate "immediate modification" for congressional Democrats, and it's such a long trip to the Congressional Library dictionary.

Since his nomination, Vice-Captain Garner finds the whole regiment stubbornly out of step with him.

Just as the farmer was wondering whether he would have a whole hog or none, pork prices went up 57 per cent in a month.

Contemplation of European conferences make us think better of our political conventions. They do decide something and get through.

Gov. Roosevelt says his is a "crusade to restore America to its own people." Hey, you aliens, get ready to move.

What hurt Tammanyites was to have their own governor cooked up and served to them by nonunion help, McAdoo, Hearst and Garner.

It will be something of a joke on Oklahoma if the school teacher, Will Rogers, breaks into Congress under false pretenses. And how many votes will be cast for Roosevelt in the belief he is "Teddy?"

There's talk of a prohibition ticket. It might be as effective as last time, when it got 20,000 votes out of 36,000,000.

Intelligent persons who twist or ignore the fact that 5 per cent aid to save 100 per cent of a credit institution or a railroad helps more Americans than is possible in any other way, are not intellectually honest.

Gen. Smedley Butler, defeated dry Republican candidate for senator, comes out for Roosevelt. But if he had been elected?

Some politicians begin to suspect that the repeal plank was surfaced with banana peels.

The radical change of sentiment in a year indicates the doom of prohibition in its present form, but Americans will make the alterations in an orderly manner.

"Health experts prove home is the best place for vacation." Save that advice for some other year.

As a compromise, will congressmen and bonus boys take $100,000 apiece and go home? PAUL HUDSON.

PEACE COURAGE.

When clouds are gray and cannons roar,
To die for freedom men go forth.
And East and West and South and North,
From Lake to Gulf and shore to shore,
See brave men put their pleasures by,
Prepared for liberty to die.

All through the weary marches long
They smell the cannon's fetid breath.
Encamped upon the field of death,
They'll bolster courage with a song,
nd 'gainst the foe's grim barricade
Rush, charging, cheering, unafraid.

God grant us in these troubled days
The courage war-time seems to give;
Make all men brave enough to live,
To tread the storm-swept uphill ways
And face the tasks of lesser strife
As soldiers—unafraid of life.

If men who march to die can sing,
Does troubled peace more terrors hold,
That failure makes our blood run cold
And care becomes a fearful thing?
Should we let faith and courage break,
Called on to live for freedom's sake?

Another Letter From a Bald-Headed Dad to His Flapper Daughter.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

MY Dear Louise: I hope your date with the Jones boy taught you a lesson.

There's no harm in the boy, and going out with him does no injury to a girl's reputation. But he is a dreadful bore and no girl could spend three consecutive hours with him without feeling a desire to scream.

You knew that. Yet you elected to spend an evening with him and suffer for your sins rather than sit at home alone. You accepted a tiresome date rather than have no date at all.

If it was a choice between two evils and you really preferred yawning in company rather than yawning alone, I have nothing to say.

But there are girls who regard a dateless evening as a misfortune only one degree removed from disgrace. And when ill fortune denies them enjoyable company, they are willing to accept any pest who offers his service.

If they did it to escape a greater boredom it wouldn't seem so foolish, but that isn't the idea. They regard a date—any kind of date—as another scalp. It is something to impress the neighbors—something to make dateless girls envious—another victory, however small, in the feminine game of catching males.

If that was the idea in the back of your head, you need a word of caution concerning the dangers inherent in keeping up with the Joneses.

I have known two girls who were too eager to demonstrate their ability as man-catchers and too anxious to impress the neighbors.

Both made it a practice to accept dates they didn't want rather than run the risk of seeming unpopular.

One of them, rather desperately determined to prove her ability to snare a husband, married the first poor stick who offered himself and spent the next five years longing for her freedom and another chance.

The other married a rich man she didn't love and quickly discovered that the business of impressing the neighbors doesn't provide enough ego-fodder to compensate for the loss of liberty and happiness.

The point is that one fool thing leads to another. The girl who accepts dates merely to prove that she can may get the habit and marry for the same reason.

There's no harm in showing the neighbors what you can do if the object is worthy and your heart is set on it anyway.

But don't suffer in the cause. If you abominate smoking, don't smoke to show the world how modern you are.

If you live up to your own standards, you needn't worry about impressing the neighbors. They are always impressed by independence.

Love, DAD.

Poor Economy.

Detroit News.

The so-called national economy bill becomes law. President Hoover signed it, as he said, with limited satisfaction. "The measure," said the President, "imposes unnecessary hardships on Government employes in minor matters of little consequence economically."

The result is what might have been expected of such an undertaking by Congress. That body is not constituted to undertake such a task with the broad vision needed to effect actual economies without detriment to service. There are too many strings to any retrenchment that Congress might undertake even if so large a body were equipped with the information to deal wisely with so complex an organization as is the Federal administrative machine.

That Volstead Plank.

Minneapolis Journal.

The Democratic platform pledges immediate modification of the Volstead act. But Congress, by overwhelming majorities of Democratic votes, for seven months has been rejecting proposals to modify the Volstead act. These same dry Democrats have been renominated, for the most part, and they are running in dry Southern districts on dry personal platforms. A President can not modify the Volstead act, nor can he either hasten or prevent the resubmission or the repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

What a Mouthful!

Atchison Globe.

A United States senator says the people have lost confidence in themselves. He's crazy—the people have lost confidence in United States senators.

Take That, Frank.

Hartford Courant.

In order that the Nation might be assured leadership courageous, strong and wise during the next four years, it looked to the Democratic party to put its best man forward. Instead it has put its weakest. By its nomination it has unquestionably sacrificed the good opinion of hundreds of thousands of independent voters who this year were headed straight for its fold. The generally admirable platform of the party is unfortunately put in the hands of a nominee who has shown the least capacity for carrying it boldly into effect. The loss is not only the loss of the Democratic party, but of the whole Nation.

Party Regularity.

Journal of Commerce.

The Republican platform contains a section referring to the responsibilities of party government which is evidently directed at so-called progressives, who delight in waging guerrilla warfare against the members of their own party. The statement says, in part, that "stubborn pride of individual opinion is not a virtue, but an obstacle to an orderly and successful achievement of the objects of representative government." Certainly a man who consistently refuses to subordinate his personal views to the wishes of those who determine the general policies of the party is a liability, not an asset.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Suggests Year's Trial of Stronger Beer Before Acting on Eighteenth Amendment.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: As a general principle, good government does not defer to extremists. Unfortunately, it did so in the enactment of the eighteenth amendment and the Volstead act.

But we should be warned by that experience not to permit the pendulum of law to swing too far in the opposite direction. This point the Republican party has already recognized. Persons who charge that its attitude of caution indicates a lack of courage and a desire to "straddle" the issue, thereby demonstrate that they are themselves extremists.

In the administration of our pure food laws, the sale of some foods is permitted which contain traces of poison, but the amount thereof is so minute that no harm occurs as a result of its combination with the food.

It has not, so far as I know, been demonstrated in actual practice that 3.2 beer is dangerous or intoxicating in fact. Until it is so demonstrated by experience, there is no reason why it should not be sold under a modified Volstead act.

The ½ of 1 per cent limit originated, we are informed, with the old-time brewers, who gave this percentage for a nonintoxicating beverage in order to prevent soft drink parlors from selling a palatable beverage that might compete with the saloon, and this figure was therefore taken as a basis when the Volstead act was drafted.

Why could not this session of Congress pass a 3.2 beer bill, permitting sale only in bottles, and let it be determined by a year's trial whether or not such a beverage is intoxicating in fact and noxious under the Constitution?

Prudence and common sense would seem to indicate that we should take this step in more liberal legislation and carefully note its effect, before being asked to decide on the question of repeal of the eighteenth amendment itself.

By taking this action at once Congress, and the Republican party in particular, will avoid some well-founded criticism.

R. E. NEWELL.

Writing Letters Will Please Recipients and Help Uncle Sam—Now Is the Time to Write.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I have just read with much interest of the enormous business done by the Chicago postoffice reported by A. P., July 6.

It occurs to me that if every good American would write and post half a dozen letters every day for the next two months the finances of our country would be greatly benefited. Then if the good work were kept up a little longer we would soon be out of the woods.

Let us all write to our absent uncles, aunts, sisters, cousins and friends. This will not only greatly please the recipients of our letters, but will cheer good Uncle Sam.

JAMES A. RING,

Too Much Strength in Beer Will Run Up Against Eighteenth Amendment.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Anybody with half a grain of common sense ought to understand that the Bingham 3.2 per cent beer bill is only a starter. If we get that far away from near-beer, the future step will be an attempt to legalize beer of from 5 to 8 per cent alcoholic content and "light" wines from 10 per cent up. The national legislators must be crazy if they think this can be done while the eighteenth amendment is in the Constitution.

"Light wines and beer" were listed as intoxicating beverages in the minds of those who voted for and against the dry amendment. This fact will have much weight with the Supreme Court if it ever has to form an opinion on modification of the Volstead law.

FEDERALIST.

Five-Day Week Would Prove Great Injustice and Inconvenience to Government Employes.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Referring to the statement in The Post of this morning that several heads of Government departments are considering going on a five-day week basis, I wish to remark that such a procedure would work a great injustice and inconvenience to the personnel. It would make it impossible for an employe to take any leave whatsoever without loss of pay. As a loyal Government employe it seems that after the leave has been bought and paid for, so to speak, it certainly ought to belong to the employe to use when he needs it. P. WILLIAMS.

"Hold-Up Insurance"—Is It a Racket, or Is Police Protection a Failure?

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I was approached lately by a salesman and his greeting was: "How about some hold-up insurance?"

My place of business is in the heart of the shopping district. The idea seemed ridiculous to me, so I did not take him up.

I am wondering if this is just a new racket, or is it becoming necessary that law-abiding citizens must protect themselves by hold-up insurance? It looks to me as if we are gradually coming to look to the underworld for protection instead of the police force. In the long run the money we pay them would not be any more than we pay to the police force.

If I am wrong in my supposition, then why is it necessary for insurance companies to carry hold-up insurance? SHOPKEEPER.

Capt. Adolphus Andrews, chief of staff of the Naval War College in Newport, and Mrs. Andrews have as their guests in Newport Mrs. John H. Gibbons and Mrs. Sidney Cloman, of Washington.

Mrs. Russell Bennett and her daughter, Miss Florence Harris, of Washington, have been in Europe since early June, have left Paris for Lido-Venice. Miss Harris has been in London, where she visited Mrs. Charles Harding in Holland Park. Miss Harris will make her bow to Washington society next season. She is the daughter of Rear Admiral Frederic R. Harris.

Col. Ellis B. Miller, U. S. M. C., who has been transferred from Newport, R. I., to Quantico, Va., has come to Washington with Mrs. Miller, and they have engaged an apartment at Wardman Park Hotel and will probably be established there for the summer.

Miss Louise Felton Engaged to New Yorker.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis E. Felton announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Louise La Verna Felton, to Mr. Daniel John Schatz, of New York, son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel J. Schatz. The wedding will take place early in November.

Mr. Samuel E. Foreman has gone to New York and will be at the Waldorf-Astoria for several days.

Mr. and Mrs. Page McK. Etchison were the guests in whose honor Dr. and Mrs. Everett M. Ellison entertained at dinner at their home in M street last evening.

Lieut. and Mrs. Forrest Close left Washington yesterday by motor for the West Coast, where the former has been assigned for duty. Mrs. Close was before her marriage Miss Peggy Wood, daughter of Mrs. Charles Langley, of Washington.

Miss Virginia Bacon Penfield, of New York, will arrive today to visit her grandmother, Mrs. William M. Conrad, who has taken an apartment at the Shoreham for the summer. Miss Penfield is the daughter of the late Mr. Walter Penfield.

Mrs. Clarence Norment, sr., is spending a short time in Atlantic City.

Mrs. Alan A. Wells, who, with Mrs. George W. Haas, of Newark, N. J., has been spending several days at Wardman Park Hotel, has left for New York with Mrs. Haas, where they will spend a short time before returning to their homes.

Mrs. Joseph Nachman sailed on the Ile de France for Europe, where she will join her sister, Mrs. H. Rose Alexander, in Paris.

Judges Announced For Horse Show Today.

Among the prominent horse show exhibitors who will enter their horses in the Olympic Benefit Horse Show to be held at the Fort Myer Gardens show grounds today are Mrs. Frank M. Andrews, Mrs. Burdette Wright and Mrs. John Hay Whitney, of Middleburg.

Lieut. Col. Sloan Doak and Mr. Albert Ober will judge hunter classes. Lieut. Col. Doak is one of the foremost riders in the American Army, having been abroad as a member of the American Olympic team twice. Mr. Albert Ober is a prominent gentleman rider and member of the Elkridge Hunt, of Maryland. It will be recalled that he rode and directed the training of that famous timber horse, Billy Barton, who ran second in the Grand National at Aintree in 1928.

Other judges are Lieut. Col. S. C. Reynolds, who has been in command of the Front Royal Remount Depot for the past several years, and Maj. John P. Wall, author of "Light Horse Breeding in America." Lieut. Col. J. K. Herr and Brig. Gen. Beverly Browne, outstanding Army polo players for many years, will judge the polo classes.

Fifty pieces of silver will be given as prizes at this show, in addition to the customary ribbons for first, second, third and fourth places.

TELEGRAPHIC DISPATCHES

Augusta, Ga., July 8 (A.P.).—Sidney Ferguson, jr., 24-year-old son of the president of the Citizens and Southern National Bank of Augusta, who had been reported missing at Boston, Mass., returned here this afternoon on a bus. He said he grew tired of staying in Boston and slipped away from his companions there because he knew they would object to his leaving.

Lincoln, Nebr., July 8 (A.P.).—The right of Nebraskans to keep in their homes "reasonable" amounts of intoxicating liquor for "personal use and needs" was upheld today by the Nebraska Supreme Court. Enforcement authorities had contended that liquor acquired after May 1, 1917, when the State prohibition law went into effect, was illegal.

Chicago, July 8 (A.P.).—Albert Capone, who has two brothers in Federal prison, kept his own escutcheon clear today with a dismissal in Cicero Police Court. Disorderly conduct charges against the third of the Capone quartet were dropped, the Cicero police chief testifying there was no evidence linking him with the recent bombing of the home of Mayor Joseph G. Cerny, of Cicero.

Chicago, July 8 (A.P.).—The will of Edward F. Swift, chairman of his family's packing company, who fell eight floors to his death last May, was admitted to probate today, disposing of a $5,000,000 estate. Swift left $1,500,000 to charity, half the remainder to his widow and the rest to three children in trust.

New York, July 8 (A.P.).—Dr. George F. Kunz, vice president of Tiffany & Co. and renowned gem expert, left the major share of an estate estimated at $500,000 to his former wife, Mrs. Opal Logan Kunz, whose marriage was annulled in 1930. Mrs. Kunz, a flying enthusiast, was bequeathed a life income in half the residuary estate, according to the will as filed for probate today. She received also a $25,000 silver tea set, which she will present to the White House.

Chicago, July 8 (A.P.).—Christian P. Paschen, former city building commissioner and wealthy contractor, who was convicted a month ago of evading payment of $114,000 of Federal income taxes, was sentenced today to two years in prison and fined $10,000.

Man Cleared of Murder In Coal Strikers' Clash

Harlan, Ky., July 8 (A.P.).—Chester Poore was acquitted of the murder of Deputy Sheriff Jim Daniels in the Evarts labor clash of May, 1931, by a jury which deliberated two and a half hours here today.

Poore was the first of 30 defendants indicted to be freed of the charges resulting from a fight between deputies and striking coal miners and sympathizers, in which at least four men were shot to death.

What Today Means

"CANCER."

IF July 9 is your birthday the best hours for you on this date are from 11:10 a. m. to 12:30 p. m., from 5 p. m. to 6 p. m. and from 10:30 p. m. to 11:30 p. m. The danger periods are from 9:10 a. m. to 10:45 a. m. and from 4 p. m. to 5 p. m.

There will be a right about face change in astrological influence on July 9, and yesterday's serious, heavy mood will be replaced by a true holiday spirit. Do not attempt to rush through quick sales or be foolish enough to sign any documents without a thorough and careful perusal of their contents, with an eye to possible "catches."

The child born on this July 9 will be shy and absent-minded. It will inherit from some near or remote ancestor a lurking obstinacy, which will creep out at unexpected times. Its teachers will find it dreamy and inattentive, but far from dull or stupid. If it tried, it would never need be at the bottom of its class.

You have an expansive, agreeable and careless nature. You are fond of adventure, full of life and are never the kill-joy of any social gathering. You are usually ready for any fun—clean and harmless—in which you have been invited to join.

Your unpunctuality and innate untidiness distress many of your associates, but it is useless to expect you to reform. You are always losing or misplacing things—especially so, if a woman—and seem to have little appreciation of the value of things. "Why worry" is very much your attitude toward life, and you let others lose their sleep for you. This attitude may not always be a fair one, but it certainly helps you to keep your youth. Children do not find you on a "grown-up," inaccessible plane, and you often play the Pied Piper of Hamelin's role.

You are overripe in some ways and callow in others; extremely clever at some things and almost stupid in other directions. You are not given to happy mediums, and live in a universe of superlatives. You are excitable and exaggerated in your emotions, although you could not be called a very deep feeler. In most of your problems, instinct is your guide. A considerable amount of happiness is pictured within your home.

Successful people born on July 9:

Harold Richard Atteridge, playwright.

James M. Beck, lawyer.

John C. Calhoun, financier.

Franz Boas, professor of Columbia.

John D. Rockefeller, capitalist.

PLAY WELL AND BE LUCKY.

"TO achieve the ultimate in Bridge, as in life," Mr. Harry W. Young, of West Palm Beach, Fla., points out, "you must play well and be lucky.' The observation is a very sound one. Life and Bridge present us with countless opportunities to play well, but no matter how well we play, unless the factor of luck comes to our aid, we must inevitably frequently see our best plays defeated.

An illustration of the factors of luck and good play is given on the hand shown below:

South—Dealer.

Both sides vulnerable.

South, with his commanding spade suit and 5½ honor-tricks, opened with the forcing bid or two in a suit and eventually reached the contract of six spades, after his partner had responded with three hearts. The bidding was not greatly overoptimistic, and with any opening except the one which was clearly marked in West's hand was makable against any defense.

The natural lead was the King of diamonds, and if South made the mistake of winning the first diamond trick, the contract could never be made. It was, of course, apparent that the heart suit in the Dummy would furnish discards for the losers in South's hand, but they were beyond his reach, unless care was taken in the manner in which one of the two entries in the Dummy was used.

Mr. Young was the only player to make six spades. He refused to win the first diamond trick, and thus left to West the problem of deciding how the hand should be further developed. Whatever shift West now made, the Slam contract was assured. If a spade was led, then all the trumps would be drawn, followed by the Ace-King of hearts, and the diamond Ace would be permitted entry to discard the losing club and diamond from the closed hand. If the diamond suit was continued, the Ace would win, and South would win two rounds of hearts, entering the Dummy by ruffing his losing diamond with the spade 9. With this line of play he must take the risk that one opponent or the other held only two hearts, but, this bridge safely crossed, the Slam would be assured.

To make this Slam involved a considerable element of luck, but even luck was not enough, as, in order to realize the bonus for its accomplishment, the hand must be well played. After all, fate is fairly even in rewarding good play with the favors of luck.

TODAYS POINTER.

Success at the Bridge table is a combination of good bidding, good play and good luck. The factor of luck we may not be able to control, but we can control the bidding and the play.

U. S. READY TO HEAR PROPOSALS FOR CUTS FROM WAR DEBTORS

bill fails to balance the budget by $150,000,000. We counted as cash the $269,000,000 owed us this year.

"Therefore, it means that without further income losses there will be a deficit this year of $419,000,000."

Representative Stafford (Republican), Wisconsin, said "the two great countries that negotiated the agreement are to be congratulated."

"They are making it possible for Germany to recover industrially," he added.

Stafford said "These foreign governments are not shysters; they are going to pay their debts."

It remains to be seen how great a cut European powers will ask the United States to make in the war obligations. Some economists predict American debtors will suggest a reduction of 90 per cent, which is approximately the slash they have just made in German reparations. On this basis the United States would be offered slightly more than $1,000,000,000.

Three Chief Debtors.

Great Britain, France and Italy owe approximately 90 per cent of the war debts due this Government, the remainder being obligations of Belgium, Greece, Austria and other central European and Baltic countries.

In its previous war debts negotiations the United States has always dealt separately with each country and has made terms based on the economic conditions in the country, taking into full consideration the ability to pay without too great impairment of resources. This plan again will be followed by the United States.

The impression prevailed in official circles that extended preliminary negotiations would have to take place before any concrete proposals are submitted and that there is little likelihood of settlements until a short time before December 15, when the next important payments to the United States fall due.

Senator Johnson Comments.

Senator Johnson (Republican), California, predicted the reparations agreement would be followed after the election in this country with renewed demands for war debt cancellation.

"There will probably be a deep and significant silence by the administration until after the elections," Johnson said off the floor, "but then those who believe America should receive its due must be on guard."

Chairman Reed, of the Senate military affairs committee, said the action at Lausanne had not changed his attitude "with regard to cancellation of war debts," and predicted that Congress would continue to oppose it.

Johnson said this country has continuously maintained that reparations and debts were wholly distinct and unrelated and the administration had insisted upon this, "though its acts might be otherwise construed."

Beginning of Cancellation.

"I said a year ago when the moratorium was sprung upon a surprised and unsuspecting Congress that it was the beginning of cancellation," Johnson's statement said.

"We'll hear much from our internationalists in the future—probably after election—about the fairness now of cancellation of what is owing the United States.

"It means that the United States must pay the ultimate cost of the great war, just as the moratorium has meant, as events have demonstrated that the overburdened American people must pay in heavy taxes what Europeans debtors of ours should pay.

"Congress must be reckoned with in cancellation, but having so easily fooled Congress once with the moratorium, it is probably expected the same doubtful procedure may again be effective."

Chairman Borah, of the Senate foreign relations committee, withheld comment until today.

Opposition to revision or cancellation of the debts was expressed by Senator Vandenberg (Republican), Michigan, but he said the settlement was a "very splendid milestone in the post-war journey back to economic recovery."

ALLIES AGREE TO CUT REICH REPARATIONS TO $750,000,000

ble detailing the conference's efforts for peace and five resolutions.

The preamble concluded:

"The powers that have signed this treaty do not claim that the accomplishment at Lausanne, which will completely put an end to reparations, can by itself assure that era of peace which all nations desire.

"But they do hope for an assurance that all these aims of such deep significance will be understood and appreciated by all pacific elements in Europe and in the world. They do hope that these accomplishments, so arduously attained, will be followed by fresh achievements."

Five Resolutions Adopted.

The five resolutions were, briefly (1) an agreement regarding reparations between Germany and the former allies, (2) conditional measures extending a moratorium on intergovernmental debts, (3) an agreement to assist Austria and the Danubian states which are in financial difficulties, (4) creation of a committee to study the grain problem in the Danubian states which are embarrassed by a huge grain surplus, and (5) creation of the machinery for a world economic conference under the auspices of the League of Nations.

There was nothing about a "gentlemen's agreement" linking reparations with war debts nor was there any reference to the "war guilt" clause of the Versailles treaty.

It was in the early morning hours today that the break occurred in a Franco-German deadlock over this nearly final chapter in postwar finance.

Germany had been insisting, through her new chancellor, Franz von Papen, that the war guilt clause, placing the stigma on Germany, must be eliminated.

France Equally Firm.

France was equally firm against this political demand and also refused to accept 1,900,000,000 marks (currently about $450,000,000) as a final bonded settlement.

Chancellor von Papen rejected the allied suggestion for a series of bonds totaling 4,000,000,000 marks (currently about $1,000,000,000).

And there they were when the clouds broke.

Germany finally dropped her war guilt point, and it was understood agreed to submit the question to the League of Nations later.

Then Premier Edouard Herriot of France met this gesture by announcing a willingness to scale down the final settlement bonds to a total of 3,000,000,000 gold marks, or $750,000,000. That was a bargain.

The details of the bond issue were in brief that German bonds for the equivalent of $750,000,000 would be issued when Germany's credit would permit, and the price would be 90. The bond issue would be withheld, however, for at least three years.

The sinking fund requirement was fixed at 1 per cent, and maturity in 37 years was agreed upon, but if the issue is not floated within fifteen years it would automatically be canceled.

Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald of Great Britain and Premier Herriot were the happiest of the statesmen here over the settlement, which came, at the climax of protracted conferences since June 16.

Several times failure stared the delegates in the face, and as many times did they return doggedly to the task. More recently they were prodded by Mr. MacDonald, who insisted on agreement before this week-end. He got it.

The convention was approved by all but the Roumanian, Jugoslavian, Portuguese and Greek delegates, who read an identical declaration to the effect that they were unable to consent because of the extreme importance of the issue at hand to their countries. They said they reached this decision only after the closest examination.

Newton Wins New Trials In Son's Damage Suits

St. Paul, July 8 (A.P.).—Walter H. Newton, secretary to President Hoover, today won new trials of two damage actions against the Minneapolis Street Railway Co. growing out of an accident June 20, 1929, when his son, John Marshall, lost his right leg.

The suits, one for $50,000 in behalf of the boy, and the second for $10,000 for medical expenses Mr. Newton incurred, were remanded to the Hennepin County district court at Minneapolis for second trials by the Minnesota supreme court. The reversal came on the ground of various errors including misconduct on the part of jurors who singly visited the scene of the mishap in Minneapolis.

Texas Rangers' Chief May Guard Roosevelt

Abilene, Tex., July 8 (A.P.).—Services of "Bill" Sterling, adjutant general and head of the Texas Ranger force, as a personal escort to Franklin D. Roosevelt on his speaking tours over the Nation, were tendered to the Democratic presidential nominee today by Gov. Ross S. Sterling.

Rockefeller Passes 93d Birthday in Quiet Way

Tarrytown, N. Y., July 8 (A.P.).—John D. Rockefeller was 93 years old today and he recognized it quietly as befits a country gentleman who expects to live to be a hundred.

He permitted few deviations in his daily schedule except to devote the hour he usually spends playing numerica acknowledging the greetings of the staff on his estate. In the afternoon he went for a drive on public roads, although he might have ridden 33 miles on his own property without meeting another automobile.

Two American Bishops See Pope.

Vatican City, July 8 (A.P.).—Pope Pius granted an audience today to two American bishops, Michael Gallagher, of Detroit, and Joseph Schrembs, of Cleveland.

Interpreting the Mode

By DARE

Big hats are the mode only for beach wear (says Dah-ray).

NEW YORK, July 8.—Every now and then comes a query about big hats—will they or won't they, and when?

Ah, never, never! I hope!

I hope that never the big, awkward picture hat will come back into general style. Too numerous to even mention being the ridiculous and sometimes even dangerous incidents that attend them—hatpins not being the least, subway crushes not being the most awful.

I tell you, the big hats can not come back into style! Now, that is a beeeeeeg statement—but look; how could one manage a big hat in present day conveyances, to start with? Trains, airplanes, automobile—can you picture the big hat in any of them?

On the beach, of course, one sees the big hat—exaggerated beyond all possibility of being kidded! It kids itself first, comprenez?

But elsewhere—well, occasionally, but never of style importance. The bridesmaids, for instance. Or a lovely cinema star or actress, on stage or screen. Sometimes on a dance floor, and even quite frequently in a garden, or on a summer afternoon affair anywhere. That is all. The big hat is an "occasion" affair—and woe be it to Miladi's chic if she err in time and place!

• • • •

As I said, the big hat on the beach is quite right. Would you like to make yourself a beach hat? And maybe a bag to go with it? And maybe, too, a beach dress? And have the smartest beach ensemble anywhere—for the least money? Yes, I believe you can have all three of these for just sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post and following the detailed directions which will come back to you in the leaflet. You needn't be an expert seamstress, either. Because you can make at least the hat and bag even if you don't want to attempt the beach suit. And the materials are so very inexpensive, that it won't matter at all if the attempt isn't crowned with particular success. Try it!

• • • •

Now that everyone has a phobia to have her clothes look like everyone else's, attention turns to a slight individualizing in the form of the monogram. Your monogram somewhere on a costume, even if there are five identical models of the frock on the same boardwalk, immediately proclaims that the dress you are wearing is yours.

Monograms are chic, and the odder the place they appear, the better. Outside or even inside a pocket, under a box pleat at the side of the skirt, and of course on a scarf end or a cuff.

• • • •

Watch the brooch! For it's going to pin a lot of things together this fall, my deah. Even now, smart women at chic resorts are wearing big brooches—and, contrary to expectations, are wearing this kind of a pin on tailored frocks and tailleurs, instead of on formal gowns. No law against the latter, though.

• • • •

Did I ever tell you that white was demode for summer? No, I didn't! 'Twas Jean Patou who said it—and I, merely a Fashion Cricket, reported it to you.

But he was a bit premature. For white is aboundingly popular this summer, even extending to footwear—which is rather a surprise. At that, the darkish stocking, let alone the sun tanned leg, mitigates the enlarging effect which white shoes give, optically at least.

Au revoir!

How to Be Beautiful

By ELSIE PIERCE

EXPERT ANSWERS READERS' QUESTIONS.

Effect of Salt on Hair.

M. J. M.: In moderate doses and applied before the hair is shampooed, salt has a strengthening effect on the hair. However, after bathing or swimming in the ocean, if the hair is quite wet, a shampoo is advised, as the salt should not be allowed to remain in the hair for a long time, else it will not only give the hair a sticky appearance, but also tend to make it brittle.

Use Deodorants According to Directions.

"Nania:" I agree with you that summer requires more than usual precautions to preserve personal daintiness. However, your sister is right. Astringent deodorants or antiperspirants should not be used more than three or four times a week. That is sufficent. If you use them once or twice a day as you do, they may prove irritating. Furthermore, you will become so accustomed to them that their effectiveness will be lost. Be sure to follow directions. Your sister is right about cautioning you not to use the deodorant after shaving the underarms. My bulletin on perspiration will give you full information.

Tired Eyes.

"Sun Worshiper!" Lolling on the beach, gazing at the sky, watching the sun shining on the water and the beach are indeed a strain on the eyes. I advise sun glasses or a visor. If your eyes are tired or strained try this treatment: At night use pads of cotton repeatedly dipped in hot water for about ten minutes. Then pat gently with a good cream or oil. In the morning dip pads of cotton into cold, cold water and pat gently. A dash of cold water over and on the eyes is beneficial. Yes, you may use an eye bath or lotion once a day. A teaspoonful of table salt to a pint of boiled water; or a teaspoonful of boric acid to a pint of boiled water make two effective eye lotions. Use with eye cup or dropper. It is best to avoid strong sun or electric light when the eyes are strained. Remember, too, "Sun Worshiper," that flirting with Old Sol causes squint lines, so use your skin food or muscle oil generously around the eyes before going outdoors. My eye bulletin is yours for the asking plus a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Avoid Deep Nail Tints.

S. P.: Since your fingers are quite stubby and nails not the "beautiful oval shape" you envy, I would advise you to stick to the paler tints. The deep nail tints are very smart on a very chic individual with perfect hands, but call attention to any imperfections. Far from making the hands look lovelier, they would exaggerate the stubbiness of the fingers and the width of your nails. You can indeed manicure your hands at home after a little practice. Send for my hand bulletins including instructions for home manicure.

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

CHOLERA INFANTUM.

THE cholera infantum season approaches. When the weather gets hot and remains so for a while the babies suffer unduly. They have more skin to the pound of body weight than adults boast of, and heat registers its harmful effects on the integument.

Many compare cholera infantum with sunstroke, heat stroke, and heat cramps, holding that cholera infantum is the heat effect as it registers in babies; the others, as it registers on adults.

Probably the cause of cholera infantum is double headed, the second agency being spoilage of milk, and, possibly, of other foods.

The baby suffering from this disease loses so much water from its digestive tract that the blood becomes dangerously thickened. To ward off this danger fluids are drained out of all the tissues of the body. Physicians say the baby's organs are dehydrated. This deficiency of water causes the eyes to sink, the features to become drawn, the limbs to shrink, and the weight to fall. Many of the symptoms have been charged to deficiency of water in the tissues. The treatment consists in supplying water in whatever way that is possible.

But the lack of water as an explanation of the symptoms of cholera infantum did not completely fill the bill. It was then claimed that many of the symptoms were due to acidosis. Later on it was proved that in some cases there was alkalosis. Both suggestions embraced considerable truth. The rapid draining which takes place in cholera infantum does upset the mineral balance of the body, causing, sometimes acidosis, sometimes alkalosis—just as it upsets the water balance.

But this theory also left something to be desired. It is now suggested that under the conditions of cholera infantum guanidine is produced in excess in the body. To overcome this Dr. H. Casparis gives that chemical which is an antidote for guanidine, namely, calcium or lime. The preparation of calcium which he uses is the gluconate. Gluconate of calcium can be given by the stomach, but, practically speaking, that route is not of much service for any medication in cholera infantum.

Whether it be water given to supply the dried out cells, or salt to make up for the salt loss, or minerals to overcome the acidosis or alkalosis, or calcium to neutralize the guanidine—whatever is used must be introduced by some form of injection. The most prompt action is that which follows injection into blood vessels. Next is that following injection under the skin, followed by injection into the muscles and into the bowels. If there is no nausea and if the emergency is not great, any or all of the above can be given by mouth.

If a baby develops cholera infantum the proper steps to take are as follows:

Stop all foods. If there is vomiting, stop water. Wrap the child well. Send for the doctor.

When the doctor takes charge he will give salt solution, or water in the form of some other solution by injection. He will inject gluconate of calcium if he accepts the practice of Dr. Casparis, and he may give alkalis or fruit juices. As soon as the stomach will retain it he will give water and fruit juice by mouth.

Radio Dial Flashes

By ROBERT D. HEINL

ONE of the most important horse races of the season, that for the Arlington Cup, will be reported over WRC as it is being run at the Arlington track in Chicago this afternoon. Clem McCarthy will handle the description of the classic, which is scheduled for 5 p. m.

Another sports event on the calendar is a description of the last half hour of the final of the six-day bicycle races being held at the Atlantic City Auditorium this week, by Andy Stanton, sports announcer of Station WIP, Philadelphia. WMAL will carry the description, beginning at 11:30 tonight.

Senator Robert F. Wagner, Democrat, of New York, and Representative Allen T. Treadway, Republican, of Massachusetts, will discuss the status of the Wagner-Garner $2,500,000,000 relief bill during the Institute of Public Affairs (WMAL, 8:15 o'clock) tonight. Senator Wagner is co-author of the measure and successfully piloted it through the Senate. Representative Treadway is the one Republican member of the Senate-House conference committee, who refused to sign its report favoring the bill. He is the principal exponent of the Hoover administration's viewpoint, which is expected to manifest itself in the form of a veto of the Wagner-Garner measure as soon as it has received the assent of both houses of Congress.

AN all-American program, consisting of selections from the works of MacDowell, Nevin, Herbert and Sousa and the more recent compositions of Guion and Hadley, will be presented by Edwin Franko Goldman and his band during the concert from the New York University campus (WRC, 8 p. m.). Del Staigers, cornet soloist, will play Herbert's "The Three Solitaires."

WRC switched from the WEAF network to the WJZ chain in order to accede to the many demands for the Goldman Band concerts. Therefore it will not be a part of its regular network when a pistol shot and the familiar cry, "The Cuckoo is dead—long live the Cuckoo," will serve to warn listeners that a broadcast from Station KUKU, under the direction of Ray Knight, is on the air again at 8 o'clock. Adelina Thomason in the role of Mrs. Pennyfeather, the Upper Trio and a symphonic razz program conducted by Maestro Robert Armbruster also will be heard.

Another of the Little Journeys to the Homes of Great Services will be described by Elwood Street, director of the Community Chest (WRC, 4:45 o'clock) this afternoon.

RIMSKY - KORSAKOFF'S symphonic suite, "Scheherazade," will be performed in full as the feature of the Lewisohn Stadium concert. The New York Philharmonic Society Orchestra, under the leadership of Willem van Hoogstraten, will be on the air for an hour and a half over WMAL, beginning at 7:30 o'clock.

Continuing in Oriental vein, Van Hoogstraten will offer Goldmark's Overture to "Sakuntala," Saint-Saens' symphonic poem, "Danse Macabre;" the melodic waltz, "Wiener Blut," by Strauss, and finally the martial strains of Tschaikowsky's "Slavic March" make up the program.

Irene Beasley, the "long, tall gal from Dixie," will offer a group of currently popular melodies and old favorites, including "Holding My Honey's Hand," "Now You've Got Me Worrying for You" and "Back in Your Own Back Yard" (WMAL, 1 o'clock) tonight.

WHEN there is an idle half hour on the networks late at night, we suggest that the N. B. C. let its announcers have another broadcast party so that the radio audience may meet the rest of the staff. There wasn't much sense in most of it—but then radio announcers will be radio announcers and the audience had a lot of fun.

The informality which prevailed during that program probably did more to make the group of announcers present—which included Graham McNamee, Milton Cross, Jimmy Wallington, Howard Petrie, George Hicks, Ed Thorgersen, Howard Claney and Ben Grauer—known to listeners than a hundred straight announcing jobs. The boys were just being themselves. We'll take part of that back, because Graham and Jimmy really are not as silly in real life as they were playing the Ice and the Northwind, respectively, in the burlesque of "Uncle Tom's Cabin." The opinion is ventured that the trick program will draw more fan mail than they've seen around N. B. C. for a long time.

TRIBE DEALS NATS 7TH STRAIGHT ONE-RUN DEFEAT

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

BILL DICKEY may be able to take care of his enemies on the ball field, but somebody ought to save him from his friends.

Manager Joe McCarthy and Dickey's colleagues on the New York Yankees, who are attempting to show that the Yankee catcher was justified in sloughing Carl Reynolds last Fourth of July after the collision at the plate, point out that Dickey has been considerably mauled this season by base runners.

"Only the day before, Roy Johnson, of the Red Sox, came in standing up and knocked Dickey down, loosening a couple of teeth," said McCarthy. "Dickey said that the next man who roughed him up had better watch out."

And if that isn't premeditation and malice aforethought in the case of Dickey vs. Reynolds, then Blackstone was a shyster lawyer.

Connie Mack has announced the day he will quit baseball. In July's "Rotarian," the venerable manager of the Athletics, tells his fellow Rotarians in an article entitled "I'm Not Ready to Quit" that he'll retire from the game whenever his health demands.

But Mack adds that in his seventieth year he is struggling for his fourth straight pennant with the same mental outlook of ten or twenty years ago, and that he was never in better health than at the present.

In a fascinating word-picture of his career Mack reveals that he was a big league ball player for ten years before it was discovered that his real patronymic was McGillicuddy. He was catapulted into baseball in 1884 when a shutdown of a Brookfield (Mass.) shoe factory cost him his job as a heel-lift cutter and beat down the resistance of parental objection to a baseball career.

If the Nats can find any solace in the fact that their last six defeats have been by one-run margins, they are welcome to it, but this department has always been of the belief that it was the good team that won the close ones.

In 1924 and 1925 when the Washington Club was in its ascendancy it was the close games that the Nats won that counted so heavily in beating off the Athletics and Yankees in those years.

Those were the days when the Nats had pitchers like Johnson, Mogridge, Zachary, Marberry, Coveleskie, Ruether and Ogden to preserve the one and two-run leads that the team handed them.

Washington's outstanding hope for Olympic honors departs today for Los Angeles to sling his fists for the glory of the United States in the lightweight class.

Bobby Goldstein, from a fighting Washington family, who graduated from Tech High School here and is now captain of the University of Virginia Boxing Team with a record of not having lost a college fight, yesterday finished a strenuous three-weeks training session at Pompon's Lake, N. Y.

Young Goldstein during the past two weeks has received benefit of none other than Tony Canzoneri's opposition in his training bouts and the lightweight champion of the world goes right out on the limb to say that if Bobby doesn't come back with the Olympic championship to show for his efforts, the most surprised inhabitant of these United States will be Tony Canzoneri.

Watrous New Canada Golf Leader

Adds Round of 70 to Total 142, Ousting Cooper.

Hagen Three Behind With 145; Diegel Is Close Up.

OTTAWA, Canada, July 8 (U.P.).—Al Watrous, of Birmingham, Mich., swept into the lead in the Canadian open golf championship today with an aggregate of 142, as other American golfers fell by the wayside on the rain-dampened course of the Ottawa Hunt and Golf Club.

Watrous shot a blistering 70, three under par, for the second 18 holes of the 72-hole grind, to give himself an excellent chance to become the second man to win the Canadian title more than once.

Back in 1922, Watrous, then 22, captured the open at Montreal with an aggregate of 303. Now, ten years later, he holds a two-stroke lead over Harry Cooper, of Chicago, yesterday's leader, as 77 players who qualified prepare to settle the championship over the final 36-hole route tomorrow.

Hagen Adds a 75 For 145 Total.

Behind Cooper came Walter Hagen, of Detroit, who played a poor game. "The Haig" took 75, to give him an aggregate of 145. In the 146 group were Olin Dutra, Los Angeles; Tom Kerrigan, Mount Vernon, N. Y.; Leo Diegel, Agua Caliente, Mexico, and MacDonald Smith, of Great Neck, N. Y.

Of the 77 players who qualified by making 162 or better, 27 were Americans, 48 Canadians, 1 a Japanese and the other an Argentine. The leaders:

Al Watrous, Birm'ham, Mich.	72	70—142
Harry Cooper, Chicago	69	75—144

Nurmi, Still a Man Apart, Leads Finn Team to U. S.

Married and Bald at 35, Paavo Fails to Reveal Plans

By EDWARD J. NEIL.

NEW YORK, July 8 (A.P.).—The sphinx of Finland, inscrutable Paavo Nurmi, came back today to the scenes of some of his greatest triumphs, three years older, married and quite bald at 35, but still one of the world's greatest foot racers.

He stood on the deck of the Mauretania as the giant liner slid up the bay, his floppy felt hat tilting forward fore and aft, as it always did, his face the same thin brown mask it always was, the most interesting figure in the advance group of Finland's 1932 Olympic contingent, yet a man apart.

Status Uncertain Until Eve of Games.

Paavo will not know until just before the Los Angeles games whether or not he is a full-fledged member of Finland's small but brilliant squad of ten track and field aces, qualified to seek in one last Marathon the final glory of a record-smashing career that already has stretched through three Olympics. The international amateur federation will meet then to reconsider, at Finland's request, the ban placed on Nurmi last winter for alleged expense account irregularities and failure to appear at scheduled meets in Germany.

He seemed to feel that as he stood in the sun on the top deck while cameras ground and newspapermen vainly sought to pierce the impassiveness and shyness of the Finns, who all looked alike—slender, lank-haired, drawn-faced—not a man among them except Paavo who understood a single word of English.

A particular blight seemed to have fallen on Paavo's command of the language, expanded to "I run fast," "goot" and "ugh" during previous American campaigns. He blinked impassively and shook his head at most questions. Interpreters tried their hand in Finnish.

Paavo Says "No" In Long Speech.

"Did Paavo think his suspension unjust? Did he feel as well as he looked? What time did he expect to run the 26 miles, 385 yards, in at Los Angeles if he were reinstated?"

Nurmi listened thoughtfully, then he burst forth in a flood of Finnish oratory that lasted several minutes.

The interpreter heard him through and spread his hands hopelessly. "Paavo says 'No,'" he announced.

Persistent questioning through reluctant interpreters did reveal, however, that Nurmi will time himself with a stop watch in the Olympic marathon, if he gets a chance to run, just as he did when he was competing in the shorter distances. His marathon will be his last competitive effort.

MACKS TAKE PAIR; GAIN 2D PLACE

Chisox Defeated, 6-4, and 11-2; Foxx Hits 30th Homer.

PHILADELPHIA, July 8 (A.P.).—Winning both ends of today's double-header with the Chicago White Sox, the Athletics leaped into second place over the Detroit Tigers, six and a half games behind the Yanks. The scores of the Mack triumphs were 6 to 4 and 11 to 2.

Two runs scored in the sixth inning to break a 3-to-3 tie gave the Athletics the first contest. The Mackmen clinched the second game early, scoring four runs that finished Gaston in the first inning, and coming back with five more in the second.

Jimmy Foxx hit his thirtieth home run of the season in the first game and Simmons cracked his seventeenth with two on base in the second contest. Roger Cramer hit in both games to run his record of hitting in consecutive games to 22 in a row.

Stella Walsh Spurns U. S. Oath, Choosing Polish Olympic Berth

CLEVELAND, Ohio, July 8 (A.P.).—Stella Walsh, 21-year-old world women's sprint champion, today declined the citizenship papers that would have made her eligiable to race for the United States in next month's Olympic games.

She was undecided whether to represent her native Poland, but refused to take the oath of allegiance to Uncle Sam at a naturalization hearing today. She appeared in Federal Court exhibiting a cablegram written in Polish, which she said contained "information that may affect my whole future life." Beyond that she declined to reveal what the message said.

She will have one more opportunity to change her mind next Wednesday, when a hearing will be held for special cases. Rumors that she would race for Poland instead of the United States have been spread since she was indefinitely furloughed by the New York Central Railroad, for whom she was a filing clerk. Her department was discontinued.

Her trainer, Dan Griffin, pleaded with her to take her final citizenship papers, but she was adamant.

She had planned to enter the 400-meter relay, 100-meter dash, 80-meter hurdles, javelin and discus throws and was regared a certain point winner in all these events. She holds the world's women records in the 60, 100 and 200-meter dashes, and has set seven American and four Canadian sprint records.

Upset Defeat Suffered by Mangan

Hermann Eliminates Former Champion, 3-6, 9-7, 11-9.

Muehleisen, Mitchell, Considine Survive in D. C. Tennis.

SCORING the biggest upset recorded in local tennis for a decade, Gene Hermann, painstakingly accurate public parks tennis player, yesterday entered the semi-final round of the forty-fifth District of Columbia championship at Wardman Park, by defeating Tom Mangan, former champion and an odds-on favorite, 3—6, 9—7, 11—9 in the bitterest match witnessed here in a long time.

The remaining three players to reach the round of four were the seeded No. 1 player and tournament favorite, Dolf Muehleisen, who beat Ensign Jimmy Farrin without trouble, 6—1, 6—3; Dooly Mitchell, who opened up a terrific cannonading to beat Bud Markey, 6—0, in the third set of their match, and Bob Considine, who put out Anthony Latona, 4—6, 6—3, 6—4.

Today at 2 o'clock, Muehleisen meets Considine and Mitchell tackles Hermann. The finals will be played tomorrow.

Hermann Plays Dogged Match.

Holding on with bulldog tenacity, by dint of running miles for every shot and volleying bravely into the teeth of the best driving in Washington, Hermann staged a comeback yesterday that long will be remembered by the several hundred who witnessed the match. Shooting blistering drives into Hermann's courts, Mangan reeled off the first set, 6—3, without trouble, and went to 4—2 and 40—0 in the second.

Probably it was here that Hermann switched his tactics. He had been making the error of swapping chops for Mangan's drives, and he was making no headway fast. At this point he began to stake all on his net game, taking Mangan's flat hard drives and blocking them deceptively out of range. At times he would dive with a rib-straining reach half way across the court, to trap Mangan's accurate drives.

Games went with service for over an hour, with rallies marking each point. It was Mangan who tired first, no longer able to run for Hermann's short shots, and it was his service that fell at the last stage.

Muehleisen had no trouble with Farrin, although the Navy man went to 3—2 in the second set. Mitchell and Markey staged a good enough match, with Markey showing fine tennis to take the second set, but in the third Mitchell's drives hit so deep and so hard that few in this section of the country could have withstood the withering fire. Latona led Considine 4—3 and 30—15 in the third set of his match, and seemed well on the way to victory.

YESTERDAY'S RESULTS.

Londos Given 60 Days To Accept Lewis Bout

Philadelphia, July 8 (A.P.).—Jim Londos, recognized as the heavyweight wrestling champion by the Pennsylvania and New York State Athletic Commissions, today was ordered by the Pennsylvania board to defend that title against Ed (Strangler) Lewis.

Londos was given 60 days to accept the challenge by Lewis. If he does not accept his title will be vacated, the commission stated.

N. Y. Solons Approve Carnera-Gross Match

New York, July 8 (A.P.).—The New York State athletic commission today approved a 10-round bout between Primo Carnera, giant Italian heavyweight, and Jack Gross of Philadelphia at Ebbets field July 20. The fight will be Carnera's first in this country since knocking out Victorio Campolo.

The commission also approved a 10-round fight between Benny Leonard, former lightweight champion, and Paulie Walker of New Jersey at Ebbets field July 27.

Combs' Clout Nets Yanks 3-2 Win

Circuit Blow in Third With 2 On Beats Sorrell, of Tigers.

Ruffing Strikes Out 10, Allowing Only 3 Hits Until Ninth.

NEW YORK, July 8 (A.P.).—Prof. Earl Combs terminated the Yankees' losing streak suddenly and effectively today when he knocked one of Vic Sorrell's offerings into the distant bleachers with two mates aboard, the big punch being sufficient to give the leaders a 3-to-2 decision over Detroit.

Combs' blow, which came in the third inning, was about all the damage the Yanks could do to the Tiger star. He held them to two scattered hits the rest of the way and yielded only seven in all, but he couldn't match Charley Ruffing.

The Yankee right-hander pitched brilliant ball all the way, striking out ten Tigers and allowing only three hits until the ninth frame, when he granted three more. Jonathan Stone, whose bat had wrecked the Yankees' chances the previous day, struck out four times.

MISS CORINNE PAYS $100 MUTUEL IN SURPRISE AT ARLINGTON

Easy Victory Scored by 49-1 Shot

Filly Takes Lead as Cathop Quits and Wins Galloping.

Swift and True Best by 5 Lengths in Feature Purse.

ARLINGTON PARK, Ill., July 8 (A.P.).—Paying $100 in the $2 win mutuels, Miss Corinne startled the racegoers today by winning the fourth event, a mile race for 3-year-olds, in easy fashion from Prince Hotspur, the warm second choice. Miss Corinne paid $21.10 to place and $8 to show.

The filly, with W. Wright up, was never far behind the pace, and when Cathop dropped out of it took command and held a two-length margin easily.

Jumping into the lead at the lifting of the barrier, Max Hirsch's Swift and True ran away from his field to win the $2,500 added Crystal Lake Purse.

Jockey H. Callahan sent Swift and True to the front at once and won the 1¼ miles event by five lengths from Burning Up, which outlasted Dr. Freeland for the place. Swift and True paid $10.18 for each $2 straight ticket.

Pardo's 78 Triumphs In Kiwanis Tournament

Charles H. Pardo won the Kiwanis Club golf tournament with a low gross score of 78 yesterday on the course of the Washington Golf and Country Club. Bynum H. Hinton and Frank T. Mitchell tied for second place, each with 87, while Edward S. Pardo took third place with 91. Charles D. German and Fred A. Shutz each scored 92 and Martin Wiegand registered fifth with 94.

Other members participating were Albert W. Howard, Eugene H. Ruark, Arthur T. Harnett, William H. Patterson, Harry H. Hahn, sr., Harry H. Hahn, jr., Edward C. Baltz, Earl D. Krewson, John Myers and Dr. O. U. Singer.

Edwin F. Hill, president of the club, and John M. Shaw were guests of the players at a banquet following the tourney.

JOE AND ASBESTOS

(Watch Sunday's Post for New Secret Code) —By Ken Kling

Tough luck. Asbestos cashed on Journey's End yesterday, but his other horse was nosed out by a 50-to-1 shot and paid even money for place. The roll went up 30 cents and is now $62.92.

AT THE POST

with Bill Bennings

ARLINGTON PARK, CHICAGO, JULY 8.

DEAR AL:

Equipoise goes for another load of dough tomorrow in the $20,000 added Arlington Gold Cup. Sonny Workman is set to do the booting. Everything looks right but the price, which probably will be a pack of cigarettes for each $2. Quibbler did nobly for me today. Had several long price seconds, but they no counta. The card has been stretched today to eight races. Chance to get that vacation roll.

At the other courses today I like Mynheer, Sir Byron, Gloria Maris, Recede, Sandwrack, Transgression.

BILL.

FIRST RACE—Here's the toughest proposition of the meeting to date. I think the best bet is the field across the board, and as that group will not be known until program time tomorrow I'll have to name KEATON, METAURUS and PIERRE PAN. A good place to get rid of an ace to show.

SECOND RACE—MISGUIDE was an impressive winner here recently and I expect this one to handle HILENA tomorrow. The latter has works to recommend her. BONNIE CAP failed me and I am putting him third this time.

THIRD RACE — GABBO has been beating this kind for me and therefore I'm sticking. CULLODEN likes the distance and is in good form. GARLIC will have WATERPORT to battle for the third end.

FOURTH RACE — DON LEON has shown several bursts of speed here that have placed him high on my list. Whether or not he rates high enough to beat JAMESTOWN I don't know. Gets a big chunk of weight and is worth a chance bet, considering the revenues that will be involved. SUN MELUS is a dangerous one that I'm putting third.

FIFTH RACE—FAIRBYPAIR and RISQUE, the Mrs. J. Hertz entry, seem to have a lock and key on the top honors in this race. Both are fit horses and either can turn the trick. MORSEL came to life last time under the handling of Robertson and the same combination would be dangerous today. PITTSBURGHER, if elected to go in this, will have something to say in the stretch.

SIXTH RACE — EQUIPOISE to win the Twenty Grand race. The Whitney star shares top weight, for a change, with the majority of this field. GUSTO and TRED AVON to battle for the place award.

SEVENTH RACE — LADY BROADCAST, at the weights, appears the logical choice in this. IMPISH and SUNVIR look like the ones to cause trouble, providing the top miss is pressed.

EIGHTH RACE — LADRONE failed to click the last time, but I threw that race in a ditch on the way back from the track. Looks like the spot to me at liberal odds. CALOME, recent winner, and HARAMZADA for the remainder.

Sinking Stocks Disregard Europe's War Debt Accord

Expected Early Buoyancy Fails and Prices Mark Closing Losses.

New York, July 8 (A.P.).—Except for inevitable buoyancy in Reich bonds, today's security markets made a negative response to news that France and Germany had settled their reparations argument.

Stocks were mildly cheerful at the opening, by which time Lausanne dispatches had announced the settlement, but the smattering of gains was quickly dissipated.

Thereafter weakness was selective, but the list generally refused to manifest enthusiasm over what had happened abroad and closing prices were irregularly lower. A few losses ranged from 2 to 6 points; in the main net changes were fractional. Sales totaled 720,288 shares.

Selling Hits Utilities.

Utilities had to take more or less selling all day. American Telephone, whose second quarter results will be forthcoming in another week or two, swerved well into the early seventies and was down 2 net. Peoples Gas lost 4 and Detroit Edison 6. There were fractional losses for North American and Public Service of New Jersey, among others.

Industrials were sluggish but reasonably steady. U. S. Steel, with an unfilled tonnage statement due at noon tomorrow, was off slightly at the close; so were Allied Chemical, Du Pont, International Business Machines, International Shoe, Westinghouse, Wrigley and Borden. National Biscuit, American Can, General Electric, Standard Oil of New Jersey and American Tobacco "B" were steady. General Motors, whose June sales were well under those of May, traded quietly. In rails, Union Pacific went to a new low, off 1½ net.

Wall street's seeming lack of interest in the turn taken by European affairs may have been based particularly on association, in the speculative mind, between reparations and war debts and a feeling that much water would probably have to go under the bridge before benefits of today's agreement could be realized internationally.

Bankers Praise Europe.

Nevertheless, bankers pointed out that whatever the momentary mood here, the step taken at Lausanne could hardly be minimized, and that Europe had done something very definite toward helping herself. Without doubt the market is currently more interested in such practical matters as earnings, dividends and trade trends than in broader horizons, and this attitude, brokers suggested, makes difficult the dispersion of pessimism.

Mercantile reviews said there has been some letdown in retail buying, a natural aftermath of the holiday, but that on the whole merchandising volume had turned in a fairly good record this week. Special sales and filling of vacation needs are sustaining factors in most parts of the country, while in Western farming communities the bull market in hogs has bolstered purchasing power.

Cotton was helped by a somewhat larger acreage decrease than had been expected from the July 1 estimate. Sugar futures maintained their rising reputation and trading in them was actively.

Cash Made Available As National Bank Fails

Clearfield, Pa., July 8 (A.P.).—The Clearfield National Bank today placed its affairs in the hands of the comptroller of currenc, for liquidation. Frozen assets were given as the reason for the action. The Clearfield Trust Co. and the Clearfield County National Bank announced plans to cash certificates of deposit for patrons of the closed institution.

The closed bank's deposits, according to a recent statement, totaled $720,000. The statement listed capital at $200,000, surplus of $250,000, and undivided profits of $17,000.

Real Estate Bondholder Committee Is Formed

New York, July 8 (A.P.).—Formation of a general protective committee for holders of more than $3,000,000,000 in real estate bonds in default throughout the United States, was announced today.

Samuel Seabury, counsel of the Hofstadter committee, will be its chief counsel.

Street Interested Again in Oil Parley

Socony-Vacuum Chairman Sails for Europe; Meeting Aid Denied.

New York, July 8 (A.P.).—The sailing for Europe today of Herbert L. Pratt, chairman of the Socony-Vacuum Corporation, heightened Wall street's interest in the international oil conference at Paris, but it was said at Mr. Pratt's office that he did not plan to attend.

A leader in the conference, seeking to reach an agreement to prevent dumping and consequent demoralization in the international markets, is Charles E. Arnott, president of Socony-Vacuum, who recently failed in a series of conferences in New York to reach an agreement with the Soviet Russian Oil Trust. The Paris conference is directed primarily toward an agreement with Roumanian producers, and may include Russians later. It was explained that Mr. Pratt planned to visit offices of the company in France and Germany, but has leased a shooting lodge in Scotland, and has no intention of participating in the Paris meeting.

Mr. Pratt has long been an important factor in the world oil markets. As head of the Standard Oil Co. of New York, since last year a part of Socony-Vacuum, he has occasionally clashed with Sir Henri Deterding, head of the Royal Dutch Shell group. A few years ago, Sir Henri deeply resented the American oil interests' dealings with Soviet Russian Oil Trust, but Royal Dutch was represented in the recent New York conference with the Russians.

National Public Service Files Bankruptcy Plea

New York, July 8 (A.P.).—The National Public Service Corporation and its affiliate, Seaboard Public Service Co., filed voluntary petitions in bankruptcy in Federal District Court today. They are holding companies for public utility corporations chiefly in the South.

The liabilities of the national concern were listed in incomplete schedules of $38,238,500 and assets at a par value of $65,315,450. Liabilities of the latter firm were given as $10,800,000 and assets at par as $31,250,000.

	Fri.	Thurs.
Number of advances	113	169
Number of declines	220	191
Stocks unchanged	145	100
Total issues traded	478	460

Stocks.

Expected buoyancy following news of Europe's war debt settlement failed, and shares closed lower. Some losses reached 2 to 6 points.

Bonds.

Foreign issues again led in buying activity, influenced by the debt pact with Germany. U. S. Liberties were higher, with one exception. Corporate loans made little change.

Curb.

Drooping tendencies followed the big board. The volume continued light, in spite of a wide range of sales. Oils were dull.

Wheat.

Economic outlook abroad helped to boost price of wheat. Gain at the close was trimmed to three-eighths, leaving the market unsettled.

Cotton.

The Government's report of 37,290,000 acres in cultivation, showing decrease in planted area of 9.5 per cent, resulted in price advance. General market buying was reported in Liverpool.

NATIONAL LIFE GETS LARGER OFFICE HERE

Business Expansion Makes Move Expedient; Airways to Retrench.

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

News of improvement and expansion is heartening these days, and most welcome is the information that the local office of the National Life Insurance Co. of Vermont, with home office at Montpelier, in that State, has moved from 1512 H street northwest into larger quarters in the Edmonds Building, at 917 Fifteenth street northwest.

This company, it is announced, has been operating in the District of Columbia since 1887 and has an extensive clientele among some of the best business and professional life of the city. Karl S. Hoffman, general agent, in charge of the local office, reports that the company's life insurance business in the District of Columbia has increased 113 per cent during the first six months of this year as compared with 1931.

He states that annuity and old-age pension contracts also have shown a large increase. With larger quarters and increased facilities for serving the people in this territory, Mr. Hoffman and his associates look forward to a still larger increase in business in the next six months.

Airways System Retrenches.

The local office of Pan-American Airways System, in the Barr Building, announced yesterday that a retrenchment program throughout the system, involving readjustments of salaries and wages, as a result of continued adverse economic conditions together with the depreciation of currency in countries served by the international airlines, has been authorized by the corporation's board of directors, to become effective July 15, following recommendations of the executive committee.

It is stated that while traffic volume over the Pan-American Airways System continues to increase at a satisfactory rate, even against the unfavorable economic trend, the resulting revenues received in most of the 34 countries served by the system have been adversely affected by current exchange conditions.

Deficit Still Remains.

Although considerable earnings improvement was shown on the last annual report of the corporation as compared with previous years, the international air transport system is still confronted with an operating deficit, it is announced.

The retrenchment program does not involve a flat percentage cut in salaries or wages, it is explained, but readjustments will be effected by taking into consideration reduced living costs and other factors in many countries served by the Pan-American airlines.

In connection with putting the retrenchment program into effect, a special meeting of the stockholders yesterday unanimously approved a plan submitted by the directors which provides that a portion of the compensation of executives and employes shall be contingent upon earnings.

FOREIGN BONDS LEAD TRADING ON MARKET

U. S. Liberty Issues Higher; Price Changes Small in Corporate Loans.

New York, July 8 (A.P.).—The bond market today received the announcement of a reparations agreement by European nations with another outburst of well-sustained buying of foreign government bonds.

Domestic issues were somewhat mixed, although price changes in leading issues were unimportant. The U. S. Government group reflected some selling in the Treasury issues, while the Liberty bonds went higher with a single exception. Industrial and utility bonds lifted, while railroad bonds lost a fraction—gains completely erasing losses so far as the Associated Press-Standard Statistics averages were concerned, the index closing at the same level as yesterday. Transactions totaled $11,641,000 par amount.

German government bonds especially benefited from the Lausanne announcement. Both the 7s and 5½s sold in new high ground and closed respectively at 66¾, up 1¼, and 47¼, up 3¼. Gains of 2 to 3 points were registered by the Berlin City 6s, Berlin Elevated 6½s and Siemens & Halske 6½s. Other foreign bonds which ran up 2 or more points included government issues of the Argentine, Colombia, Denmark, Greece, Haiti, Sweden and some Italian and Swedish municipals.

Turnover in the United States Government list was fairly large. A single block of $1,000,000 Treasury 3⅜s of March, 1943, changed hands at 98 16-32, off 3-32 point. This issue closed at 98 12-32.

Railroad bonds which lost 2 or more points included Burlington 4½s, Chicago & Eastern Illinois 6s, Illinois Central collateral 4s, Missouri Illinois 5s and M.-K.-T. adjustment 5s.

CURB PRICES DROOP AFTER EARLY GAINS

Trading Follows Big Board in Performance; Sales Range Is Wide.

New York, July 8 (A.P.).—The curb market drifted irregularly lower today, as the utilities encountered further liquidation.

Selling in the utility group was coupled with some bearish talk of agitation for reduced rates in a number of States, but selling at no time reached large proportions, however, for the day's turnover was only 90,000 shares.

Some issues in the group were firm for a time. Electric Bond & Share closed at 5½, off ¼, after touching 6, and the preferred issues were higher, the 6 per cent issue rising 2 points. Consolidated Gas of Baltimore lost an early gain to close down a fraction. Northern States A also eased fractionally, while American Gas dropped about a point, and Commonwealth Edison 1½. Some preferred issues broke sharply in a light dealing. New England Power preferred lost nearly 5, and Long Island Lighting, 8. United Light A rallied a fraction.

Among soft spots in the industrials was McCord Radiator B, trading at 1½, against 2½ previously, and Ainsworth Manufacturing at 3, against 4¾ previously. Aluminum Co. lost 2 points. Oils were fairly steady, moving narrowly. Gulf was up a fraction, Indians closed unchanged and Nebraska off slightly. Union Oil Associates, however, sagged a full point.

WHEAT PRICE HIGHER ON ECONOMIC NEWS

Advance Recorded Is Slight, With Trend Uncertain; Other Grains Up.

Chicago, July 8 (A.P.).—Grain values averaged higher today, influenced by favorable reports on economic prospects abroad as a result of an accord at Lausanne on Germany's war reparations.

Giving some stimulus to wheat buyers was a New York stock market afternoon rally which, however, flattened out later when wheat trading here had ended. There were also reports that parts of Kansas had received new rainfalls, 4 to 8 inches near Salina, Glasco and Niles, a circumstance emphasizing unusual curtailment of the domestic wheat movement, primary receipts today amounting to less than a third of the total a year ago.

Wheat Closes Unsettled.

Wheat closed unsettled, at the same as yesterday's finish to ⅜ higher, corn unchanged to ⅜ up, oats unchanged to ⅛ off, and provisions unchanged to 12 cents down.

Wheat prices were at their highest in the last hour, but most of the gains disappeared in a reaction just before the finish. At no time, though, did wheat reach more than a full cent advance.

Trade tension was more or less relieved by Washington advices that there was no reason to fear any immediate pressure to sell Farm Board wheat holdings.

Corn and oats mostly imitated the action of wheat. France and Ireland bought a few loads of white corn at the seaboard.

Profit-taking sales eased the provision market, although hog values were again higher.

London.—Trading continued cheerful and the general improvement was strengthened by news of the Franco-German agreement at Lausanne. Gilt-edged securities and German and Austrian bonds were prominent, while Japanese and Brazilian bonds eased. The closing was firm.

Paris.—Despite weakness in New York the market developed strength which continued despite profit taking. French rentes were firmer on covering and international shares were strong. The close was firm.

Berlin.—Prices fluctuated on the Boerse with irregular movements, variations ranging as much as two points either way.

Sugar Futures Trading Mounts to 76,950 Tons

New York, July 8 (A.P.).—The raw sugar futures market continued its advance today, reaching a new peak of activity at 76,950 tons. This was said to be the heaviest volume for a single day on the Coffee and Sugar Exchange since December 16, 1930.

Net gains in futures ranged from 1 to 4 points, with September continuing the most active position at a new high level of 1.03 cents a pound, as compared with 99-100 of a cent a pound on the previous day.

COTTON ADVANCES ON ACREAGE REPORT

Government Estimate Falls Below Private Figures; Liverpool Buys.

New York, July 8 (A.P.).—The feature in cotton today was the Government report estimating the acreage under cultivation as of July 1, at 37,290,000 acres, a decrease of 9.5 per cent.

The figures were slightly below the average of recent private reports and prices steadied up in the late trading. October contracts, after selling up to 6.16, broke to 5.97 and colsed at 6.07, with the general market closing steady at net advances of 4 to 6 points.

After opening of 2 to 7 points on the news from Lausanne and relatively firm Liverpool, the market met considerable realizing or liquidation, but offerings were readily absorbed. A flurry of prebureau covering later in the morning sent prices about 8 to 10 points net higher on active positions, but following the report there was another spurt of buying which sent July up to 6.01 and December to 6.28, or 12 to 14 points net higher. Later prices yielded to 8 points, but firmed up again in the late trading.

The news from Lausanne favorably affected sentiment both here and in Liverpool. Liverpool private cables reported general buying on the encouraging news on reparations and houses with both Liverpool and continental connections were reported among the buyers here.

Exports today, 16,372, making 8,502,693 so far this season. Port receipts, 8,509. U. S. port stocks, 3,552,800.

Embargo on Steel Imports Is Urged

National Association Head Advocates Move to Aid Industry.

New York, July 8 (A.P.).—An immediate embargo on steel imports to spare the American steel industry further "abnormal competition" is urged by George H. Charis, president of the National Association of Flat Rolled Steel Manufacturers, in a letter to members of Congress.

In his communication outlining the need for relief, Mr. Charis said the unprecedented foreign competition has gone so far that it could hardly be arrested by readjusting the tariff to take care of depreciated currencies abroad. "It is also doubtful," he wrote, "whether the antidumping act or the flexible features of the tariff act are adequate."

The situation is beyond the control of the steel industry, Mr. Charis said, and if permitted to continue will bring further disaster to the industry and the 600,000 employes depending upon it for a livelihood.

AMERICAN & FOREIGN POWER NET LOWER

Interest Requirements Met; Total Revenues Drop to $65,426,170.

New York, July 8 (A.P.).—The American & Foreign Power Co., Inc., today issued its regular annual report for 1931 and also a supplementary earnings statement, bringing earnings up to March 31, last. Both statements showed interest requirements of the company were earned by a substantial margin, although full preferred dividends were not.

For the calendar year 1931, total operating revenues were $65,426,170 against $78,655,635 in 1930. There was a balance of $23,153,894 for interest against $28,843,151 in 1930. After interest there was a balance of $16,246,930 available for preferred dividends against $25,104,878 in 1930. After allowing for all classes of preferred dividends, whether paid or not, there was a deficit for 1931 of $8,294,173 against a surplus of $1,727,746 in 1930.

The company's supplementary statement indicated further shrinkage in revenues during the first quarter of this year. For the twelve-month period ended March 31, last, gross revenues totaled $62,010,147.

Balance applicable to interest stood at $21,096,984. After interest charges there was a balance of $13,975,858 for preferred dividends, leaving a deficit of $10,493,820 after deducting for dividends on all classes of preferred, whether paid or not.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix

WHEN Lumus Redict, a Lancaster, S. C., barber, claimed Miss Mary King as his bride, the affair centered largely about the tonsorial profession. The bride was a barber's daughter, the bridegroom was a barber, and the officiating minister, the Rev. L. C. Christmas, was a barber. The ceremony took place in the Christmas-Redict barber shop.

It is against the law not to smoke on a smoking car in the Roumanian railroad system. Any person who sits in a smoking car without puffing on a cigar, cigarette or pipe is liable to a fine amounting to 25 cents in American money.

The first message by telegraph was not the much-heralded "What hath God wrought," tapped out on a crude instrument over the Government line from Washington to Baltimore. A year earlier, in 1837, Samuel B. Morse, the inventor, sent his first message. It was: "Attention, the Universe, by kingdoms right wheel."

'BLOND BOY BANDIT' BELIEVED ARRESTED

Police Hold Chevy Chase, Md., Student in Alleged Holdup of Taximan.

The activities of the "blond boy bandit," to whom police attribute at least six holdups during as many months, police believed were curbed last night when a 15-year-old Chevy Chase, Md., youth was arrested after attempting to rob a taxi driver at the point of a toy pistol.

Shortly after 10 o'clock police of the Eighth Precinct received a call that a cab driver was being held up in the 3600 block of Grant road northwest. A detail of policemen were immediately dispatched and upon reaching the scene found Lloyd Jenkins, 35-year-old taxi driver, of Mount Rainier, Md., struggling with a young boy.

Says Youth Attempted Holdup.

The two were separated and Jenkins told police the youth attempted to rob him. At the precinct station the boy said he is John Hendrix Doran, jr., of 101 Taylor street, Chevy Chase, Md.

Jenkins said the youth hired his cab near Fourteenth and G streets northwest and asked to be driven to Connecticut avenue and Davenport street northwest. In each case, police pointed out, the "blond boy bandit" chose that vicinity for his crimes.

On reaching their destination, Jenkins related, young Doran told him to drive up Davenport street to Grant road. They had gone only a short distance, Jenkins said, when the boy stuck a hard instrument in his back and told him to "stick 'em up!"

Grabbed Him Around Neck.

Jenkins said he grabbed Doran around the neck, and as he did so the boy threw his gun out the window of the cab. Although police failed to find the pistol, Doran is said to have told them it was a toy.

Passersby saw the pair struggling and summoned police. The youth, who is a student at the Alice Deal Junior High School, told police that the crime was his first. Authorities, however, are working on the theory that he is responsible for at least six robberies.

Boy, 9, Slightly Hurt When Struck by Auto

Robert Cox, 9 years old, of 1415 Girard street northwest, was slightly injured yesterday when an automobile struck his coaster wagon at Fourteenth and Chapin streets northwest. He was treated at Sibley Hospital for bruises to his legs.

Police said the machine which struck the child was driven by Charles E. Burke, 46, of 1014½ Sixth street northeast.

Insurance Report Action Taken.

Steps to prevent temporarily the Royal Knights of America and the Columbian Fraternal Association, insurance companies, from doing business here until they have complied with the law and have filed with the District insurance commissioner their annual reports were taken in District Supreme Court yesterday. Corporation Counsel W. W. Bride and his assistant, Thomas F. Cameron, asked for an injunction against the companies until they have filed reports.

CITIZEN-SOLDIERS TAKE OATH AT CAMP

Eight hundred candidates for the Citizens Military Camp courses at Fort Washington took the oath of allegiance at a ceremony at the fort yesterday afternoon and listened to addresses by Lieut. Col. L. A. Kunzig, commanding officer of the post, and Representative Samuel A. Kendall, of Pennsylvania. In the foreground, left to right—Lieut. Col. Kunzig, Representative Kendall, Lieut. Col. Charles H. Carson, commanding officer of the Third battalion, Twelfth infantry, administering the oath; Maj. G. W. C. Whiting and Chaplain Robert H. Humphrey.

EMERGENCY RELIEF PROBLEM DISCUSSED

Federal Help for Jobless Is Stressed at Economic Conference.

Social problems incident to the economic crisis were discussed last night by D. Prentice Murphy, executive secretary of the Children's Bureau of Philadelphia, at a conference on effective measures of emergency unemployment relief held under the auspices of George Washington University.

The conference has called together more than 600 persons engaged in unemployment relief in the Middle and South Atlantic States. It will conclude today with several addresses and discussion seminars on ways to meet present conditions.

Mr. Murphy stressed the need of Federal relief in his address. He also called attention to the dangers to public health from starvation and malnutrition. He shared the program last night with Isador Lubin, of Brookings Institute, who spoke on "Trends in Underlying Economic Conditions."

Today's session will include group discussions at Corcoran Hall in the morning and afternoon, a luncheon at the Hotel Powhatan at which rehabilitation work in mining towns will be discussed by Homer Morris, of the American Friend Service committee, and a dinner at the hotel where Brig. Gen. Pelham D. Glassford, superintendent of police, will present the problem of Washington's transients, the bonus expeditionary force.

An evening session will be held at Corcoran Hall at which the following will speak: Newbold Noyes, of the Washington Star; the Rev. John O'Grady, of the National Conference of Social Work, and Rabbi Edward L. Israel, of the Municipal Commission on Employment Stabilization of Baltimore.

50 Needy Children Visit Health Farm

Vacation Starts for First Group at Volunteers' Encampment.

Fifty Washington children who otherwise would be without vacations are happy today on the Oak Lodge estate near Ammendale, Md., the first guests at the Children's Health Farm of the Volunteers of America.

The youngsters were taken to the camp yesterday after assembling at the Relief Mission of the Volunteers, 471 Pennsylvania avenue northwest.

Capt. Arthur Wise, regional commander, and Capt. Jennie Ingram, superintended the movement of the first party to the camp. During the summer they expect to take more than 1,000 underprivileged children to the farm in groups of 100 or more.

Four Boys Held in Clothing Theft.

Charged with stealing seven suits of clothing from the store of Harry Mormon, 1025 Seventh street northwest, four colored boys yesterday were ordered held for the grand jury when they were arraigned in Police Court. They are Albert and Robert Williams, Richard Washington and Melvin Fields.

Alabama Youth Held In Attack and Theft

Police are holding Cecil Jenkins, 19, Tuscaloosa, Ala., in connection with the robbery of $63 from Dudley T. Hassan, 67, 3528 Quebec street northwest, Wednesday. Hassan's assailant is said to have slashed at him with a razor, cutting him severely.

Jenkins is said to have admitted the attack, explaining that he wanted money so that he would not have to sleep in the park. He said that he had not wished to harm Hassan.

Personnel Board To Do All Hiring

Given Duty of Handling Vacancies in Local Government.

The District personnel board, upon its own request, was given the duty yesterday by the District Commissioners of handling the filling of all vacancies in the District government. Stephen E. Kramer, first assistant superintendent of schools, was made a member of the board to replace Maj. R. O. Wilmarth.

This board henceforth will prepare all the necessary data for submission to the director of the Bureau of the Budget whenever a vacancy arises in the District service that officials believe should be filled. All records will thus be centralized and a proper sequence of the number of new employes may be kept in accordance with the budget director's rules.

One of the first problems to come before the board will be that of whether President Hoover should be asked to sign an executive order authorizing the appointment of an orderly for Gallinger Hospital.

Penal Institutions Cut Price on Work

10 Per Cent Slash Is Made in Cost of Products and Services.

The District penal institutions, following the trend of the large department stores and the small shops, have cut their prices for products and services 10 per cent, effective July 1, George S. Wilson, director of public welfare, informed the District Commissioners yesterday.

The price of auto tags remains at 11 cents a pair, as last year, however, because the new form of envelope required for mailing costs $16.90 per thousand, as against $3.06 for the envelope formerly used. The price of brick was reduced $2 a thousand.

These products and services, which range from laundry to mechanical work, are purchased by the various departments and institutions of the District and Federal Governments.

Medical Club Tenders Luncheon to Austrian

Prof. Erich Ruttin, outstanding Austrian otologist, was the guest of honor at luncheon tendered him yesterday by the International Medical Club at the Mayflower Hotel. The Minister of Austria, Edgar Prochnik, delivered a short talk.

The Austrian scientist, who is touring America and lecturing in principal cities, gave a scientific lecture to the medical men gathered to honor him. The group is composed of American and foreign physicians.

INNOCENCE PLEADED BY MEANS AND 'FOX'

Charges of Conspiracy to Defraud Mrs. McLean Denied by Both.

Arrainged in District Supreme Court yesterday on an indictment charging them with conspiring to defraud Mrs. Evalyn Walsh McLean of $104,000, Norman T. Whitaker and Gaston B. Means formally entered denials of their guilt.

Both men were hurried back to the District Jail by a squad of deputy United States marshals. Means is awaiting an appeal from a sentence of fifteen years given him following his conviction of stealing $104,000 from Mrs. McLean, and Whitaker is detained because he can not raise a $100,000 bond. He reserved the right to change his plea later.

Whitaker, known as "The Fox" in the alleged plot to mulct Mrs. McLean, informed Justice F. D. Letts as he was being arraigned that he had no lawyer. Unless he gets one soon, one will be assigned by the court to defend him. Means and Whitaker allegedly conspired to defraud Mrs. McLean by telling her they could effect the return of the Lindbergh baby.

Claiming that he had "information" relating to Whitaker, Ralph M. Easley, of the National Civic Federation, attempted to see United States Attorney Leo A. Rover to present the information. He was denied an audience, though Mr. Rover's secretary told him to put his information in writing and send it in. He departed after informing persons in the office he would write to Mr. Rover.

Man and Girl Hurt In Auto Accident

Both Remain in Hospital; Driver of Second Car Is Uninjured.

One man is in Casualty Hospital with a possible fracture of the skull and his girl companion is in undetermined condition with severe lacerations, following an automobile accident last night at Fourth and D streets northeast.

George H. Parkman, 30 years old, of 1710 D street northwest, who was driving one of the machines, suffered lacerations and bruises and physicians feared his skull was fractured. Mary Bobskill, 19 years old, of 1216 Sixteenth street northwest, who was a passenger in Parkman's car, received injuries that forced her to remain at the hospital.

Police said Parkman's car was in collision with the machine of Andrew R. Charters, 49 years old, of 19 M street northwest. He was uninjured.

Child Burned Severely Playing With Matches

A 5-year-old girl suffered painful burns last night when her dress ignited as she played with matches in the yard of her home, 1224 G street southeast.

The child, Dolores Hicks, was taken to Casualty Hospital by the Fire Rescue Squad. She suffered severe burns to her face, head and body. Her condition was described as undetermined.

Senate Page, on Errand, Falls and Breaks Arm

Stumbling as he ran on an errand, Wayne Oates, 15, Senate page, fell and broke his left arm in the Democratic cloak room of the Senate yesterday. He was treated at Naval Hospital.

The lad was sponsored for his pageship by Senator Ellison D. Smith (Democrat), of South Carolina, and has been here during the last two sessions of Congress.

Marcher Gets 30 Days for Punch.

A mess sergeant has troubles enough, what with a rapidly diminishing larder, without someone taking a punch at him. It was held in Police Court yesterday when Dewey L. Atkins, a bonus marcher, was given 30 days for striking Thomas Bishop, one of the army's mess sergeants.

Door Open, Radio Is Stolen.

A radio receiver valued at $30 was stolen from the home of John Russ, 1702 Second street northwest, yesterday. Entrance was gained through the front door, which was open.

Rum Possession Charged to Man.

Joseph Stonfield, 49, who said he lived at the Soldiers' Home, was arrested yesterday and charged with illegal possession of twelve quarts of alleged liquor.

CURB IS REQUESTED ON FOOD HUCKSTERS

Commissioners Are Asked by Trade Groups to Draft New Rules.

The District Commissioners yesterday heard complaints against street and sidewalk hucksters who peddle food in competition with established stores and instructed Vernon E. West, acting corporation counsel, and Edward W. Thomas, assistant corporation counsel, to determine what regulations might be drafted to curb the activities of these mobile merchants.

The hearing was held in compliance with petitions filed by the Retail Grocers Protective Association and the Georgia Avenue Business Men's Association, but representatives of a half dozen or more other trade organizations appeared to protest against the hucksters. Little was said in the peddlers' defense.

Foremost among the complaints was that the license fee for the hucksters is too small in comparison with the costs of operating a grocery; that the hucksters are not subject to health and sanitation inspections as are the stores, and that even the present regulations limiting the parking time of the peddlers to half an hour are not enforced.

Some of the grocers stated that the hucksters often parked directly in front of their places of business. Particular mention was made of the growing number of sidewalk salesmen who market vegetables and flowers on F and G streets, between Fourteenth and Ninth streets. Protests against the many ice cream wagons also were voiced.

"We have no desire to put these hucksters out of business," E. J. Reamer, attorney for the Retail Grocers Protective Association, said, "but we do want them regulated."

It was brought out by District officials that an attempt has been made to prohibit the sale of gasoline on the streets, but that a petition for an injunction is now pending in court.

Among others who protested against the activities of the hucksters were Isaac Gans, of the Washington Chamber of Commerce; Robert J. Cottrell, of the Merchants and Manufacturers Association; Dr. Paul Pearson, Retail Druggists Association; John Brayshaw and F. A. Dodge, president and secretary, Retail Grocers Protective Association; and representatives of the Federation of Business Men's Associations, the Northeast Business Men's Association, the Central Business Men's Association, the District Grocery Stores and the Southeast Business Men's Association.

Hearing Arranged On Dairy Prices

Senator Capper Announces Meeting Today on King Resolution.

A hearing on the King resolution, calling for a Senate District committee investigation of dairy prices in the District, will be held at 2:30 p. m. today, Chairman Arthur Capper announced.

Senator Capper, who personally does not believe there is any reason for a local dairy investigation, said, however, he wanted to lay the matter before the committee. Senator William H. King (Democrat), of Utah, wants the investigation conducted this summer, simultaneously with the Capper inquiry into District rents.

Man Dies in Hospital After Taking Poison

Poison swallowed yesterday by Curtis Brown, 28, in the bathroom of his apartment at 226 Massachusetts avenue, proved fatal shortly after he was taken to Casualty Hospital.

He was found ill by his wife, Mrs. May Brown, and he is said to have told her that he had taken a number of poison tablets. The narcotics squad is analyzing the contents of the bottle from which the tablets were taken.

Boy, 9, Killed by Auto Operated by Woman

Harry Turner, 9, colored, 1519 P street northwest, was killed yesterday near Fifteenth and P streets northwest when an automobile operated by Gonevia Maxfield Pierre, 38, colored, 2124 L street northwest, struck him. The boy died at Gallinger Hospital.

The driver of the vehicle was held to appear at an inquest in the boy's death.

Boy, 5, Dies of Lockjaw; Ran Splinter Into Hand

A splinter, which stuck in his hand while playing July 2, yesterday cost the life of Rudolph Dazanzo, 5 years old, of 200 Massachusetts avenue northwest. He died in Providence Hospital of lockjaw.

Rudolph was playing with companions in the yard of his home when he ran a splinter into his hand. Yesterday the hand began to swell and lockjaw set in.

Theft of Tires Reported.

The basement window of 1737 Johnson avenue northwest was broken early yesterday and two tires valued at $22 were reported stolen.

THE NEW CINEMA OFFERINGS

EARLE

"WINNER TAKE ALL." Warner Brothers picturization of a story by Gerald Beaumont, starring James Cagney, with Marian Nixon, Dickie Moore and Virginia Bruce. Directed by Roy Del Ruth. Reviewed Friday afternoon.

By NELSON B. BELL.

Cut from the same pattern as "The Big Timer," starring Ben Lyon and Constance Cummings, and "Society Girl," with Jimmy Dunn and Peggy Shannon, this rousing romance of the prize ring, the Park avenue drawing rooms and the wide open spaces of the West excels both of its predecessors in speed and comedy as conspicuously as it lags behind them in finesse and honest characterization.

This is to say that "Winner Take All" is the best "theater" of the three. Its characters all may be extravagantly overdrawn—as they assuredly are—and the action may be roughly slam-bang all the way, but no audience will ever be bored watching it and as long as Jimmy Cagney is as funny as he is in the role of the buzz-saw lightweight who fights himself out, goes West to recuperate, comes back in triumph to the Garden and falls for the society racket, what difference whether it is believable or not? It is at least a lot of fun and at this season of the year that is about all that matters.

Mr. Cagney is the fictional pug to the life in this one—nose splattered all over his face cauliflower ears, diction that has been thickened by many socks in the kisser, and all the rest of it. In the climax of the picture he even borrows a bit from his pal, Mr. Edward G. Robinson, in "Smart Money" and piles Virginia Bruce up in the corner much as Margaret Livingston was heaped outside Mr. Robinson's office door! Not delicate, but delightfully diverting!

Marian Nixon, as the chorus girl down on her luck; Virginia Bruce, as the blonde millionairess, and little Dickie Moore contribute notably to the effectiveness of a film in which Guy Kibbee, Clarence Muse, Ralf Harolde and Esther Howard are prominent.

Al Trahan, "vaudeville's Paderough-ski," assisted by Miss Yukoma Cameron, a satuesque blonde, runs away with the stage portion of the entertainment, uniformly excellent as it is. Mr. Trahan is a priceless clown, with a fine voice and real virtuosity as a pianist, who garners his laughs by the shock! Lester Cole, popular radio tenor, and his Sixteen Soldiers of Fortune offer robust solo and ensemble singing, and Tim Ryan and Irene Noblette score with a deal of nondescript nonsense. The bill is opened by Ann Pritchard, Frank Hyer and Eddie Pritchard in a dance interlude that affords Maxine Doyle opportunity to display the first of a series of smart new frocks.

Ruth Etting in a first-rate singing skit, "The Mail Bride," Universal News, featuring the Democratic convention's closing hour, and orchestral prelude complete a pretty swell frolic.

METROPOLITAN

"BROKEN WING." Paramount picturization of a play by Paul Dickey and Charles Goddard, featuring Lupe Velez, Leo Carillo and Melvyn Douglas. Directed by Lloyd Corrigan. "SOUTH SEA ADVENTURES." Narrated by Wedgwood Nowell. Reviewed Friday evening by W. A. Whitney.

Paramount's camera newshawks have done it! Combining the most astute bit of showmanship of lo, these many months with a sense of humor and timeliness, these gentlemen offer Canon Chase and two of his cohorts keynoting the Prohibition party's national convention in Indianapolis. A news shot in its strictest sense, it carries a dramatic and excruciating kick that makes the remaining features of the program hustle to maintain their stellar status!

Other accounts of piscatorial adventures have been screened with telling effect, but none has reached those rare heights of dramatic treatment attained by Zane Grey's own account of his landing a 1,300-pound giant striped marlin swordfish off the coast of Tahiti. Weather conditions contrived, through cloudy and rainy weather and consequent high seas, to militate against the best camera work, but the terrific struggle of man and fish transcends such captious considerations.

"South Sea Adventures," while not overlooking anything in the way of scenic beauty and native life, is primarily a tale of the expedition of the yacht Fisherman.

In the "fiction" portion of the bill, Leo Carrillo does the swellest imitation imaginable of Lowell Sherman imitating the Cisco Kid, with a dash of Carrilloan gangster tossed in for good measure. Capt. Innocencio is the Poo Bah of a "South American" semijungle village, reigning supreme until Phil Marvin's airplane crashes during a forced landing in a thunderstorm. Lolita, expecting her future husband to make some such precipitous entry (the cards have told her so), falls in love with him, thus incurring the ire of the captain. From then on the picture falls into a screaming burlesque.

Mr. Carrillo does a great job, dominating every scene, although leaving Lupe Velez plenty of opportunity for her talents. Melvyn Douglas as the aviator, is very acceptable, as is George Barbier as Miss Velez's foster father.

Swell entertainment—and how!—all three parts.

LOEW'S FOX

"ALMOST MARRIED." Fox picturization of "The Devil's Triangle," a novel by Andrew Soutar, featuring Violet Heming, Alexander Kirkland and Ralph Bellamy. Directed by William C. Menzies. Reviewed Friday afternoon.

By NELSON B. BELL.

The most noteworthy feature of the new bill at the Fox is the revelation of what scant justice the screen has done Conchita Montenegro. Gifted and vivacious, this fascinating young woman projects across the footlights a personality, a vivid beauty of both face and figure and an ingratiating charm that the cameras have never quite caught nor the microphones completely apprehended.

Her personal appearance as star of the "On the Riviera" revue is introduced by a castanet dance that is gracefully and skillfully executed in a picturesque costume typical of Old Spain, of which Senorita Montenegro is a native. This is followed by a scene in pantomime and dance, reproduced from the picture, "Never the Twain Shall Meet," in which Miss Montenegro appeared with Leslie Howard. Then a bit with Phil Lampkin and a concluding American rhythm dance. You will find Senorita Conchita Montenegro a more utterly delightful young woman than you have ever imagined, even from the most colorful of her film performances.

"On the Riviera" also boasts Lottie Mayer's sumptuous aquatic act, with its disappearing diving girls who divest themselves of apparel at every submergence and finally pose in a stunning stage picture. "Red" Donohue and Uno, a sagacious comedian, offer an act literally "with a kick," and Edwin George, "nearly a juggler," converts every miss into a cause of laughter—of which he gets plenty—to add to the variety of the goings-on. The Sunkist Diving Beauties serve other useful purposes in several diversified dance routines.

"Almost Married" could have been left unwritten without detraction from the sum total of the world's dramatic riches. It visualies the murderous enterprises of a homicidal maniac, driven to extremes of cunning cruelty by the seeming perfidy of his wife, bigamously married to a young Englishman whom she had encountered in an attempt to evade the Red police at the Russian border. It was a relief to all concerned when Luis Capristi, alias Charles Pringle, was shot off the cornice of a studio apartment and plunged to his death below.

Violet Heming, a former Washington stock favorite, is cast in the principal feminine role, with Ralph Bellamy as her second husband and Alexander Kirkland as her first. Mr. Kirkland offers the most flamboyant performance of the three.

A Charley Chase comedy, "First in War;" a "Flip the Frog" cartoon, "School Days," no nicer than it should be; James A. Fitzpatrick's "The World Dances" and overture, "Slavonic Rhapsody," complete the variegated program.

Holy Name Heads To Meet Tuesday

Spiritual Directors and Presidents of Affiliated Parishes Summoned.

A special meeting of all the spiritual directors and president of affiliated parishes of the Washington Section of the Baltimore Archdiocesan Union of the Holy Name Society will be held in Immaculate Conception Hall, Eighth and N streets northwest, on Tuesday, at 7:45 p. m. Matters of importance to the entire membership will be presented for discussion.

Wednesday, July 27, has been designated as Holy Name night at the Holy Comforter George Washington Bicentennial Carnival, to be held on the school campus, Fifteenth and East Capitol streets, it has been announced by Lieut. Col. William L. Peak, vice president of the Washington Section. The Holy Comforter Boys' Band will entertain throughout the evening.

Plans are under way to an extension of organization work in the Holy Name Society here. During the coming fall and winter new branches will be formed in high schools and colleges in the Washington area and old branches which have ceased to exist will be revived. Much enthusiasm has been aroused in recent weeks along Holy Name lines. In many parishes the men have taken a very active part in church festivals and religious demonstrations.

Pocketbooks and $35 Bag Stolen.

H. L. Offutt yesterday reported to police that thieves entered his home, 1821 Lamont street northwest, and escaped with several pocketbooks and a traveling bag valued at $35.

Policeman Hurt in Ball Game.

Policeman James C. Conway, 28, attached to the Third Precinct, suffered a twisted right knee yesterday in a baseball game at Quantico, Va. He was treated at the police clinic.

East Washington Celebration Today

Homecoming Program to Be Held at Stadium of High School.

East Washington's homecoming celebration, postponed since Independence Day because of inclement weather, will be staged at Eastern High School Stadium, beginning at 9:30 today.

The frolic, held under the auspices of a number of East Washington civic groups, will comprise a large program of athletic events for which prizes were donated by business men of the section.

A baseball game between the Monte Weaver Midgets and the New Haven Midgets is on the program. Joseph Mitchell and Benjamin Kail, of the District Playground Department, will direct athletic events.

Man's Death Held Suicide.

A verdict of suicide was returned yesterday by a coroner's jury in the death of Harrison Mourning, 40, who was found dead in his car in a garage at 1317 Irving street northwest, Thursday.

Child Cut in Crash of Glass.

Robert Pendleton, 9, suffered severe lacerations to his wrist yesterday when a cellar window against which he was leaning at his home, 5003 Seventh street northwest, broke under his weight.

PALACE

"REBECCA OF SUNNYBROOK FARM." Fox picturization of the play by Kate Douglas Wiggin and Charlotte Thompson, featuring Marian Nixon, Ralph Bellamy and Louis Closser Hale. Directed by Alfred Santell. Reviewed Friday night by Dorothea Lewis.

Rebecca Rowena (out of Ivanhoe) Randall of Sunnybrook is back! In fact, all of them—Dr. Adam Ladd, who couldn't grow an impressive beard; Aunt Miranda, of the terrifying bark; Auntie Jane, Mr. Simpson, the atheist and scissors grinder—are here again for a week of sweetness, sentiment and sunnyness, praise be.

The story of little Rebecca, eldest of the seven "slice children" which Lorenzo DeMedici Randall left his wife, a Stewart from the white house (Maine, not D. C.), as his sole legacy, and her journey to the big white house to win over her estranged aunts is too well known and loved to tell.

Her little victories and her big defeats, her heartbreaks and her fun, her desertion of the Ladies Aid Christmas party to ride with Dr. Ladd on an errand of mercy for the outcast Simpsons, her fight to save Aunt Miranda's life, and her love for Dr. Adam are all told here so charmingly, so deftly and sincerely that Director Santell and his cast deserve high praise.

The lovely little Nixon girl is so utterly believable, lovable and all-'round excellent that we can't remember anyone in the past, think of anyone in the present, or prophesy anyone for the future who could better fit or play the role.

Louise Closser Hale, grimaces, explosions and all, is an eternal delight as Aunt Miranda, the martinet, giting a grand performance, while that sweet Mae Marsh is good in the considerably smaller role of Aunt Jane. The tall, broad-shouldered, attractive Ralph Bellamy, who's been hero and villain by turns recently, gives an exceedingly pleasant performance as Dr. Adam and Alan Hale does nobly by Mr. Simpson.

A riotous Laurel and Hardy comedy, snappy sportorial, "Timber Toppers," and an unusually interesting newsreel complete a bill for everyone.

COLUMBIA

"SHOP ANGEL." Tower picturization of the story by Isola Forrester, featuring Marion Shilling and Holmes Herbert. Directed by E. Mason Hopper. Reviewed Friday night by Don B. Reed.

There is one thing new in this story. It is a yarn about a girl who refuses to fall for the rich villain, but who nevertheless succeeds in getting herself into all the jams which since motion pictures were invented have befallen the girls who succumb to the easy life.

"Shop Angel" is weak in plot. There is little, if any, suspense. And, unfortunately, it has no "names" to carry it. Marion Shilling is passable as Dorothy Hayes, the heroine, and Holmes Herbert does a neat job as Mr. Kennedy, the lurer of young girls. The juvenile lead is played by Anthony Bushell, who does rather well, but Walter Byron's performance as a blackmailer is decidedly below par. Dorothy Christie is in a minor role as Kennedy's snobbish daughter.
